ITTLE FOLKS IN PAGEANT THE SAND-CLAY

They Contributed An Important Part To Annual Sandhilis Fair

The little folks of the Community Pinehurst contributed an important part to the Sandhills Fair of October last; an annual event which bids fair to claim the attention of early season tourists, for well worth a special journey it is. ¶ Secretary Clyde L. Davis of the Board of Trade wrote the story in verse, wrote it mighty cleverly, and these children recalled the history of the section in the following characters:

| Sir Walter Raleigh   | Frank Page   |
|----------------------|--|
| Indian               | Wimberly Bowman  |
| Colonist             | Cecil Ferrell  |
| Highlander           | James Fagan  |
| Confederate Soldier  | Melvin Creel   |
| Lumberman            | Kenneth Keith  |
| Turpentine Hand      | Elton Weldon   |
| Tourist              | Daniel Alfred  |
| Farmer               | Harold McKeithan   |
| Virginia Dare        | Miss Janet Leach   |
| say by way of introd | Valter Raleigh had toluction, and it's sug-re story of several |

Used to farm in Kansas; Land was awful high; Kept a-gettin' poorer— Likewise so did I. Hard-pan reached the fence wires; Blizzards used to blizz; Frost would kill the orchard; Wife had rheumatiz. Season dry as brick dust— Three year in succession— Sold an' went to Dixie Bought a big plantation.

Land was rich as Croesus Raise most anything; Summers hot as Hades 'Skeeters how they'd sting! Folks was mostly niggers. Ager pills was board, Not a decent school, ner Church to praise the Lord. Wife was gettin' homesick Dwellin' in a bog— Packed my household plunder Whistled fer the dog.

Comin' through the Sandhills Saw a painted sign: "Land is inexpensive, Socially we're fine; Best of health and climate Wondrous yields are made." Saw the Secretary Sand Hill Board of Trade. Bought a piece of farm land Worked to beat creation Fired a million questions at Th' farm association.

Wouldn't sell fer money Health is simply great Fortune comes a-jumpin' In the Old North State. Raisin' bright tobaccer, Cotton, corn an' fruit, Lots of pigs and chickens— Garden sass to boot— Sunday school an' day school, Work and also play; 'Low to start from here on Resurrection Day!

¶ Best of all there's to be another one next October.

Motor Tourist Comments Favorably Upon Their Excellence

"It's always appeared to me as being rather curious," said a Carolina guest, who has toured extensively, the other evening, "that the good roads of the immediate section are not more generally and favorably commented on. Personally, I have never seen their equal, under normal conditions. ¶"To be sure wet weather puts them out of condition for a short time, but they are speedily restored to normal and they have certainly transformed the section. In the White Mountains, for instance, about all they talk about are their roads, and taken mile for mile they are not in the same class with those which open up the section round about Pinehurst.

"I judge that some of the present season difficulty in various localities is due to the fact that new material added last fall did not get a chance to set because of wet weather, but as a matter fact, these roads look a good deal worse than they really are. In my experience I have found them reasonable at all seasons.

"To my mind your perpetual maintenance policy is an innovation which should be adopted everywhere, for the general impression that the good roads subject is solved as soon as the road is built, is altogether too prevalent."

A Preachment With a Moral

Thank God for a sense of humor if you possess it. If not cultivate the habit. Past average human understanding is the effect upon condition of "condition of mind." ¶Sometimes we really consider Christian Science seriously—but the fact is we can't quite overcome the "belief" that there is a pond on the tenth hole! ¶And the moral is—"forget it!"

"Money or Marbles"

Bridge—"money or marbles"—you'll find a congenial trio waiting for you at Carolina, Inn or Berkshire. ¶ Rather a nice way to round out an evening.

Send THE OUTLOOK to your friends.
