"WESTERN" Steel-Locked Shells

Always the Choice of the Man who Knows

The sensational performances of "Western Field" Shells at the traps have opened the eyes of thousands of shooters who never shot at a target thrown from a trap. And the same exceptional shooting qualities which placed them at the head in trapshooting are making a big hit with the man who hunts. Besides the higher velocity and closer pattern, which makes longer kills possible, "Western" Shells never "hang up" in magazine guns the Steel-Locked construction and the hard, tight crimp being responsible for a smoothness of action and reliability in function that is impossible in shells having weak heads and mushy crimps. And in wettest wether "Western" Shells will continue to work well for, to begin with they contain paper made from a special and superior pulp, added to which is a water-proofing material which, for effectiveness, has never been equalled by any other manufacturer in the world. Sold by progressive dealers in all gauges and in all popular loads, in smokeless and black. "Field" and "Record" loaded with all Standard Smokeless Powders. "Perfect from Primer to Crimp."

PINEHURST'S FORTY THOUSAND ACRES OFFER GOOD SPORT

The open season for feathered game finds the woods full of enterprising sportsmen, looking for quail and turkey. The demand for bird dogs embarrasses the kennels. In fact, good dogs are scarce and quail more numerous than last year. The most promising young pointer at the Pinehurst Kennels is "Annie Oakley's Fred." So far this young fellow has been shown in four field competitions and has won three of them, which is a record to be proud of. And when it comes to sure 'nuff hunting he has proved as clever as the old hands.

Capt. Thaw, most distinguished of American aviators, and a party consisting of Benj. Thaw, of Pittsburgh, Mrs. E. A. Bigelow, of New York, and Mrs. M. E. Priest, of St. Louis, Mo., were indefatigable hunters while here last week, and the Captain has to his credit the first wild turkey brought down this season. Turkeys are very scarce, and natives alone seem to have the knack of capturing them.

Frank A. Siebert hunted a week and brought in 51 birds. He tried hard for a turkey. In following some promising tracks became separated from his party and for a time was lost in the wilds of West End. His friends devoted most of their afternoon searching for him; he proved to have acquired some of the elusiveness of the turkey he was trailing. Eventually they discovered him down on his hands and knees in a swamp, still following the lonesome trail.

If Mr. Siebert lost his turkey, there is one infinitely more precious thing he did get. He came to Pinehurst worn, nervous and exhausted, a victim of insomnia. After one week in the field with his dog and gun he was sleeping soundly eight and nine hours every night and ordering a double portion of everything on the bill-of-fare at The Carolina. He left Pinehurst invigorated and completely restored by his life in the open. His experience is duplicated annually by hundreds.

Dr. W. R. Peters, of Santiago, Chile, is a prominent sportsman who has hunted the world over, and he was quite satisfied with his luck this past month.

E. N. Carpenter, mining expert for the E. I. Du Pont Co., always brings home his allotted share of quail.
