

THE PINEHURST OUTLOOK

VOL. XIX, NO. 2

SATURDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 11, 1915

FIVE CENTS

ONCE AGAIN THE WINNER

Hunter Goes off With the Cup. Hennessee Wins the Governors' Trophy

Schuyler Phillips, J. R. Goodall.
E. J. Cornelis and J. A. Allen
Come in for Honors

ON NOVEMBER 23d the old guard assembled again, the lists were opened, and new fairways given their maiden try-out. Let friendship cease and the play begin. We that only stand and wait watched the champions whang into the the dim distance from the first tee, and lingered with suspended interest and pencil for the scores to develop.

Forty-two aspirants for the President's trophy started on the perilous journey against bogey and the cup. 75-38 out and 37 in—is no mean performance for the first qualifying round of the season. This was Hunter's record. R. C. Shannon 2d of Brockport waltzed in second with 83, and Donald Parson 3d in 89.

Hunter walked away with the first division. J. A. Allen went down, 5 and 4. George F. Brown, from Huntingdon Valley, met the same fate. Tom Kelley from over the way improved on this to the extent of surviving to the sixteenth hole.

Schuyler Phillips of Saegkill, who was runner-up in the contest, having successively disposed of H. A. Waldron, the hunter, C. L. Becker and R. C. Shannon 2d, found he was no match for the champion. The final round found Hunter winner six up and five to play.

GOVERNORS' TROPHY

The second division was more closely contested. In the second round S. A. Hennessee, who finally carried off the honors, defeated H. G. Phillips from Southern Pines, 2 and 1. He took the final round with the same score from J. R. Goodall of Bellerieve.

The Consolation round in the first division was taken handily by J. A. Allen after the closest possible match with F. D. Wilkerson in the first round. Allen finally got away with this, 1 up, nineteen holes. E. J. Cornelis, Ardsley, decamped with the consolation prize in the second division.

The next tournament will find this invaluable paper represented on the links by a clairvoyant and a hard critic of the game, whose business it will be to rejoice in the innumerable errors displayed in the course of the battle, and to render a little discriminating half praise to those that show nerve and surpassing skill in critical or pretty positions. For the present the disappointed public will be glad to be let off with the scores, which follow:

TIN WHISTLES FROLICS

Gathered for First Try-out November Twenty-second

R. A. Swigert of Palmetto Has Best Selected Score for Twelve Holes At Pinehurst

A GOLF game is a frolic, isn't it? And if played for the innate sport of the thing and a silver memento under the pleasing traditions of the eleventh hole and the potent whistle, it might almost be called a festival.

The hosts gathered at the shrine for the first try-out on November 22d, in Match Play against Bogey, and a reward in the shape of an almond set of seven pieces, the gift of Mr. C. H. Lay of Oil City.

We are astonished to relate that Mr. H. A. Waldron beat old Mr. Bogey by the slight margin of 9 up. This has seldom been done, even in the ancient annals of the Tin Whistle. The explanation must be that Bogey gave Waldron some nominal handicap.

On the 29th the frolic was resumed in Medal Play for a trophy supplied by Mr. H. W. Priest. There were two classes of 14 each in an entry of 28. This resulted in a close and bitter contest between R. C. Shannon 2d and C. L. Becker who came into the finish dead heat with net scores of 71 apiece. Shannon won the play-off by reason of two to spare in the handicap, demonstrated as follows:

FIRST ROUND—Shannon	82—11	71
Becker	80—9	71
PLAY OFF—Shannon	87—11	76
Becker	87—9	78

J. R. Goodall, Bellerieve, won the second class, and the prize given by Mr. F. C. Abbey, with a net score of 76.

The third round in the season's progress was a triumph for Colonel R. A. Swigert. It was a medal play, best selected twelve holes, six from each nine, for prizes presented by E. M. Taft and the club. His net score was 43. T. A. Kelly, the humorist, from Southern Pines, and R. H. Hunt, Worcester, tied for second honors with 44. The totals follow:

MEDAL PLAY, NOVEMBER 29TH

CLASS A

R. C. Shannon 2d, Brockport	82—11	71
C. L. Becker, Woodland	80—9	71
