MOURNING FINLAND

From Helsinki, Foreign Minister Tanner declared that peace was made without consent of the army command, but not until the government had been advised as to the "position on the front." Tanner said Finland's defense foundered because of the unwillingness of Sweden and Norway to send troops, or to permit troops to cross their soil.

"All that can be said against us," said Tanner sadly, "is that as a nation we are too small."

From the war front there was news of Field Marshal Baron Gustaf Mannerheim's final order to his troops, in which he declared that 200,000 Russians and 15,000 Finns had died in the war.

"Our fate is hard," declared the Field Marshal, "now that we have to give up to an alien race, a race with a life philosophy and moral values different from ours—this ground which for centuries we have cultivated with labor and sweat."

"We have paid our debts to the last penny to the West. We are proudly conscious of the historic duties which we will continue to fulfill; defense of that western civilization which has been our heritage for centuries."

There was bitter fighting until the very minute the armistice ended the war.

In London, David Lloyd George, the World War Prime Minister declared in Parliament:

"In my heart I am glad of the news, but it is the old trouble—too late. Too late for Czechoslovakia. Too late for Poland. Certainly too late for Finland. It is always too late, or too little, or both. That is the road to disaster."

In Berlin, official sources beamed with satisfaction over the settlement of the Russian-Finnish war. They declared the terms were "in just proportion to the sacrifices made, in just proportion to the needs and necessities which certain states in large living spaces have a right to claim."

"The Finns," declared a German official, "proved more sensible than the Poles."

13 Killed, 37 Injured By Tornadoic Storm

SHREVEPORT, La., March 13.—(P)—Thirteen persons were killed, at least 37 injured and hundreds made homeless by tornadoic winds which struck hardest in Shreveport late yesterday and then moved across the border into Texas.

Fire Chief Sloan J. Flores estimated that damage in Shreveport alone was more than $1,000,000. Libby-Owens-Ford Glass Plant officials counted their loss at $200,000. The State Fair Grounds damage was estimated at $100,000. Barksdale Field, one of the nation's major army air posts, suffered only slightly.

The storm, accompanied by hail and rain, caused most damage in a Shreveport residential section before striking across the border in the area between Elysian Fields and Bethany, Tex. Five hundred Shreveport homes were damaged.

INDICT AGENT

WASHINGTON, March 13.—(P)—A district grand jury today indicted World Tourists, Inc., and Jacob Raisin, described as a director and officer, on a charge of failure to register with the state department as agents of a foreign government.

The indictment described the firm as an agent of the U. S. S. R. Travel Co., of Moscow, and said it was known also as Intourist. Raisin was said to be known also as J. N. Golos.

COTTON PRICE BREAKS

NEW YORK, March 13.—(P)—An active selling movement in cotton futures, touched off by wide breaks at Liverpool and Bombay, pounded down the price 75 cents to around $1.25 a bale today. The market remained in low territory in the final hour.

The Russian-Finnish peace agreement had no special influence on the market, trade opinion held.

LOWMAN DIES

ELMIRA, N. Y., March 13.—(P)—Seymour Lowman, Lieutenant Governor of New York in 1925-26 and assistant secretary of the U. S. Treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement, customs and coast guard from 1927 to 1933, died today. He was 71.

KIWANIANS ARE TOLD HOW TAXES THEY PAY ARE SPENT BY STATE

W. J. Spain, assistant revenue commissioner of North Carolina, gave Kiwanians, attending their weekly luncheon meeting in the Southern Pines Country Club yesterday noon, an earful of facts concerning taxes, the bugaboo of numerous North Carolinians.

Presenting himself as a talker, not a speaker or orator, Mr. Spain took time out on several occasions to shower words of commendation on the staff of workers employed in the Revenue department responsible for making this division of the State's activities one of the best in the country, and who, as "brothers of the flesh," were carrying out the tax laws to the best of their ability.

Using figures as a word picture, he pointed out that during the fiscal year 1937-1938 the combined income of the General and Highway funds amounted to $69,586,015, with an operating expenditure of $1,755,910, or 2.52 percentage. During the 1938-1939 period there was a comparable income of $67,788,655 and an operating expenditure of $1,435,330, a 2.12 percentage.

During both periods education was responsible for the largest outlay of funds, with 70 percent being used for this purpose during the last fiscal year. Debt service was next with 11.1 percent, State aid 5.6 percent, and administrative 5.4 percent. Charitable and correctional institutions received 4.8 percent, judicial 1.3 percent, pensions 1.2 percent and legal .6 percent.

He also informed the Kiwanians that a total of 726 persons are employed in the operation of the Revenue department, which is divided into five divisions, revenue, motor vehicle, highway service, highway patrol and gas and oil inspections. Mail handled on the peak day amounted to 19,746 pieces, with an income of $7,565.140.

Mr. Spain closed his interesting talk by inviting his listeners, collectively or individually, to visit the offices of the Revenue department in Raleigh, for an inspection of the entire operation of what he referred to as "your department of revenue."

Walter Lee Horton, chief of the addressograph division of the department, accompanied Mr. Spain on his visit, and after being "sold" as an entertainer by Mr. Spain in his introduction, Mr. Horton proceeded to "sell" himself.

STEEPLECHASE

faintly describe the rushing hither and yon of the beautifully attired women and smartly garbed men anxiously striving to get the real inside "dope" on the next event, or lining the route to urge on their selection. The horses worked out yesterday morning, and will again this morning for their final try-outs.

There are five races on this year's card of the Sandhills meeting. The opening event will be one and one-half miles over hurdles for a purse of $300. The starting time is 3:00 o'clock. The other events follow in this order:
