Takes St. Thomas Tournament
Trophy Handily from
Eric Parson

THE annual St. Thomas Tennis Tournament led to the discovery that Phil Carter is formidable with the racquet as well as with the driver. He met E. J. Bevan of the Harrisburg Country Club and at first appeared an easy mark. He lost the first set 6-2, and seemed slated for the also rans. Bevan made a game fight to take the match, and was very near it. But finally the golf champion hit his pace and pulled out the second set 7-5, after which there was no more debate, although some very pretty play. Carter walked away with the last 6-0.

Eric Parson, headmaster of the Pinehurst School showed the boys how it is done, a result of years on the courts at Groton. He was up against Paul Dana, late of Williams, and now a follower of the plow and the Bucolic Life near the village. Dana put up a good game but it was no use. Parson took the match in straight sets, 7-5, 6-4.

In spite of a threatening sky Carter and Parson met for the finals of the tournament on a slow court Thursday. The opening set gave an indication of the outcome, Parson being hardly able to handle the New York player. Parson seemed to have the speed, and attempted
