STOCKHOLM, Feb. 21-Seven Russian planes today bombed and fired the little Swedish border town of Pajala, and although officials here considered the raid accidental it added new complications to Sweden's difficulties over the matter of aid to Finland.

Several bombs fell within 100 feet of the Pajala church where some villagers were huddled.

When the attack ended the Soviet planes followed the frontier about 20 miles before disappearing over Finland.

PRINCE BERTIL OF SWEDEN SEEKS REST AT MID PINES CLUB

Heir to Throne Accompanied by Two Leading Industrialists of His Country; Heads Commission to Buy Raw Materials.

PLAYING GOLF

Prince Bertil, an heir to the throne of Sweden, grandson of Gustav V and son of Crown Prince Gustav Adolf, is a guest at Mid Pines Club.

Prince Bertil, head of a Swedish commission to buy raw materials in the United States is accompanied by Assar Gabrielsson, a Gothenburg industrialist and head of the largest Swedish automobile company and Gunnar Hagglof, Chief of the Trade Department of the Swedish Foreign office.

The Swedish gentlemen arrived at Mid Pines yesterday for a few days' rest and golfing. They have expressed a desire to avoid public gatherings while here and it was impossible last night to confer with them on the news that Russian airplanes, according to Associated Press dispatches, had dropped between 30 and 40 bombs on the Swedish frontier village of Pajala, setting buildings afire.

Prince Bertil served last summer as Sweden's representative at the New York World's Fair. He returned to the United States aboard the steamship Manhattan on January 25th, with members of the commission to purchase machinery, steel products, cotton and petroleum.

Since his arrival in the United States Prince Bertil has made but few comments upon the present war situation. His only comment has been that Sweden was 'naturally sympathetic to Finland" but that the northern Scandinavian countries were trying to keep out of Russo-Finnish entanglements.

Prince Bertil, Mr. Hagglof and Mr. Gabrielsson played 18 holes yesterday afternoon at Mid Pines. Scores were not revealed, but the Prince, who is in his early thirties, is an excellent athlete. His grandfather, Gustav V, has been an ardent tennis player for half a cen-

Prince Bertil is a member of the Swedish Royal family, which dates to 1523 when Gustavus Eriksson Vasa escaped from exile in Denmark, returned to Sweden, gathered an army of supporters and captured the country. Rulers from his family have been known as the Vasa Kings. Gustav V. ascended the throne December 8, 1907.
