Polo To Be Revived; 60 Ponies Coming To Pinehurst Stables

Earl Shaw on Favorite Mount

Earl Shaw of Chicago, Former Sandhill Player, Will Return to Resort In February

Sometime in February Earl Shaw of Chicago, who played polo in Pinehurst 17 years ago, will return here to revive that sport. He has requested James Tufts to prepare stabling for 60 ponies.

Mr Shaw writes that he has a number of enthusiasts interested in participating in a polo program in Pinehurst, including Paul Butler and S. A. Healy of Chicago. Games will probably be scheduled with Durham, Fort Bragg, Camden and Aiken teams.

In April of 1922 Mr. Shaw was a member of the Flamingo team of Miami Beach, which participated in the second annual polo tournament held in Pinehurst. Members of the team, which was under the management of the late Julius Fleischman, were Mr. Fleischman, Mr. Shaw, Carl Crawford and Harry East. The Flamingos defeated the Camp Bragg Cardinals to win the Southern Circuit Cup and also won over the Sandhill Orioles to capture the Sandhills Trophy offered by Leonard Tufts.

Since that time Mr Shaw has continued to play in various parts of the country, including the South, California, Texas, Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago. Cecil Smith and H. W. Williams started their polo under him and these three played together for five years. During the past summer he has been a member of the Blind Brook Shamrocks who triumphed in the Eastern Polo League tournament last summer at Governor's Island.

PINEHURST SCOREBOARD

by ROBERT E. HARLOW

In times when the newspapers have little space except for war and football, with a dash of Washington highlights, a touch of Winchell gossip and intimate stories concerning the lives and loves of Hollywood, it is difficult to arouse in the soul and mind of man enthusiastic interest in quieter and less sensational entertainment.

All of the glamour stories and photographs produced in the United States stimulate jittery nerves and create a thrill complex. The more orderly and restful entertainment and mental stimulants are passed by as the citizens seek excitement.

Present hysteria in North Carolina over the Duke - North Carolina game is a definite symptom of the mental condition of a large portion of the population of the great North State. It appears that everyone who has a ticket for this spectacle is clinching it to his bosom or taking out insurance to protect his seat. Those citizens who have admission price, but no tickets, are clamoring about the snobbishness of the Duke Athletic Association by preventing them from participating in the party.

To slow down the rush for excitement and to aid the people of Pinehurst in soothing their nerves by means of less intensified forms of entertainment, a movement is underway to institute milder and more comfortable forms of amusement among the cottage colony and hotel guests. Miss Mildred Hall Mason of Boston has been given the task of organizing a diversified and dignified program.

Miss Mason is at present in communication with a speaker who has delighted many audiences with his pleasant words and

Problems Studied By American Republics

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—(A. P.)—The United States sought today "blunt and realistic" solutions by the American republics of the economic problems arising from the European war.

Sumner Welles, Acting Secretary of State, is the United States representative and chairman of the meeting. Meanwhile, at Guatemala City, delegates from 18 countries are attending the first Pan American Conference of Treasury representatives. FARR IN 20-HOLE WIN

Francis C. Robertson played one of his better rounds of competitive golf yesterday in a first round match in the championship flight of the Seniors' championship at The Pinehurst Country Club and defeated Donald Parson 4 and 3.

The day produced interesting games in each of three flights. E. C. Keating won from Kenneth Trousdell on the 19th hole in a second flight match and Raymond Farr and H. Frederick Lesh went to the 20th hole before Mr. Farr was the winner. More about these games later.

To Mr. Robertson must go the principal honors of the day for he accomplished a 34 on the first nine of the number one course, and playing out the bye holes, completed the course in 72 strokes. Mr. Parson, his opponent, played well, but was unable to overcome Mr. Robertson's strong start.

At the first hole Mr. Robertson holed a ten foot putt for a three, and at the second a 20-footer for another birdie. This gave him a start, and as he increased his lead to four holes at the ninth and continued to play fine golf, Mr. Parson had no opportunity to level the match.

The final blow was struck by Mr. Robertson at the 14th when he holed out a chip shot from off the green. The pin was set well back. Mr. Parson had hit a fine drive at this hole and hit his second within 15 feet of the pin. When it appeared doubtful if Mr. Robertson could obtain a par, he holed out for a three, winning, as Mr. Parson took the regulation two putts for a par four.

The cards:

Robertson	335	453	434—34
Parson	445	548	595—38
Robertson	535	435	463—38—72
Parson	444	445	454—38—76
