VOL. XXII, NO. 10

SATURDAY MORNING, JANUARY 18, 1919

FIVE CENTS

Dutton Springs Violently back To His Usual Form

Mc Cormick Wins Medal. Lee Putts Qualifying Round of Golf Tournament

LIKE AN ARMY with banners, one hundred strong, Colonel H. H. Treadwell in the van, the Advertising Golfers advanced upon the famous Pinehurst links, and for a week made furious headway against the myriad prizes adorning two sections of the Carolina corridors.

With ritual ancient and diverting, the Colonel opened the cereemony as is ordained by scrambling the golf links to the assembled caddies from his trusty iron. The legend and practice is that the winner of the ball receive acclaim and more substantial mede of five dollars. After which let friendship cease and the play begin.

And on Monday morning it began with a vengeance, the whole famous company lining up for a qualifying round in three divisions of thirty-two each, with gross scores and putting scores and net scores all tabulated for fabulous rewards. And let us say at once that not Lou Hamilton the spirit of the occasion, nor Ralph Spotts of the eagle eye-nor yet E. T. Manson, champion of old, nor Don Parker, leader ex officio, brought home the triumphant score. But none other than John H. Clapp, inured to victory, winner of the Autumn tournament, heralding from Chevy Chase. His card read 82, right up among the fastest scores of this armistice season. His 39 was also the best of the day.

Hamilton was in second place, but still Fox Hills was third in 87. Cutting over the course. This brought F. P. down the legendary scores with the help Lee of Framingham into envious view. of his allowance Captain Harold A. Por- | On the eighteen holes he made 22 putts, ter annexed the trophy for the lowest net and therewith took the prize. Second with a 74, thus: 92-18-74.

The spectacular performance of the fied with 23. day was made by the veteran Geo. C. Dutton, of Boston. Qualifying with a full hundred, presumably tallied against J. H. Clapp him when he was not looking, the old L. A. Hamilton champion found himself tied up for first Ralph L. Spotts place in the second division with no less R. M. Purves than six others-E. Chichester of Brae A. R. Gardner

CLAPP LEADS ADVERTISERS Burn, R. C. Wilson of Baltusrol, W. W. Manning from Exmoor, George Lytton of Exmoor, and Frank Finney of Baltusrol. He then proceeded to show them all something on the play-off-which was nothing more than a casual 83, which not only won the day's medal, but made the prospects for championship in that division look all one way. L. G. Suscipj went off with the best net: 104-26-78.

> The contest in the third division also resulted in a tie, and a violent reversion to form on the play-off. C. A. McCormack of the Colona Club and John Sprunt Hill of Durham, squared it off in 107. Then, Hill fell to and cut a full ten strokes from his performance, in quest of the medal. To no avail. McCormack pared off twelve strokes, came home in 95, and went off with the honors.

D. McK. Lloyd, the Grand Old Man G. W. Watts of the Meet, was brevetted low medalist | William V. O'Brin

Z. T. Miller	45	44
F. B. Ryan	48	42
William McCord	47	43
William Campbell	45	45
Don M. Parker	44	46
E. T. Manson	44	47
H. F. Harrison	46	45
J. D. Plummer	45	47
H. E. Porter	44	48
H. B. Lewis	48	45
C. A. Speakman	45	48
D. M. Stewart	43	51
H .B. Kennedy	49	47
Guy Pierce	49	47
F. A. Taylor	46	50
E. J. Barber	50	47
F. A. Sperry	49	48
B. V. Covrt	52	45
F. N. B. Close	49	49
Charlie Sharman	40	50

47

52

49

COL. TREADWELL OPENS WITH THE RITUAL

net, with a total of 81.

To keep the eyes of the host on their William M. Sanford balls, and reward those skilful on the M. C. Meigs greens as well as the heavy hitters of the J. D. Montgomry company, it was provided that a substan- H. Milholland tial award should fall to the lot of four shots behind, and R. L. Spotts of those three that made the least putts G. C. Dutton, Woodland place went to J. D. Plummer of Spring-

The summary:

FIRST DIVISION 39 43 42 44 43 44 42 46 46 43

Dr. George C. Fahey 46 48 51 53 47 SECOND DIVISION E. Chichester, Brae Burn R. C. Wilson, Baltusrol W. W. Manning, Exmoor George Lytton, Exmoor Frank Finney, Baltusrol W. T. Hamilton, Jr., Scarsdale Ralph Trier, Fox Hills A. S. Higgins, St. Andrews 82 H. R. Mallinson, Englewood 86 Eliot D. Moore, Norfolk 87 J. D. Barnhill, Fox Hills 88 F. D. Montgomery, Exmoor 89

(Continued on page two)

SMASHES TRACK RECORD

Lindonia Runs Away in Match with Uncle Sam

$250 Purse Over the Hurdles

91

92

92

93

97

97

99

THE SENSATION of last Wednesday's races at the Jockey Club was the time recorded for the five and one-half furlongs in a heart breaking finish match between Uncle Lambert Splane's new two-year-old Linona, and James Tuft's Machese. That is, this was the sensation in the paddock. The stand took equal interest in the run made by McAdam for the steeple chase purse after his rider had had bitten the dust.

It was a gala day at the track. A perfect Spring afternoon and a hot and welcome sun combined with the tale which had gone out of big purses to be split brought out a big gathering. Two hundred and fifty dollars was up for the course over the hurdles. Last on the program, as always, it was the main attraction for the gallery.

The Little Horn, still mindful of her victories this Summer in Maryland, and smarting under recent reverses at the hands of Nibbs' big Melos, was still the favorite when the entries reached the post. She carried Burns and 138 pounds. Wells was up on Melos, and Diamond rode Hurd's Porin. Houston, on Mc-Adam, held the pole.

Everybody got their money's worth. To begin with, Porin struck out as if he was alone on the prairie, and sailed away as if he were king of the track, taking the second hurdle at least five lengths to the good and increasing his margin every minute. They ran the full two mile course over twelve jumps—and 100 so there was plenty of time. Melos 100 heaved into the first turn in second 100 place, Little Horn was still in the offing, 100 and McAdam in the rear. The action 100 started at once. On the third hurdle 101 McAdam hit the rail and turned a cat-101 jump, spilling Houston flat. And then, 101 recovering, proceeded to finish the remaining mile and a half and nine jumps on his own account. The crowd was with 102 him to a man, and he showed he had no more use for a rider than he did for a

(Concluded on page six)