MRS. E. C. BLISS

Wins the Ladies' Putting Match

Thirty ladies entered the putting contest at the Club House Saturday last. Mrs. E. C. Bliss, Mrs. George H. Simmerman and Miss Caroline Bogart, with a score of 25 strokes apiece for the twelve holes, led Miss Jean Burnham, Mrs. M. R. Finch, Mrs. J. V. Hall, Mrs. Spencer Waters and Mrs. F. Van Sychel by the narrow margin of one stroke. Mrs. Bliss was the only one that could keep the pace, and won the play-off handsomely.

STYMIED

That's what you are. How can you expect to successfully negotiate a golfing discussion without

GOLF ILLUSTRATED AND Outdoor America

Here's the Reason!

Articles in GOLF ILLUSTRATED by such men as Travers, Quimet, Vardon, Taylor, Ray, Duncan, Hilton, etc., are new, have never been published before and appear in GOLF ILLUSTRATED for the first time. That means that only in GOLF ILLUSTRATED can you get the live golfing thought of the present day. Articles by these golfers, appearing in any other golfing publication have mostly seen the light of day abroad, not lately but several years ago.

That's why GOLF ILLUSTRATED is endorsed by every serious golfer. Ask the cracks and they will express the same opinion as Harry Vardon does in this letter:

"Sir:—I must write and congratulate you on the way your golf paper is kept up. It is really wonderful reading because a golf paper has less scope than other papers. But after reading it once or twice, I could not help but be a subscriber as it really is the best golf paper I have ever read. In every way wishing you success in same.
HARRY VARDON."
