Evans on "Pro" and Amateur Golf

Chick Evans, the Open and Amateur champion, is out with a very thoughtful article on the "Relative Supremacy of the Pro. and Amateur in Golf." In 1913, 1915, 1916 the Open was won by an amateur, which gives a surprising appearance of amateur supremacy in American golf. Mr. Evans, however, does not think that this apparent supremacy is real. He refers to the fact that during the past two years he himself has played much golf with the leading professionals in Red Cross exhibition matches, and this experience brought home to him as never before "the fine ability of the professional players; they have the shots and I doubt if one of the amateur winners of the National Open has them to the same degree. The test of that statement, I think, is this: Whenever I was booked to play amateurs, no matter how good, I felt no strain; of course, I knew that if I was playing badly I should lose, but I also felt that if I was playing well, I had a good chance to win, and therefore was able to take things easily. On the other hand, when playing with the pros., I was always under a strain. I knew that I could never let up an instant and that even when playing well, I was likely to be beaten. There was a finish and a variety to the professional game that gives me a great respect for it.
Perhaps the following statement embodies my feeling in regard to professional and amateur golf: I had a better score on one occasion at Ravislooe, than either Vardon or Ray, but nine times out of ten these great players could beat me and probably any other amateur in America."

Mr. Evans gives as an explanation, why the amateurs three times the last four years have beaten the pros., is because the latter, owing to their numerous duties have not been given the time necessary for practise. Owing to the war, however, the past two years, the professionals have been largely engaged in exhibition golf, and the Open and Amateur champion, therefore thinks that the betting is all in favor of one of them winning the blue ribbon event this summer at Brae Burn.

Mrs. W. B. Scheller, of Pittsburgh, won the rifle contest for women at the Gun Club on Saturday, with a high target of 136 out of a possible 150.
Mrs. W. B. Merrill, of Newton Center, Mass., was second, at 134 and was followed by Mrs. H. H. VanClief, of New York, at 132.

H. T. Whitin of Northbridge, Mass., won the hundred target handicap at the Pinehurst Gun Club on Tuesday with a score of 87-16, 100. Robert Ward, of Lawrence, Mass., and B. V.
Covert, of Lockport, N. Y., tied as high guns, with 90 actual breaks.

The leading scores:
H. T. Whitin 87-16, 100
R. Ward 90- 8, 98
B. V. Covert 90- 5, 95
W. Y. Corner 74-20, 94
George Walker 60-20, 80
H. L. Taylor 53-20 73
John Rockwood 51-20 71

PINEHURST DOG SHOW

Wednesday and Thursday, April 2-3.

Champion dogs from all over the country will compete at the Dog Show on Wednesday and Thursday, among them, the champion greyhound Lansdowne Sunflower, owned by Mrs. B. F.
Lewis, Jr., and valued at $5,000, the wire haired fox terrier champion Prides Hill Treak'em, the sensational young American bred dog who has met and defeated the best that England could produce. Tweak'em was best in show of all breeds at four consecutive shows in the East. The internationally famous Airedale champion Normanton Tipit, a winner from coast to coast. The setter champions Reinstone Blue Belle Claude of Cam-lan, and Fairy Beau. The West Highland Terrier champions Cairn Ransa and Clarkes Hill Snooker, and the international champion bull dog Mike O'Flannighan.

Champion Fels, the famous Police dog, who won both a Bench Show and Police Work championship last year, will give an exhibition of his marvelous work at 3:30 on Wednesday and at 2:30 on Thursday. This dog alone is worth going miles to see. Grand Champion Lotte is also entered, as is Reserve Grand Champion Bodo.

It will be a great field and in mentioning the above dogs we have hit just a few of the high sopts.

The Tin Whistles Championship was, by the Board of Governors in Congress assembled, awarded to Parker W. Whittemore, who led the field with 235, for the 54 holes.

The prize for the second best gross went to L. D. Pierce, 251, on the playoff of a tie with Howard G. Phillips.

The prize for the best 18 hole round went to Donald Parson, on the playoff of a tie, at 82, with C. B. Fownes and John D. Chapman, Pierce's 77 being eliminated from consideration by his winning of the prize for second best gross.

The prize for the best net for 54 holes went to J. D. Herring, 271-60, 211.

The prize for the second best net for 54 holes went to Walter T. Stall, 269-54, 215, on the play-off a tie with H. M. Buckley, 278-63, 215.

The prize for the best net 18 hole round went to John E. Pushee, 87-28, 59.

M. B. Johnson and Donald Parson gave a dinner at the Clubhouse on Wednesday night to M. C. and C. B.
Fownes, Eberhard Faber, C. S. Waterhouse, L. D. Pierce, C. L. Becker, J. R.
Bowker, W. L. Milliken, J. M. Thompson, C. B. Hudson, Tom McGraw, Jr., Tom Morrison, and J. G. Nicholson.

Seniors Dinner Postponed.

Owing to the fact that so many of the leading Seniors are spending the month of March in the South, the complimentary dinner to Mr. Horace L.
Hotchkiss, the founder of the Seniors, announced for March 27th at Delmonico's, New York, has been postponed until April.
