

Country Club Notes

Former Senator C. B. Henderson of Nevada, has been one of the most enthusiastic golfers playing the Pinehurst courses during the week past. He gets in 36 holes every day, and his powerful physique looks good enough for 54.

* * *

Speaker of the House Gillette played in a number of private matches during the week, and invariably made the low ball of the party.

* * *

Owen Moore and Mrs. Moore, the movie stars, were among the week's visitors at the club and have enjoyed plenty of golf with friends. Mr. Moore saved his side from defeat in a recent match with a long putt on the eighteenth green and merely smiled as someone yelled "camera" when he was sinking the winning putt.

R. Murray Purves of Woodland, winner of the Winter Golf League of Advertising Interests' tournament last season, is back in Pinehurst getting ready for this year's frolic which starts on Saturday of this week. Some 300 members of the League will arrive on that day and their golfing carnival will extend over the full coming week. Mr. Purves tried out the new course at Mid-Pines on Monday and scored an 81, the best round made there this season save the 77 made by Parker W. Whittemore.

* * *

I. S. Robeson, Rochester, and A. L. Walker, Jr., Richmond County, beat Frederiek Snare and M. L. Fearey 5 and 4 in a best ball match over the Number 3 course.

* * *

Although the Mid-Winter tournament was on during the past week, a number of exhibition matches attracted large galleries of golf enthusiasts who like to see a good match as well as play themselves.

* * *

One of these was an all-professional match in which Emmet French of Youngstown, and Johnny Farrell, Quaker Ridge, beat Cyril Walker, Englewood, and Charles Mothersele, Pinehurst, 4 and 3, with a best ball of 35-35-70. Farrell's 73 was the best individual score of the round.

* * *

Silas H. Strawn of Chicago, ex-president of the United States Golf Association, and J. H. Douglass, Jr., of the Old Elm club, who made a creditable showing in the British amateur championship, defeated F. C. Hood, Brookline, and Donald Ross, Pinehurst, by a single point over the Mid-Pines course.

* * *

A. E. Ranney of the Greenwich Country Club, is the first golfer to secure a 3 on the new seventeenth hole on Number 3 course. He recently holed a 30-yard approach there with a mashie.

Speaker Gillette and ex-Senator Henderson conceded one bisque to Norman Walker, New York, and Arthur L. Walker, Richmond County, in a four-ball match over the Number 1 course and lost by one point, best ball and aggregate counting a point on each hole.

* * *

Dr. De F. P. Willard and Dr. John Robb of the Merion Cricket Club, both qualified in the first division of the Mid-winter. It was their first visit to Pinehurst, and both declare they were very much impressed with the local courses and will make another visit here just as soon as possible.

* * *

Harold Buckminster of Winchester, has been getting some good scores on the championship course recently. His best effort was to play the last nine holes in 40, which is good for a handicap 5 player.

* * *

Donald Ross is laying out a nine hole course for the officers at Camp Bragg. This will be of interest to Pinehurstians for the officers there take a keen interest in Pinehurst sports, frequently sending over a strong polo team to compete in the events here, and their entrance in golf events will be welcomed.

* * *

Fred Kennedy is back in Pinehurst for an extended stay, after spending last season in England. He is glad to be back and will soon be in condition to give the best players here plenty to think about.

* * *

The Thos. E. Wilson Company have put a new ball on the market styled the Pinehurst Standard. Carl Anderson, a representative of that firm has been here sometime trying it out over the courses from which it derived its name. The ball goes well, and indications are that it will become very popular.

* * *

A. L. Walker, Jr., winner of the Mid-winter tournament last season, came in a day too late to participate in this year's event, but he has been playing 33 holes a day and is doing fine. Mr. Walker spent the summer in England, where he played all the championship courses.

* * *

Tom Boyd, professional of the Fox Hills Club, Carl Anderson, New York, John Golden, Tuxedo, and Willie Brown, New York, came in some few days ago for a couple of week's practice play before going West to participate in some of the open events to be held soon at San Antonio, Ft. Worth and New Orleans.

* * *

Joe Capello now holds the upper hand among the golf shop fraternity with a round of 72 to his credit on the championship course, one stroke better than Harold Callaway. The competition between these youngsters is keen.
