SEEK TO ESTABLISH AIRPORT ON MAIL AND PASSENGER ROUTE

Session Called at Fayetteville Wednesday to be Attended by Representatives of Centers in This Section; Officials Favor Plan

SUPPORT FROM POST OFFICE

Most important meeting ever planned for the purpose of obtaining airmail and passenger service into the Sandhills will convene at the Prince Charles Hotel, Fayetteville, Wednesday morning at 11 a. m.

Pinehurst and Southern Pines representatives will meet with those from Wilmington, Fayetteville and other centers in this section to organize to win government support in concluding a deal with Eastern Airlines, to go through with the plan to establish service between Wilmington and Knoxville, via Charlotte, and to designate the Knollwood airport as a regular stop on this route.

The proposition is not being taken up without considerable background. Eddie Rickenbacker, the world war ace who is president of Eastern, advised C. O. Kuster of the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce that he favored the route, and Ambrose O'Connell, assistant to Postmaster General Farley, is a frequent visitor at Pine Needles, and had expressed himself as willing to lend his aid in obtaining air mail service in the Sandhills.

Richard S. Tufts has been invited to represent Pinehurst and Howard Burns and Frank Buchanan will represent Southern Pines.

An ice cream institute was held yesterday in The Carolina Hotel to open the annual conventions of the North Carolina Dairy Products and Tar Heel Supply Men's Associations, which will continue until Thursday evening. Pinehurst school children responded with glee when they were invited to eat the samples prepared from Buttercup Ice Cream (Hamlet, N. C.) during yesterday's session of the institute. The Present is Exciting With Clayt at War

But the present is equally as fascinating. There is the ever amazing Clayton Heafner, to whom something always is happening. The guy must have been born on the Fourth of July. Whenever he does win a national championship, he will be a colorful slam-bam champion, news copy for the scribes every time he makes a move. Yesterday, at Oakland, he shot a hole in one.

Everything else in the books apparently had happened to the ex-candy kid. The big, hulking fellow who has little to say except when provoked, being content to let his tools of war write the color stories for him, is always flashing forth with something on an unsuspecting public to make it gasp.

Such little items as a 60 at Myers Park last summer, one regional course record after another, a 66 in his first National Open foray, a new course record at Los Angeles last week, have become part and parcel of his tempestuous career. And then comes the hole-in-one. You've given us everything to cheer about, Clayton, except a big rousing victory in a top event. Let's have that. A guy with your astounding equipment is capable of just about anything. Are you listening?

From a Washington column:

For several years, Mrs. Cordell Hull has been looking forward to the end of her husband's service as secretary of state, so that he might enjoy the autumn of his life and make it long. The thought of his undertaking a presidential campaign at 69, and then a possible four years in the White House, is more than she can bear.

Having no children to rear and no house to tend, Mrs. Hull devotes herself to caring for her distinguished husband. She frequently appears at the state department at noon and sends word by the chauffeur that she is waiting to take the secretary home to lunch. She objects strenuously to his lunching from a tray on the corner of his desk.

Hull's Florida and Pinehurst and Augusta holidays probably never would take place but for Mrs. Hull. She persuades him to go, then makes all the arrangements.

Two years ago, when there was discussion of Hull getting the Nobel peace prize, Mrs. Hull urged her husband to resign, if and when he received the prize, and let it mark the culmination of his career.

If the greater prize of the presidency were to come within Hull's grasp, perhaps Mrs. Hull would abandon all caution for the great political lottery. But at present she, personally, is looking forward to January, 1941, as the time for taking her husband off to the comfortable havens of retirement.

O. B. Keeler, broadcasting from Atlanta yesterday afternoon, was picked up in Pinehurst just as he was giving this resort a nice boost. O. B. was interviewing George O'Brien, a traveling golfer, whose wanderings about the world have been sufficient to rate him an interviewer. O. B. closed his remarks by asking George if they would meet again in Pinehurst during the North and South championships. George said he would be here.

Some final scores in the Los Angeles open which were not reported in the telegraph dispatches, but which may be of some interest.

CZECH AMBASSADOR PREDICTS HIS LAND WILL BE RESTORED

Vladimir Hurban, in Interview for Outlook, Declares Belief Totalitarian Countries, Will Lose Wars

PREDICTS HITLER'S FALL

Czechoslovakia will emerge from the present European conflict to retain its boundaries as a nation, again to become the homeland of a united people under its former flag and solidarity. This was declared yesterday by Vladimir Hurban, Czechoslovakian minister to the United States, who is now in Pinehurst, recuperating from a recent illness, as a guest at the Carolina.

The foreign diplomat has distinguished himself in many ways in his service as a Czechoslovakian minister. Before his American post, he was minister to Norway and Sweden, which appointment he held for six years, and before that was Czechoslovakian envoy to Egypt. His name was headlined in papers all over the world in March, 1939, as many may recall. It was at that time that Mr. Hurban refused to bow to the pressure of Hitlerism in Washington, when the Nazi government, after its putsch into Czechoslovakia, attempted to move into the U. S. embassy to replace Mr. Hurban and other legation officials of the European republic. The State Department of America backed up Hurban's stand and he is still the recognized minister to this country by this official decision.

In Mr. Hurban's opinion, which is the result of thorough knowledge of the European crisis through his experience with the many peoples of the continent, Hitlerism is bound to fall and the Allies to succeed in their war on totalitarianism.

"Such wanton lawlessness and continued oppression of the German and other peoples cannot endure," he said.

The so-called German-Russian alliance cannot last for any length of time, Hurban said. It has been common knowledge within

PROTEST TO MOSCOW

Almost simultaneous protests from Sweden and Norway charging that Soviet Russian warplanes had violated their neutrality last night increased the growing tension between Russia and the Scandinavian states. Both Sweden and Norway instructed their ministers in Moscow to protest the alleged violations. These developments followed quickly Russian charges that Norway and Sweden were acting in an unneutral way by aiding their neighbor, Finland, in her struggle with Russia. The Swedish protest was based on the reported bombing of the Swedish island of Kallaks, by nine Soviet planes yesterday.

DUNLAP-TURNER TEAM CAPTURES OPENING AMATEUR-PRO EVENT

Former National Golf Champion and Partner Finish With Net of 65; 28 Teams in Clash at Pine Needles

THREE TIE AT 68

George Dunlap Jr., former national amateur golf champion, and Ted Turner, his professional partner, representing Pine Needles, took the lead yesterday in the Sandhills amateur - professional golf league, and won the first tournament of that organization at the Pine Needles course with a net score of 31-34-65.

Twenty-eight teams competed, as professionals were permitted to play with from one to three partners. Three other tournaments will be held to complete the league circuit, one day events being scheduled at Mid Pines, Southern Pines and Pinehurst. League winners will be determined on aggregate scores for the four events, but prizes will be awarded leaders in each competition.

Dunlap and Turner had a gross score of 66. Turner played from scratch and Dunlap had two strokes, but made use of only one, at the 16th, where his five gave his team a net of four.

Turner also brought his other two partners in as winners, as George Dunlap Sr., and F. H. Hyde Jr., Golden Ridge, N. Y. found Turner's aid of great value and these teams had net scores of 68 each. Harold Callaway and Richard Tufts, Pinehurst, also scored a 68, making a three way tie for second.

At 69 net were Tom Howe and Frank Cosgrove, Pinehurst, Johnny Schoonmaker and Gordon Keith, Southern Pines and Bert Nicolls and James Hunter, Pinehurst.

The Pine Needles professional got himself and partners off to a rattling start when he knocked a two iron on the green at the long par five second and holed a 20 foot putt for an eagle three. He followed this with a 15 foot putt for a birdie three at the third hole.

Dunlap Junior contributed a two at the sixth with a 20 foot putt. Only hole the pair messed up was the difficult 11th, where both were at the left in the rough in two and required fives. Dunlap had two strokes but used only one, that which fell on the long 16th, which he scored in five for a net 4.
