

The Week in Pinehurst

P. W. WHITTEMORE

Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Brown have opened up their cottage near the golf links and are here for the season.

Mr. N. A. Rose, of Wellesley Hills, Mass., is occupying the Sperry cottage with his family. We feel sure if anyone wants a good game of tennis they can have it by applying to Mr. Rose.

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Howard of Halifax, are here again for the winter and are quartered in the Hale cottage. Mr. Howard has returned with a new whistle, with which to summon his bird dogs to his side, and everytime he blows it all the boys who have been in the Army think it is the top-sergeant and just naturally cuss it to the echo.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong, and John Bradford, Jr., are back at the Orange for another season.

Mr. Donald Ross and his family are encamped in The Hawthorne, their new home opposite the Berkshire. We are very happy to write that Mr. Ross is making a good recovery from a serious operation this past summer and is eager to assist again at the ritual at the Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. North, of Chicago, Ill., have returned to Casa Yucca this season. We venture to think there are very few cottages in town that the Norths have not rented at some time or other. They have that terrible Pinehurst habit.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Chapman and their children have arrived at The

HENRY S. HOUSTON

Morganton. Their new home is not yet ready for them.

One of the latest deals in Pinehurst real estate is the purchase of the Mystic Cottage by Mrs. Francis Talford Keating. The Keatings plan to make the Mystic their winter home until such time as their new cottage can be built. The Mystic was formerly the property of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter, now of Berkeley, Cal.

Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow is getting in plenty of practice these days at Merion, in order to finish off her game for the Southern season. She will defend her title as North and South Champion in March and is now playing in fine form in anticipation.

Prominent at the Carolina Hotel is Capt. Thaw, the famous American Ace, and a party including Mr. Benjamin Thaw, of Pittsburgh, Mrs. L. Slade, of New York, Mrs. E. A. Bigelow, of New York, and Mrs. M. E. Priest, of St. Louis, Mo. Capt. Thaw has the distinction of bagging the first wild turkey of the season. He says he found it much easier to bring down German planes than wild turkeys.

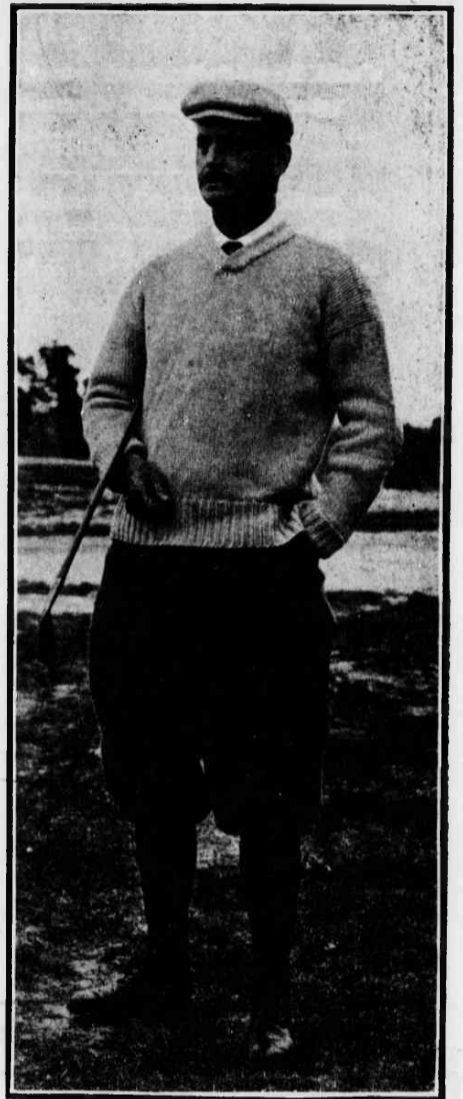

The Junior Tennis Tournament was won by Henry Swoope, defeating Lawrence Forsythe, of Pittsburgh, in the finals, 6-3, 6-0, 6-2. Swoope had a hard time disposing of J. P. Hotchkiss, 6-3, 1-6, 6-4. Forsythe eliminated Hewitt Swoope in the first round, 10-6, 2-6, 6-2. There is no telling what would happen to some of these youngsters if they were to play against a little more formidable opposition, but they are full of promise.

Mr. Darwin P. Kingsley, of the New York Life Insurance Company, has been at the Carolina for a few days of golf.

There was a flurry of excitement at the Country Club when Mr. S. J. Graham, of Greenwich, Conn., turned in scores of 75, 74, 76 and 72 on the Championship Course. Tom Morrison shattered all records on the putting green by making 6 ones and 6 twos for a total of 18.

Mr. M. B. Johnson, of Cleveland, Ohio, is at the Carolina. He plans to open his beautiful home on the hill sometime after the first of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Danforth, of Orient, L. I., are at The Craddock. Mr.

T. C. CROCKER

Danforth came home among the first sixteen in the Autumn Tournament.

Mr. S. B. Chapin, of New York, is in town viewing his new house and making preparations to open his old one.

Mr. and Mrs. Nat Hurd, after an unceremonious entrance into town on the rear end of a delivery wagon, are quartered for the winter in their pretty cottage overlooking the championship course. If you want to see a beautiful trophy ask Mr. Hurd to show you the President's Cup, won by Little Horn, in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Magoon, of Pittsburgh, Pa., have opened up Beausoleil and are installed for the season.

Commodore and Mrs. Newton are once more at La Casita.

Mrs. L. B. McBrayer and Mrs. P. P. McCain opened the season at the Country Club Grill by entertaining a large party at tea in honor of Mrs. Reuben McBrayer, of Sanatarium, N. C. Among the guests were Mrs. John Blue, Mrs. Leonard Tufts, Mrs. J. R. Page, Mrs. Henry A. Page, Mrs. Frank Page, Mrs. Talbot Johnson, Mrs. M. C. Mudgett, Mrs. A. McNeil Blair, Mrs. T. B. Tyson, Mrs. F. H. Seawell, Col. and Mrs. J. L. Ludlow and their daughter Mrs. H. B. Shelton.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Parson, of Youngstown, Ohio, are here with their children for the winter and on the links Mr. Parson continues to lead the whole Youngstown contingent.
