TRACK TRAINING

may reach the limit of their speed early, and be discarded for the present, at least.

One particularly nice filly that showed marked improvement during the week was Land Bird, bl f, by Scotland, 1:59 1/4. Lard Bird, a member of Mrs. L. B. Smith's and James McV. Breed's Millbrook Stable. This young miss that is trained by H. M. Parshall trotted a mile in 2:34, last half in 1:13 and the final eighth in :17.

Butch, a well liked colt that Delvin Miller is training for Mahlon N. Haines of York, Pa., stepped the best mile seen here by a two year old trotter this season, when he made the two laps in 2:33, last quarter in :37 and the closing furlong in :17 1/2.

The week's fastest work by the juvenile pacers was turned in by a pair from the Haines stable, when Blackhawk by Abbedale 2:01 1/2 and Melody Maid by His Majesty 1:59 1/4, were caught a mile in 2:31 1/2 with the last eighth in :17 1/2.

W. E. Miller caught the eyes of the numerous spectators when he let the gamey looking brown colt, Kerr Scott by Scotland 1:59 1/4, breeze the last quarter in :38, final eighth in :18 1/2. This fellow has not had a lot of training, but he can do his lesson like an apt pupil.

Snow White, the only pink skinned race horse on record, gave evidence this week that she has something on the ball when it comes to trotting. There has been much speculation about this beautiful snow white filly, a member of the H. M. Parshall stables, as to whether or not she would have any speed. Her effort on Friday was in no sense unusual, yet she did trot a last eighth in :19 1/4, and it is generally conceded that one that can show that much off the light training she has had is no mean prospect. In fact this filly really has a lot of speed, and don't be surprised if she "makes the grade."

Dick Case of Goshen, N. Y., publicity director for the United States Trotting Association, the organization that controls harness horse racing throughout the country, arrived in Pinehurst on Saturday morning. Dick will spend several days at the Pinehurst track, assembling interesting features about various ones of the 144 trotters and pacers that are in training there.

WALT DISNEY PIECES EXHIBITED AT CAROLINA

DONALD PARSON POEM HAS FOR SUBJECT KIN OF MRS. AUSLANDER

Death of Shelley Appears in Current Issue of "Wings;" Poet Laureate and Wife Lead Forum Symposium Monday Night.

By a curious coincidence, Mrs. Joseph Auslander's great-great-grandfather — Percy Bysshe Shelley—is the subject of a poem by Donald Parson appearing in the current issue of the poetry quarterly "Wings." Mrs. Auslander, as has been announced, will, together with her husband, conduct a Poet's Symposium at the Forum on Monday evening.

Almost any student of literature remembers the shipwreck off the coast of Italy which resulted in the death of the bard; the discovery of the volume of Keats in his coat pocket; the funeral pyre built on the shore; and Trelawny's dramatic rescue of the poet's heart. However, few of them indeed, could express it as beautifully as Mr. Parson has done:

A POET'S DEATH

In storm he lived and with the storm he died;

Such is the poet's proper course and end.

He makes the wind his confidant, his friend

The wave, an Adriatic, is his bride.

And if the tempest rises in his pride

To slay the singer of the shining ode,

We must not weep, but bear the sad-weet load

Like those who gather meersch-schaum from the tide.

So build a bon-fire on some lonely coast,

A few friends watching, but the world apart.

His soul was like a flame, and now in death

The body shall go winging to its ghost,

A cloud, a sky-lark, and the west wind's breath.

Then let Trelawny snatch the burning heart.

The following are recent Forum subscribers: Dr. and Mrs. DeWitt B. Nettleton, Mrs. E. Worthington Hale, Miss Aleeta Hilton and a group membership from the teaching staff of the Pinehurst High School.

JONES WINS FIGHT

a nice group of trigger fly-wheels to Red Houghton's face, and retired him from working order in the time of exactly four seconds. Houghton, who put up a bracing battle against Ellis McKenzie, the Pinehurst Laundry Kid last week, started to totter, with blood coming out of the corner of his eye. His handler took him out and the referee held up Overton's arm for a technical knockout.

David Wright Jr. of Taylor-town and Franklin Radcliffe, also of the caddie village mixed 'em up for their three round go. The judges gave Wright the decision. In another darkie bout, between Royster McCall, caddie, and Robert McKinnon of Linden Road, McCall got the votes for a win.

Robert Walker, former Central South American and northern New England featherweight champion, was referee.

Hunters Seek Longer

Turkey, Quail Season

More than 300 local sportsmen of Moore and Richmond counties have signed a petition addressed to the state game commission seeking to have the shooting season on quail and turkey in North Carolina extended from December 1st to March 1st. The season now ends on February 15th.

J. D. Shuck, state game commissioner has the petition. In South Carolina the season does not close until March 1. Local and visiting sportsmen feel that an extension of the season in North Carolina will be helpful in bringing more hunters into this resort area.

He Loved the Lady!

But he wanted value, too.

He said to the lady, "Why not go to Mme. Jabaly's and still get the world's finest in fashions at their new low price levels"

The lady did.

She was greatly enthused over the exquisite collection. The lady bought a few pretties.

She was very happy. He was, too.

Thank You.
