Tin Whistle Medal Play Also Results in Triumph for Barber

W. H. Thayer Arrives in Time to Give the Leaders a Hard Rub

THE Tin Whistle Tournament held this week was straight medal play in two classes. It took place Tuesday on Number One Course, and witnessed the advent of a number of new and welcome arrivals. W. H. Thayer of Brae Burn tackling the Pinehurst game for the first time this season, came within a stroke of tying up the leader, and made as good a gross score over the course as was recorded this day. E. D. McCabe of Brooklyn and George T. Dunlap, the publisher hailing from Canoebrook, took their places in the first division, and E. M. Slayton of Woodland, who discovered Jessie Guilford, W. L. Baldwin, A. P. Alley, Dr. C. P. Wilson and F. G. A. Fayen, were recruited into the second.

It was not a good Pinehurst day, being raw and blustery, making the going poor. C. L. Becker proved the steadiest and hardest player of the club under these conditions, and took the trophy with a net score of 77, one better than Thayer. R. C. Shannon of Brockport and Tom Kelley from Southern Pines climbed in just behind with 79.

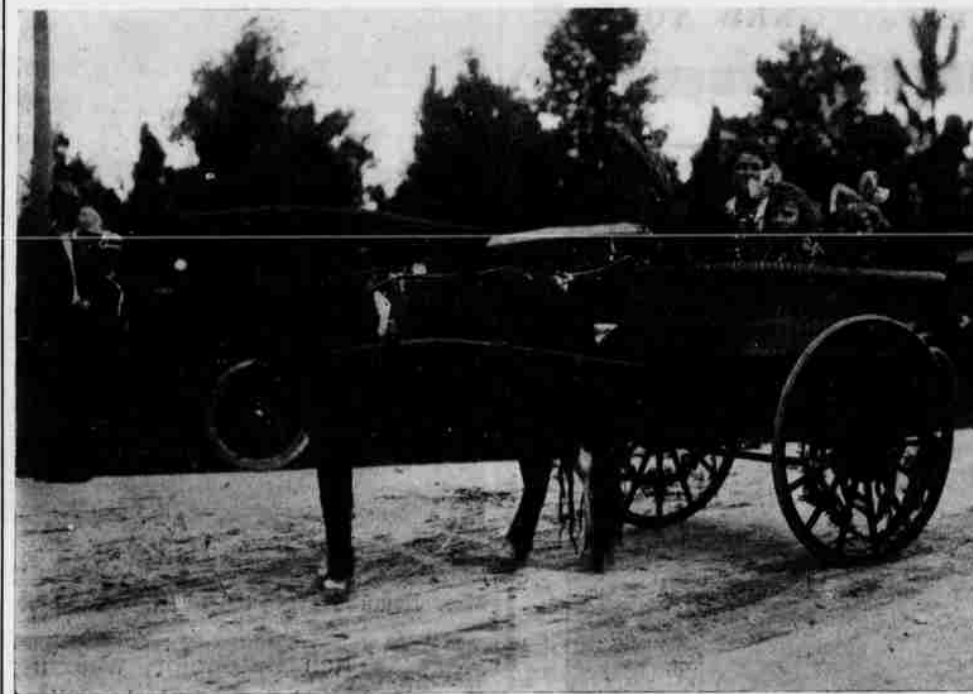

One man showed his mettle and contempt for adverse conditions, and not only made his usual round but improved upon it, rough weather or no. That was James Barber of Englewood, who jumped to the lead of the second division with three strokes to spare, and a fine card of 72. E.

M. Slayton did Dr. M. W. Marr out of second place by a stroke or two, although both the doctor and F. C. Abbe of Bethlehem came in under eighty.

Played on Number One Course. Medal Play. Tuesday, December 12. The Summary:

WRIGHT CHALLENGES PLUM

Will Shoot for the Hercules Amateur All Round Trap Championship Trophy

At the Opening of the Midwinter Handicap at the Pinehurst Gun Club January 15th

THE Hercules Amateur All-round Championship trophy is now held by Fred Plum of Atlantic City, one of the very best amateur trap shooters in the country. He has been challenged for this trophy by Frank S. Wright of Buffalo, three times champion of the State of New York and well known as a leader at the traps in the big midwinter shoot here at Pinehurst.

This challenge match for one of the principle honors in the shooting world will take place at the gun club on January 15th, the practice day before the Midwinter handicap opens. The contest calls for 50 single targets from 18 yards, 50 from 20 yards, and 50 from 22 yards. Then the final test comes with 25 pairs of targets from 16 yards, making 200 shots in all to determine the championship.

This match is expected to prove a very close affair and to develop some of the finest shooting to be seen in the United States, and has created a great deal of interest among the trap shooters of the country. Both contestants will compete with the field in the Midwinter, and there are many formidable shots who are expected to make it hot for victor and vanquished alike.

The shoot will be held this year in its own arena, in a section of the village dedicated to the traps.
