PARISH, KERR AND ROBESON

J. C. Parrish, Jr., of the National Club found I. S. Robeson of Oak Hill still in the game in the first round. Going out Parrish had much the best of it, winning four and losing one hole, but coming in Robeson rallied and won the tenth, thirteenth and sixteenth, losing the eleventh and halving the remainder, a 3 for Parrish on the seventeenth where Robeson was in trouble, giving him a match by two and one. ¶ Next in line the National golfer met defeat by the same score at the hands of Kerr; the score all even at the turn and the cards forty-two each. Kerr took the tenth in 4, but lost the eleventh to a 5, and clinched the match with wins in 4, 5 and 6 on the next three holes, where Parrish was in more or less trouble. The fifteenth was a halve in a par 3, and Parrish won the sixteenth in a bogey 5, but lost the match with a halve on the seventeenth.

James D. Foot, the Apawamis veteran, showed some of the old-time form which won for him most of the tournaments here several seasons ago, with a three and one consolation victory over Clapp. ¶ Extra hole matches characterized play in the lower divisions, providing daily diversion for the "Club House gallery," two matches requiring twenty-one holes, with F. P. Lee of Framingham up against twenty, nineteen and twenty-one-hole
