

The WORLD of TODAY

By the Associated Press

The European war at sea reached the Indian ocean yesterday with the sinking of a British freighter off East Africa by fire from a German ship. Some observers claimed that a German warship fired, but others thought the attack was made by an armed merchantman.

A British plane fell into the Seine river and three men were drowned.

Official German releases stated that Germany, "must liberate the unbearable yoke of British rule of might in Europe." This was regarded as an offensive war aim.

News involving General Motors Corporation originated in Indiana and New York. A jury in the Federal Court in South Bend found General Motors Corporation and three subsidiary companies guilty of violation of the Sherman anti-trust act, and acquitted 17 officials of the firms.

In New York Charles E. Singer instituted a stockholders' suit against G. M. and 34 officers and directors for $155,000,000 allegedly "misappropriated, wasted and squandered" in bonuses and stock deals between 1930 and 1938. The complaint asked that the money be returned to the corporation.

STATE GAME FARM IS RELEASING WILD TURKEYS IN COUNTY

With the expectation of improving wild turkey hunting in North Carolina, the state's Pine Forest Game Farms in Hoffman are releasing wild turkeys for protected areas in Moore County, and the first lot, a dozen fit birds, will be placed on the property near Carthage which has been leased by Julian Bishop for bird hunting.

State Commissioner J. D. Chalk has advised John Willcox, owner of a portion of the hunting grounds, that the birds are ready to be picked up from the Hoffman Farm, and Mr. Bishop and Mr. Willcox are expected to bring the turkeys to Moore County today.

The commissioner advised Mr. Willcox that other birds would be released to responsible persons for placing in protected areas.

The Willcox and Bishop properties are adjacent, and Mr. Bishop has leased a considerable tract of land in preparation for the quail season.

PINEHURST SCOREBOARD

by ROBERT E. HARLOW

A definite change in the activities of the Professional Golfers Association will result from the election in Chicago yesterday of a brand new set of officers, headed by Tom Walsh, as President.

The election was a great victory for Walsh, who during the hectic days at Pomonok, when the annual P. G. A. championship was "on again, off again," he refused to move one inch from his position that Denny Shute was not eligible, and regardless of a player's strike, or any other circumstance, should not be permitted to start.

Shute had not complied with the Association by-laws and made an official entry. It will be recalled that leading players struck and refused to participate in the championship until George R. Jacobus, who was then President, announced that Shute should be permitted to start, regardless of the constitution and by-laws of the P. G. A. Shute did start. Walsh returned to Chicago.

Since that day the members of the P. G. A. have had a number of months to think over the situation and evidently came to the conclusion that a man who had the courage to support the Association regulations under extreme pressure was the sort of man wanted in the President's chair.

Walsh is a non-tournament playing professional and among the group of better business men who hold membership in the P. G. A. He has been associated for a number of years with fee golf courses in Chicago, has organized owners of fee courses in movements which have profited all in that business, and increased interest among those who play on such courses. Walsh has also been active in the administration of the park courses owned by the city of Chicago.

The new President is certain to immediately establish a program for the benefit of the club professionals. One of the first moves will be a P. G. A. campaign to improve sales in pro shops. It is likely that at least two merchandizing men will be placed on the association's payroll to contact the members and give them personal aid in conducting their business.

The strike at Pomonok was an unfortunate affair for the P. G. A. and especially for the leading tournament players. The stars have had some cause for complaint because they have had no real power in the handling of their own affairs, final jurisdiction resting with the Association's executive committee. But they selected the most inauspicious occasion to call for a showdown of power. They did so at a time when the club, which was acting as host, and the sponsor who was putting up prize money, became involved and embarrassed.

It was a messy situation. Through it all Walsh insisted that the rules of the association be upheld, and it now appears that his action has been endorsed by the membership.

Tin Whistlers Play For Title In Senior Golf Tournament Today

Has Low Scores

PAUL RUNYAN

Former P. G. A. champion has played a number of fine rounds while visiting in Pinehurst. He has scored two seventies on the number two course.

3 In Foursome Get Deuce on Same Hole

Bobby Dunkelberger, Southern and Carolinas amateur golf champion was in rare form as he played rounds of 72-71-143 over the championship course in a day's golf yesterday at the Country Club.

In the afternoon Dunkelberger and Raleigh Reece played against James Hunter and Purvis Ferree and this game ended all square. Ferree was 74 and Hunter 75.

At the 15th hole, Hunter placed his tee shot within a few inches of the hole, Dunkelberger holed an 8 foot putt for a deuce and Raleigh chipped in for a two from off the edge of the green. Ferree could do no better than a par three.

William Meehan, having been in Pinehurst a number of days, is really on his game and yesterday played number three in 31-37-68.

Robertson Accounts for Brooks In Semi-Final Play While Phillips Scores Over Fearey; Rupp Meets Keating

TAYLOR FACES KILMER

It will be two Pinehurst veterans in the final for the 20th Seniors' championship at the Pinehurst Country Club today, when starting at one o'clock over the number three course, F. C. Robertson and Howard G. Phillips, will compete for the title.

Mr. Phillips moved into the final when he scored a victory over M. L. Fearey, Garden City, 3 and 2 and Mr. Robertson defeated Dr. C. D. Brooks, Detroit, 4 and 3.

Golf in the semi-final rounds was not as brilliant as on Wednesday. Today's final should produce a fine show between two of the Tin Whistle Club's foremost senior competitors.

Mr. Robertson obtained an early lead in his match with Dr. Brooks and remained in front all of the distance. He started with three fours, winning the first and third holes, lost the fourth, when he was in the woods, but regained this loss at the fifth.

Cards:
Mr. Robertson
Out 444 643 535—38
Dr. Brooks
Out 545 553 635—41
Mr. Robertson
In 454 555 463—41—79
Dr. Brooks
In 546 555 454—43—84

Mr. Phillips and Mr. Fearey had a closer match in the other semi-final. Mr. Phillips was one up at the turn in a game during which each competitor hit the ball well. With a lead of one up at the ninth and two at the tenth, Mr. Phillips drove the 11th green but three putted and lost an opportunity to go three up.

When Mr. Fearey obtained a birdie three at the 13th and reduced Mr. Phillips lead to two holes, the three putts at the 11th appeared costly, but Mr. Phillips took the 14th with a four and won, 3 and 2.

Cards:
Mr. Phillips
Out 554 653 534—40
Mr. Fearey
Out 555 554 435—41
Mr. Phillips

Mr. Fearey
In 544 355 5

Mr. Phillips wins, three and two.

In the second flight W. A. Rupp, Buffalo, moved into the final when he defeated W. T. McCullough, 4 and 3. E. C. Keating will play the final. These gentlemen had identical scores in the qualifying round.

Raymond S. Farr engaged in another extra hole game in the third flight and lost at the home green, when D. H. Taylor, Montreal, drove the green and obtained a par three. Yesterday Mr. Farr won a 20-hole game from Mr. Lesh.

Mr. Taylor meets Frank Kilmer, Grafton, Mass., in today's final in this flight. Mr. Kilmer won by default yesterday.
