

THE PINEHURST OUTLOOK

VOL. XXII, NO. 16

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH, 15 1919

FIVE CENTS

DWIGHT L. ARMSTRONG

Wins The Spring Tournament, Defeating Edward Styles in Saturday's Finals

Styles Takes the Qualifying Medal on the Play Off with Armstrong

The Qualifying Round of the Spring Tournament, being disposed of on Monday and Tuesday and in the last issue of the Outlook, the seventeen sixteens played their first match round on Wednesday, the upper divisions using Number Two and the lower sixteens going over Number Three. On the same day a new qualifying round was held among those who had failed to qualify within their classification and this added a handicap eight and a handicap four to the number of division playing. The total field then stood at 284.

Dwight L. Armstrong and Edward Styles, who had tied for the medal, landed in opposed brackets by the luck of the draw. Both won their first round matches handily, on Wednesday. Armstrong played against W. H. Fuller, of Worcester, and won by 5 and 4. Styles defeated Joe Bydolek of Buffalo, by 4 and 3. The outcome of these two matches had been discounted in advance and the day, as a whole, was singularly free from sensational contests or incidents. H. C. Fownes won by a wide margin against G. M. Howard in the second sixteen, and went around in 80. Armstrong and Styles both finished around the 80 mark and if anybody did any better on Wednesday he failed to let us know about it. We happened to be at the tenth green when C. L. Becker and Dr. George Parry came along in the second sixteen and nonchalantly halved that par 4 hole in threes, but as they took par 4 to make the next hole we quit them cold and returned to the clubhouse, where we jotted down the following summary on the back of an envelope.

PINEHURST CHAMPIONSHIP

Miss Carolyn Bogart and C. F. Watson, Jr. Win the Woman's and Men's Singles

Roger Ward and N. A. Rose also among those present at the Distribution of Trophies

A small but determined field took part in the Pinehurst Championship Tennis Tournament this week, and disposed of a total of 226 games, exclusive of sets that went by default in the course of four days' play.

Miss Carolyn Bogart, who seems to have established herself as the annual winner of the women's trophy in this event, came through to the final as usual without any great difficulty, disposing in succession of Miss Bille Buntton and Miss Esther Tufts, and winning against Miss Judith Jenks, in the final, in two straight sets.

Miss Bogart gathered in a second trophy, in the mixed doubles, where she played in partnership with N. A. Rose, the Longwood expert. In the final, playing against Miss Mabel S. Rice and Roger Ward, Miss Bogart and Rose were "down" at the start but rallied and forced the set to deuce, finally taking it by 8-6. The second and deciding set was finished very quickly, Miss Rice and Ward losing it by 1-6.

C. F. Watson, Jr., of the Westchester Country Club, won every one of his sets in the men's singles, defeating Raymond Dalfer of South Shore, H. T. Dana of Pinehurst, and Roger Ward. The final, Watson versus Ward, went to the Westchester player in 6-3, 6-1, 6-2.

Mr. Ward had his revenge in the men's doubles, where he and N. A. Rose played against Watson and Major Ranney. This was the hardest fought contest of the tournament, and although Ward and Rose won in the final analysis they had to fight an uphill battle in every set except the fourth and last. The final went their way by 7-5, 6-4, 4-6 and 6-1.

MEN'S SINGLES

First round: Roger Ward, Montreal, beat N. A. Rose, Longwood, 6-1, 6-2; C. F. Watson, Jr., Westchester, beat Raymond Balfe, South Shore, 6-1, default.

Semi-finals: Roger Ward beat Major A. E. Ranney, West Side, 6-0, 6-2; C. F. Watson, Jr., beat H. T. Dana, of Moore county, 6-2, 6-5.

Final: Watson beat Ward 6-3, 6-1,
