CHURCH DEDICATION.

A Great Day for Pisgah--A Large Congregation--A Fine Sermon, and a Good Collection.

Written for THE TRIBUNE.
Sunday, December 7th, was the day set apart for the dedication of Pisgah church, which is a beautiful building, 30 by 45 feet, and situate on the Morganton road nine miles from Rutherfordton.

By 11 o'clock a. m. the house was filled with those who came to enjoy the service, and the fame of the preacher brought representatives from remote parts of the county, so that not only was the house full, but a good sized congregation on the outside.

Services commenced at 11 o'clock a. m. with Miss Etta Watson, of Sunshine, at the organ assisted by a good choir, so the music was all right.

Dr. Detwiler announced the first hymn and then led the congregation in an earnest prayer. Rev. J. D. Baie, the pastor, read the first lesson and Rev. J.
B. Carpenter, former pastor, the second.
That expressive old hymn "I Love Thy Kingdom Lord," was sung, the congregation joining in the song with fervor.

Rev. Dr. Detwiler then read as his text, Joshua, 5: 13-15, and announced as his theme, "God's revelation of himself to the individual soul," which he illustrated in the case of Joshua meeting "the Captain of the Lord's host," Moses in the poetry of the "burning bush," Isiah in the vision of "the temple," Ezekiel in the "wheel within wheels," and "in the fullness of time" Christ in his universal view, made real to each individual conscience through the gift of the Holy Ghost. From these illustrations he made three deductions: First that a personal revelation of God is adapted to the limitations of individual conscience. Illustrated by appeals of revelation to personal imagination. Second; His personal revelation is expansive in his character, enriching man's experience and enlarging his vision.
Third; That this personal revelation meets all the wants of man's spiritual nature; giving courage in danger, comfort in sorrow, knowledge in perplexities and victory in defeat.

The above outline, to those who have heard Dr. Detwiler, gives an idea of the sermon, but when I say that he was at his best, only a faint idea of the treat enjoyed by those present.

After the sermon Rev. J. B. Carpenter announced that that there yet remained the important event of the day, the dedication, and that before this could take place that a debt of $55.00 must be provided for, and before this was done he would read a short sketch of the church as follows:
