The advance guard of the Winter Golf League of Advertising Interests swooped down on Pinehurst Saturday and played a best ball handicap, officially entitled a Peace and Prosperity Foursome, on the championship course.

Six players annexed all the prosperity in sight in the form of a half dozen handsome prizes, and eighty-two others acceded more or less gracefully to the harsh terms of a dictated peace.

Two New Haven leaguers, Dr. George C. Fahey and Hugh Kennedy of the Racebrook Club, led the big field home and won the first prizes by a margin of seven-eighths of a stroke.

That is to say, the winners finished in 72%.

Fractions were retained when figuring the joint handicaps and the score sheet looked like a stock broker's board on a lively day.

George C. Dutton and R. M. Purves of Woodland had the best gross round, finishing with a best ball of 80. Second gross honors went to Don Parker and Frank Finney at 82. W. W. Manning and William Campbell were third at 83.

The summary: Fractions are retained only in winning scores. Played on No. 2. Summary: Played on No. 2.

ASSEMBLING SHOOTERS

Led By Jay Hall in Preliminary Contest

Assembling from the four winds for the big shoot next week, some fast work was done by the experts with the shotgun in the weekly contest at the traps last Wednesday. Such high guns and renowned shots as W. H. Patterson and Frank Wright of Buffalo, Joe Ebberts and B. V. Covert had to take a back seat under the handicap system. Jay V. Hall and E. R. Simpson both tallied perfect, or better by virtue of their allowances, and so stood to shoot off a tie. Hall broke 24 of his frame, against 20 for Simpson, and so the honors of the day were his. Wright and Patterson divided the credit for the best actual shooting, each cracking 95 of the 100 targets thrown.

The summary:
Jay V. Hall 84 16 100 24 4 28
E. R. Simpson 85 16 101 20 4 24
W. H. Patterson, Buffalo 95 4 99
