Mrs. Henry R. Smith's Birthday

The birthday anniversary of Mrs. Henry R. Smith of Leominster was the occasion of a delightful dinner party at The Holly Inn on Saturday. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Richardson and Mr. Henry R. Smith also of Leominster, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Blatchford of Chicago.

Big Crowd Enjoys Gymkhana

Tuesday afternoon's equestrian gymkhana claimed the attention of several hundred onlookers whose enthusiasm was indicative of the popularity of this form of entertainment. ¶ One period of polo opened the program which also included the thrilling pursuit race and the amusing bonnet, cigar and candle, potato spearing, apple, and ball and bucket contests. ¶ Master of Fox Hounds, James T. Twitty, put two trick horses through their paces, and a cavalry drill was much enjoyed; The Carolina orchestra furnished music during the afternoon. ¶ The list of contestants included Messrs. Souther, Whitcomb, Rogers, Gunn, Farrell and Andrews and Masters Pew and McCadden. Joining in the cavalry drill were Mesdames Tufts, Porter, DeHaven, Van Cleif, Miss Abbe, Messrs. Roberts and Pratt, Masters Sherman and Hunter. ¶ Plans are making for an even more elaborate contest during the week, as well as a paper chase and saddle picnic.

May Not Defend Her Title

PINEHURST, N. C., March 15, 1914.—The probability is that Miss Gladys Ravenscroft, the English girl who holds the national amateur golf championship, will not return to defend her title next year. ¶ "You see I came for weeks and I have remained months," said Miss Ravenscroft, "and I doubt very much if father will consent to my return." ¶ "Perhaps he will relent," suggested Mrs. Barlow. ¶ "Perhaps," was Miss Ravenscroft's reply.—New York Sun.

The Imaginative Correspondent

PINEHURST, N. C., March 22, 1914.—The Philadelphia news dispatch announcing that Miss Gladys Ravenscroft, the English girl who holds the American golf championship, discredits the Pinehurst interview saying that she would probably not return to defend her title, is denied today by Miss Ravenscroft in a telegram sent from Philadelphia to your correspondent in response to a query:—"Did not say I would return—papers imagination—(signed) Ravenscroft."
