SKEHENS TAKES THE MEDAL

Guilford and Bellamy Second in Qualification of the United North and South

They Both Beat Carter by a Stroke. The Fastest Field Ever Entered in the Classic Tournament

CHARLES SKEHENS of Lake Forest, Illinois, and the Woods Hole Club, paired with Phil Carter of Nassau, hitherto without a peer on the Pinehurst links this season, electrified the club by returning a card of 73 in the qualifying round of the United North and South Championship tournament, beating the invincible by five strokes, and winning the medal. Not only that, but he was a clear four strokes ahead of Jesse Guilford, the famous driver who last year trimmed Ouimet in five out of his seven tournament matches with him, eight ahead of Rodney Brown and eleven better than Bill Chick of redoubtable memory. Up to the fourteenth hole on this round he displayed a brand of golf that is practically unbeatable, being two strokes ahead of par at that point. He lost a stroke on par on each of the last four holes and still finished in seventy-three.

Carter, whose play was watched with so much interest by a concourse who have come to believe him infallible—and in passing it may be remarked that he may still be, his long suit being matches and not medal play—spoiled his usual consistent game at the very beginning, taking twelve strokes on the first two holes where many a hopeful opponent has seen him make two fours without any apparent effort.

Jesse Guilford was second in the contest, tied with C. J. Bellamy, a formidable player from Springfield whose edging ahead of Carter was also a surprise. W. M. Paul of Mecklenburg and Ned Beall of Uniontown tied with C. E. VanVleck, Jr., the Baltusrol expert with eighty each. F. W. Dyer of Montclair, regarded as one of the most dangerous of the entries, had to be content with an 83, and William Chick of Brookline, famous throughout the golfing world, returned a card of 84. This was equalled by C. L. Becker and Donald Parson, members of the local club and permanent figures on the Pinehurst links.

The standard of play in the tournament surpasses that of any previous year, witnessed by the fact that more than a hundred cards below one hundred were turned in. The Summary:

JIM BARNES' PURSE

Atlantic Beach Professional Wins the Open Championship

Hackney Makes the Course in 70. Equalling the Record and Dividing Second Place With Kerrigan

LINED up for that historic contest, the Annual North and South Open Championship on Saturday was an array of champions. Recounting them calls to mind the memorable occasion when Grecian Helen pointed out the heroes to old Priam from the walls of Troy. Every man was a host in himself, and the battle-scarred veteran of many victories. Foremost there was Gil Nichols, Metropolitan open champion, favorite of the prophets, master of golf. Then there came the Western open champion, the famous professional Tom McNamara, and Walter Hagan confident of leading this field as he led in the Panama-Pacific Tournament. And with no less assurance others were backing Alex Ross, conversant with every hole and hollow on the Pinehurst course, holder of the title last year, and a man no human being could play with a certainty of winning. Not so embroidered with titles, but equally strong on the links were Jim Barnes, teacher of the game at Atlantic Beach, and Tom Kerrigan, headliner in the golfing column of the metropolitan press, and Clarence Hackney, destined to make the best round of the event.

Pitted against these were these leading amateurs: Phil Carter, yet to meet defeat this season in match play, holder of a charm, almost become a tradition for victory; Jesse Guilford, groomed for final honors; F. W. Dyer of Montclair and Chick the Springfield veteran, whose trophies are innumerable.

Of all these Carter was held to have the best chance and Gil Nichols and Alex Ross good second money. But when a field as fast as this enters in close competition the prophet is out of his element. There is not a man named there but on occasion might beat Vardon himself, or Apollo Stymie at the game. The golfing fans followed their hopes through the eighteen holes, and gathered in anxious concourse around the score board as the champions came rolling home.
