Merry Christmas for All

Christmas eve was made an occasion of pleasure for Carolina employees through a tree and card party. Bellman "Sam" Lacks made an ideal Santa. ¶ There was also a novel outdoor tree for the colored residents, and a similar affair for the white employees, Behr's orchestra furnishing music.

"Western, Masculine, and Witty"

"Western, masculine, and witty," said Harper's Weekly about Sports Afield, and here you have in three words the fascination this magazine holds for sportsmen.

B. P. HERRIMAN THE WINNER of three up on the fourteenth, but he lost the next three holes, with the climax on the seventeenth, where Gallagher's ball rimmed the cup. The eighteenth was halved in five, Amory winning the extra hole, 5-6. ¶ Amory's semi-final with C. J. Morse of Wollaston also required an extra hole, and W. V. Booth of Onwentsia carried him twenty holes in the first round. ¶ Booth won the consolation from E. B. Pratt of Boston by four and two.

Becker was the star of Tuesday's play, with two clean-cut wins. One up at the turn in his first round with George H. Crocker of Brookline, he lost the tenth and eleventh, halved the twelfth and thirteenth, lost the fourteenth to a two, but won the next three holes and the match with a halve on the eighteenth. ¶ The Woodland golfer was one hole to the good at the turn in his afternoon match with W. V. Booth, Jr., of Onwentsia, and he was three up on the fourteenth, losing the fifteenth and sixteenth and halving the seventeenth for the match two and one. ¶ Father defeated son in the second round of the fourth division in the persons of J. T. McCaddon and J. T. McCaddon, Jr., while W. V. Booth, Jr., and W. V. Booth played in the first and fourth divisions.

All in all, the contest was one of many thrills and numerous surprises, the entrance of eighty-seven a record for this tournament.
