ELEVEN HARNESS HORSES ARRIVE AT W. E. MILLER STABLE

With the arrival of the W. E. Miller stable this morning there are now 125 trotters and pacers getting their regular work at the Pinehurst race track. This is around fifty more horses than are to be found at any one of the several Southern training camps, and its a high compliment to the many desirable features of this plant as a winter training point. Eight different stables are represented in this big group of harness race horses and the trainers are now beginning to show some very interesting work with their two and three year olds. Any morning visitors will see these juveniles getting their primer lessons in preparation for their coming campaign which will include the Grand Circuit and the more prominent half-mile track meetings.

When race time comes Mr. W. E. Miller is very active in the operation of his stable, driving most of its members in their races, but for the training season he has secured the services of Johnny Dill, one of the younger sports trainers. (Continued on page two)

Ernest H. Lorensen, secretary of the Southern Pines Rotary club, relieved the program committee of the responsibility of having to provide a speaker at the club's meeting Thursday in the Southern Pines Country Club, when he appeared in such a role.

Mr. Lorensen, through his many years of contact with income tax problems, was well versed in the subject he brought before the club for discussion. As he stated, he "skimmed" over his subject, a timely one concerning income tax laws, but in a clear, concise way covered the proper methods of filing and preparing income tax returns.

Out of town Rotarians, James Brennan of Albany, N. Y., and George Campbell of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., were introduced by President Jim Simons, who presided.

"BROADWAY MELODY" SURPASSES PREVIOUS FILMS OF SERIES

(Special to The Outlook)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 10—When a "Broadway Melody" is bad it's very, very bad, and when it's good it's terrific. The "Broadway Melody of 1940," which will be presented at Charlie Picquet's Pinehurst Theatre today (Sunday) and Monday night, is the best of the good ones.

This musical surpasses any of its series predecessors, first, by reason of the presence herein of not one, not two, but three superlative dancers, Fred Astaire, Eleanor Powell and George Murphy. It excels its forerunners, secondly, by the use of a Cole Porter music score. It thrives, additionally, on the performances of Frank Morgan, in the pink of his giddiest form; Ian Hunter, Florence Rice, Lynne Carver and young Trixie Firschke, ace vaudeville juggler whose act is interpolated for immense audience result.

The picture is easily the "dancing-est" musical ever produced, the three stars evenly matched dancers performing individually, collectively and in all the possible pairings. The story is about a girl dance star and a case of mistaken identity which requires a sequence of unfamiliar incidents to get itself ironed out.
