Durham Entry Captures Horse Show Feature

Lightweight Hunter Class is Won by Inky

MANY ATTEND

By Lou Koch

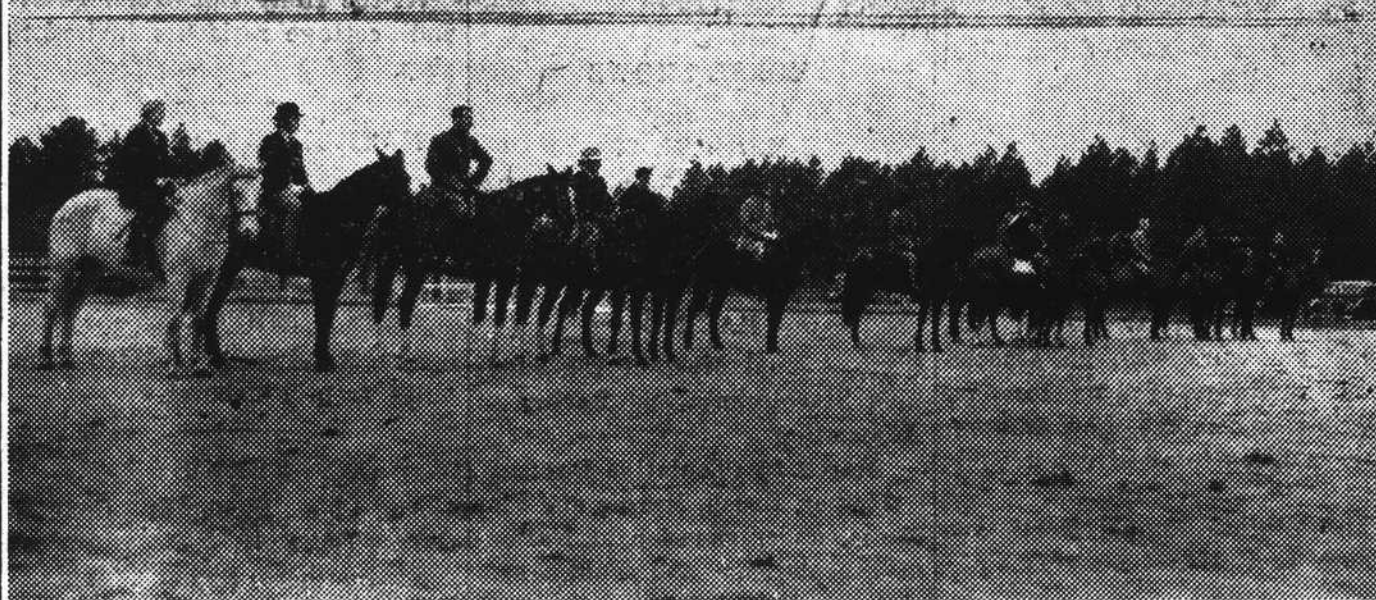

Inky, a five-year old Kentucky-bred mare as black as the ace of spades and as fleet as a pocket battleship, ridden by Miss Susan Fuller of Durham, took top honors in the lightweight hunters class, feature event on the card of the Midwinter Pinehurst-Sandhills Horse Show, held under grey skies at the race track show-grounds yesterday.

Inky, owned by Mrs. George Watts Hill, owner of Quail Roost stables, Durham, was purchased by her several years ago to be trained as a race horse. Mrs. Hill decided to make a show horse of the mare, and has captured a number of topnotch laurels as a result, including the blue of the hunter championship at Warrenton, Va. this year, pocketing altogether three championships and two reserves on the Virginia show circuit. Also at Madison Square Garden this year, Inky placed in several classes.

The mare's first show was at Pinehurst two years ago. She is one of the six hunters of the Quail Roost contingent being trained at the Mileaway Stables in Southern Pines during the winter months.

Second honors went to Virginia Girl, owned by Pinehurst Livery Stables, Billy Tate up; third to Lucky Buck, another Quail Roost entry, ridden by Delmar Twyman.

In spite of intermittent light showers, the 12-class show, under the direction of Lloyd M. Tate, (Continued on page four)

Horse Show "Shots" Taken Yesterday Reproduced for Readers in First Plant of Kind in Sandhills

MAKING NEWSPAPER HISTORY

The photo engravings which appear on the front page of today's issue of The PINEHURST OUTLOOK were made in our own plant last night from photographs taken yesterday afternoon by John Hemmer at The Pinehurst Sandhills Horse Show. The engravings were made by Eldon Thompson of The Outlook staff and Lawrence Harris of The Raleigh Times.

It is nothing for the metropolitan newspapers to reproduce photographs within a short time after they have been taken, but these papers work with the latest equipment and the most skillful artists.

For a wee daily like The PINEHURST OUTLOOK to undertake to provide a somewhat similar service is worthy of journalistic comment, and we believe all our readers will unite in agreeing that in our photo engraving plant The OUTLOOK has something which will enliven our pages and benefit this community.

Editors of The OUTLOOK feel that nothing will enhance the value of this newspaper more than an engraving plant which will make it possible to provide our readers with a pictorial digest of activities here.

For the story of the Sandhills in pictures, we suggest The PINEHURST OUTLOOK.

QUAKE TOLL GROWS
Mounting death toll in earthquake-stricken Anatolia yesterday led officials to express belief the total dead might reach 50,000 as starvation, cold and disease created new perils for survivors of the Wednesday catastrophe.

Relief trains rushed food and medical supplies to the shattered quake zone, but wrecked communication facilities and a raging blizzard made it seem certain additional thousands would die of injuries and exposure before help could reach them.

REDS BOMB OWN MEN

Furious fighting among the Russian invaders, with Red artillery and planes shelling and bombing their own men, was reported from Finland last night as the vast but vague Russian offensive showed but little progress at the end of 30 days of the undeclared war. Finnish military authorities reported that 900 Russians had been killed in two separate thrusts at the Karelian Isthmus.

TRAIN HELD FOR HIM, MR. KERWIN WINS GOLF

J. S. Kerwin was eager to be in Pinehurst yesterday to play golf with his friend C. W. Rainear. Mr. Kerwin's taxi broke down in Germantown and he missed his connection at North Philadelphia station. He caught a later train due in Washington 15 minutes after the last train for Pinehurst was scheduled to depart, but the Seaboard railroad which does everything possible to please its patrons, held the train until Mr. Kerwin could catch it. Mr. Kerwin, president of the Pennsylvania Forge company, defeated Mr. Rainear, president of the C. J. Rainear company, in a close golf game.

ROOSEVELT TO SPEAK
President Roosevelt will deliver his annual message to Congress next Wednesday, the first day of the new session, Speaker Bankhead disclosed today.

NAME MRS. ROOSEVELT

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was placed in nomination yesterday to succeed the late Heywood Brown as president of the American Newspaper Guild. The nomination was made and unanimously approved by the Denver, Col. Newspaper Guild and telegraphed to national headquarters. Mrs. Roosevelt is a member of the guild.

Bags Limit After Plane Lands Near Duck Blinds

Herbert M. Kieckhefer, guest at Pine Needles, tells an interesting story about a duck hunt at Currietuck Sound on the Carolina coast. He flew from Philadelphia with a party of friends in a twin motored amphibian, but upon arrival had word that he was needed at his office back in Camden, N. J. He unloaded his friends, who started after ducks.

Mr. Kieckhefer returned to Camden, concluded the urgent business, and started south for Currietuck. His pilot flew over the blinds, and one of the members waved his coat to indicate where the party was shooting. The big amphibian coasted to a landing, Mr. Kieckhefer had time to bag his limit, and then the party of six picked up and flew back to Philadelphia.

ROLL ON ALLEYS

A bowling party composed of Mike Meehan Jr., Martin Steintol, Frank Cosgrove and Purvis Ferree were in parties who rolled at the Amusement Center last night.

COVINGTON TO PLAY J. T. HUNTER FOR MIDWINTER CROWN

Medalist Eliminates Vail, 5 and 4; Bay State Golfer Taken 22 Holes by Robertson

Today at one p. m. James T. Hunter, North Adams, Mass. and Hub Covington, athletic coach from Woodberry Forest, Va., will meet in the final round of the Midwinter golf tournament at the Pinehurst Country Club.

Hunter has had far greater golfing experience than Covington, but is not playing to his best form. Covington, who coaches baseball, wrestling and football, has only gone in for competitive golf during the last few years, but his approach to the game has been that of a student of athletic form, and he has developed a sound game.

The match should prove interesting, and with decent weather a gallery is expected to follow.

Mr. Hunter had the greatest difficulty in disposing of Francis (Continued on page two)

NEW RIDING STABLE

A new riding stable in Southern Pines is that of Bill Clark and Clyde Taylor of Bethlehem and Franconia, N. H. The public stable, located in the former W. O. Moss barn, consists of five saddle horses, Revelish, Major, Barney, Black Bird and Mountain Boy, all popular with White Mountain riders. Mr. Clark and Mr. Taylor intend to increase the number of horses in the stable later in the season.

WEATHER

Cloudy, preceded by rains on the coast, and possibly snow in the central portion Saturday. Partially cloudy Saturday and rather cold.

CHRISTMAS TOURNEY WON BY MRS. LOVE; GOOD SCORES MADE

Class B Player Returns Low Net of 73; Second Prize is Taken by Mrs. J. C. Prizer with 76

Women golfers returned some very worthy scores yesterday in the Christmas 18 hole handicap medal play tournament over the number one course at the Pinehurst Country Club. The winner was Mrs. J. E. Love of Chicago, who scored 89-16-73.

The competition was divided into classes, for those whose handicaps run up to 16, and for those whose handicaps are set at 16 or over. Mrs. Love was playing in Class B.

In Class A, the winner was Mrs. J. C. Prizer, with 91-15-76. This was also the second lowest net return for the day.

Miss Helen Waring had the lowest gross score, an 87.

Mrs. Emmet French, winner last year, started well, being out in 43, and was not doing badly (Continued on page four)
