The Messrs. Page Entertain Classmate At Country Club Supper

Messrs. Frank C. and Ralph W. Page are responsible for an entertainment suggestion which promises much popularity; a Country Club supper. Twelve covers were laid, with Mr. F. A. Otis, a college classmate, as the guest of honor, and the spread Mrs. Manning's best, which is good! ¶ Also enjoying the evening were: Messrs. Irving Wright, Beals Wright, James Boyd, Thomas Kelley, A. S. Newcomb, I. S. Robeson, H. A. Mackinney, C. M. Bull and Roger A. Derby. ¶ Mr. and Mrs. A. Bryan Alley gave a Club House luncheon for Mr. and Mrs. Irving S. Robeson, and many golfers find the kind of things Dolly makes—or mother used to make—awaiting them in the lunch room.

The All-Absorbing Game

There's a game called golf, today,
That men and women love to play.
When once they learn to get "the swing"
They think it is the "only thing"
And when they come to "follow through"
Five miles seems but a rod or two
To chase the pesky little ball,
If they can hit the thing at all!
¶ It's such an all-absorbing game,
It puts your petty cares to shame,
For tired nerves it's surely "great"—
So take it up ere it's too late!
