

THE TRIBUNE.

W. F. RUCKER, Editor
L. D. MILLER, Manager.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1902.

NEARING THE END OF THE SECOND YEAR.

THE RUTHERFORDTON TRIBUNE made its first appearance on the 9th day of January, nearly two years ago, and it will soon enter upon its third year. During that time its managers have sought to make as good a paper for the people as they could with the limited means at their disposal.

We think that THE TRIBUNE has not labored in vain to gain the confidence of the good citizenship of the town and county; that it has reached in some degree a standpoint of influence is not doubted, because we have reason to believe that it has done some good for the town and county during its brief existence.

In fact expressions of many of our best citizens to that effect have placed the question beyond argument. So before the close of this year we wish to extend to our friends sincere thanks for the kind and valuable support and encouragement they have so freely and willingly given to us.

Every kindness will be long remembered and every act toward us has been duly appreciated. It is true that some have thought best to withhold their subscriptions from us and place them elsewhere outside of the county; they have seemed not to appreciate their own paper, but we have no complaint to make about them on this score.

No paper can prosper as it ought without the staunch support and sympathy of the people of the territory in which it is printed and circulated; and on the other hand, no citizen can really afford to deny himself the news of his country. To this fact we simply wish to call the attention of the people, not to chide them, but that they may think seriously of the matter.

The present management of the paper will undergo a change about the first of the year. Its present editor will draw out, but THE TRIBUNE will continue to be printed every week just as it has been heretofore, giving the news of the town and county. Mr. L. D. Miller will be its manager and proprietor and will spare no pains to keep it continuing in its growth. We ask that the people still stand with him in this enterprise of a public benefit, and lend him their aid in trying to make it worthy of praise.

There will be no paper printed next week, the office force wishing to take a few days off. So with many thanks for past services, and with best wishes for a merry Christmas and happy New Year we will wait until the beginning of the year before sending you a paper again.

A Thousand Dollars' Worth of Good. A. B. Thomas, a well-known coal operator of Buffalo, O., writes: 'I have been afflicted with kidney and bladder trouble for years, passing gravel or stones with excruciating pain. I got no relief from medicines until I began taking Foley's Kidney Cure, then the result was surprising. A few doses started the brick dust like fine stones and now I have no pain across my kidneys and I feel like a new man. It has done me a $1000 worth of good.' Sold by The Drug Store.

WHY INDIANS PAINT.

Legend of the Red Men Explains the Strange Custom. Once an old Apache Indian who asked the question why his people painted their faces told this little legend:

"Long ago when men were weak and animals were big and strong a chief of the red men who lived in these mountains went out to get a deer, for his people were hungry. 'After walking all day he saw a deer and shot at it, but the arrow was turned aside and wounded a mountain lion, which was also after the deer. When the lion felt the sting of the arrow, he jumped up and bounded after the man, who ran for his life. 'He was almost exhausted, and when he felt his strength giving way he fell to the ground, calling on the big bear, who, you know, in the grandfather of men, to save him. 'The big bear heard the call and saw that to save the man he had to act quickly, so he scratched his foot and sprinkled his blood over the man. 'Now, you must know that no animal will eat of the bear or taste of his blood. So when the lion reached the man he smelled the blood and turned away, but as he did so his foot scraped the face of the man, leaving the marks of his claws on the blood smeared face. 'When the man found that he was unharmed, he was so thankful that he left the blood to dry on his face and never washed it off, but left it until it peeled off. 'Where the claws of the lion scraped off of there were marks that turned brown in the sun, and where the blood stayed on it was lighter. Now all men paint their faces that way with blood and scrape it off in streaks when they hunt or go to war.'"

THE CARIBS OF DOMINICA.

Fierce Savages Who Have Dropped Their Man Eating Ways. A recent colonial report on the Caribs of Dominica is interesting. Very mysterious is the origin of the fierce savages, or almost extinct, who were in possession of the smaller West Indian islands when the first white man burst into that silent sea. They showed a distinct Mongolian character, and it would be hard to distinguish a Carib infant from a Chinese child. Some twenty years ago a Chinaman, who had drifted to Dominica declared the Caribs to be his own people and married a pure bred Carib woman. The resultant child showed no deviation from the native type.

Today they have dropped their man eating ways, but in the sixteenth century they scooped the Spanish main in search of human food, and from Porto Rico alone are said to have taken more than 5,000 men to be eaten. Though Spaniards, Frenchmen, Dutchmen, negroes, or wherever they all meet to them, yet these Caribs seem to have shown preference for certain nationalities. Davis, for instance, in his "History of the Caribby Islands," tells us that "the Caribbians have tested of all the nations that frequented them and affirm that the French are the most delicate and the Spaniards are the hardest of digestion." Laborer also, in one of his journals in St. Vincent, appears to have overtaken on the road a communicative Carib who was beguiling the tedious of his journey by gnawing at the remains of a boiled human foot. This gentleman only ate Arrowkaws. "Christians," he said, "give me the boligache."

ANIMAL ODDITIES.

Breton sheep are not much larger than a fair sized hare. The mandarin duck is one of the most beautiful of aquatic birds. The queen is always at the mercy of the bees and is a slave instead of a ruler.

A beetle one-third the size of a horse would be able to pull against more than a dozen horses. The greyhound, which can cover a mile in a minute and twenty-eight seconds, is the fastest of quadrupeds.

The giraffe, armadillo and porcupine have no vocal cords and are therefore mute. Whales and serpents are also voiceless. The glowworm lays eggs which are themselves luminous. However, the young hatchlings from them are not possessed of the peculiar properties until after the first transformation.

To escape from dangers which menace them strabismus commit suicide. This instinct of self destruction is found only in the highest and lowest scales of animal life. Rubidians Proverbs. The daily talk of the Hebrideans has a shrewd pithiness. "Let the loon go laughing home," they say. That is, "be careful of whatever you have borrowed."

If a person were to be met coldly on going to a friend's house, he would say: "The shore is the same, but the shellfish is not the same." The impossible is denoted by "blackberries in midwinter and sea gulls' eggs in autumn."

Better this kneading than to be empty. That is, "Half a loaf is better than no bread." "The man who is idle will put the cats on the fire." "He that does not look before him will look behind him."

"A house without a dog, without a cat, without a little child, is a house without pleasure and without laughter." Honors in Italy. Speaking of homes and ways of living, Mr. Luigi Villari in "Italian Life in Town and Country" reveals a curious state of affairs. In Italian cities there are no slum districts. The poorest of the poor may be lodged in the same palace with people whose income runs over $25,000 annually. The poor are packed away in the garrets or in the cellars, and their misery must be rendered all the more acute by the sight and scent of such lavish living. High class Italians have no objections whatever to dwelling over a shop or place of business.

Forgot Himself. Mrs. Henpeck—We her bin married twenty years today, Hiram. Hiram (with a sigh)—Yes, for twenty years we've fought— Mrs. Henpeck (scoffing)—What? You old wretch! Hiram (quickly)—Life's battles to gether, Miranda.—Judge.

Too Valuable to Lose. Mr. Grosau—Sure, Motke, an' what did you do with your dog? Mike—Oh, he was worth $10 an' I kep' 'tinkin' if some wan sh'd steal me O' could ill afford 't' lose, so O' gave um away, b'gorral!—Chicago News.

Awfully Brought. Dasherly—Is he so very ignorant? Flashily—Ignorant? Why, actually, he doesn't even know a cure for colds!—Kansas City Independent.

Considerate. She—Why did you ask Belle to go with us? He—I saw she was going anyhow, and I didn't wish her to feel mean over it.—Smart Set.

Boy's Life Saved from Membranous Croup. O. W. Lynch, a prominent citizen of Winchester Ind., writes: "My little boy had a severe attack of membranous croup, and only got relief after taking Foley's Honey and Tar. He got relief after one dose and I feel that it saved the life of my boy." Refuse Substitutes. Sold by The City Drug Store.

HER FRENCH A FAILURE.

The Tragedy of a Blacking Bottle in the Latin Quarter. She was spending her first month in the Latin quarter of Paris. She spoke English fluently, with a Boston accent; also she spoke German, could make a fair stammer at Italian and knew a few words of Hindoostanee, but of French not a syllable.

One morning she found herself in a wrestling nitch with a bottle of French shoe blacking. The pesky bottle, understanding that it had to deal with an alien, refused to give up its cork. She had no corker of her own and did not know how to ask for one, even if she dared suspect that her next door neighbor might be possessed of the luxury. The time of her pet fork she had bent on the obstinate plug, the point of her best penknife she had broken off short, and nothing remained except to throw the bottle out of a window to get at its contents. She decided as a last resort to try breaking the neck of the bottle. With a "stove lid hitter" she administered several cautious taps in the region of the jugular of the obstinate neck. "Nothin' doin'." Then she tapped harder still, and the blacking came. All over her fingers it came, all over her light woolen skirt and over much of the floor and window sill.

She decided to have the skirt cleaned and, packing it into a bundle, tripped off to an establishment where she found embarrassment, because she could not understand questions. Finally she got the drift of the conversation. The cleaners wanted to know what had caused the spot. Fortunately a bottle of shoe blacking was standing near by, and she pointed at this and "oid" and "oid" until she left in heightened spirits, feeling that she was not helpless and that she had made the cleaners understand. When the skirt was duly returned the following week, it was dyed black.—New York Tribune.

NOTICE.

By virtue of a judgment and decree of foreclosure rendered at the September term 1902 of the Superior court for Rutherford county, in the action entitled "Anna C. Morgan, guardian for Mary Logan Whitehead (nee) Morgan, and Anna C. Morgan in her individual capacity, against M. W. Logan and Arty G. Logan," I will sell at the court house door in Rutherford county, for cash, at public auction, on Monday, the 5th day of January, 1903, the following described lands, to-wit: Lying in Rutherford county on Second Broad river, adjoining the lands of Robert Fife and others being the lands conveyed by F. B. Logan and wife to Mary W. Logan and recorded in the Register's office for Rutherford county in Book 60, No. 172, and bounded as follows: Beginning at a walnut on the bank of the river, thence south 49 west 118 poles to the river, thence south 88 west 12 poles to a stake in the road; thence south 82 east 88 poles to a B O and pipe; thence north 53 east 33 poles to a stake; thence north 60 east 110 poles to a spruce on the bank of the river; thence up the river as it meanders to the beginning, containing — acres.

Also a second tract known as the Mill tract, containing eight acres more or less, including the mill and water power and all appurtenances thereto, adjoining the Oella Logan covey, and the lands of J. G. Logan. The said lands will be sold to satisfy the said judgment for the sum of five hundred dollars ($500) with interest on the same at six per cent per annum from June 19, 1896, and the costs of the action.

Persons desiring to purchase valuable property will find it to their advantage to examine the above property before date of sale. This December 25th, 1902. B. A. JUSTICE, Commissioner. McBrayer & Justice, Attorneys.

NOTICE.

By virtue of a mortgage deed from Mary Owens and Amos Owens to me, recorded in the Register's office for Rutherford county in Book 10 of real estate mortgages on page 147, I will sell at public auction for cash at the court house door in Rutherford county on Monday, January 5th, 1903, the following described lands lying in Rutherford county adjoining the Elizabeth Murray lands and the Jenkins land, beginning at a rock pile in Elizabeth Murray's line about 250 feet north of the Sweeney white oak corner of the Jenkins tract, and runs with his line south 146 west 100 poles to a stake, corner of said A. F. Owen's new & W. Owens' thence with said line east 100 poles to a chestnut, corner of same; thence south 100 poles to a stake and pointer, corner of same; thence north 12 west 198 poles to a chestnut by a large rock in Elizabeth Murray's line; thence with it north 55 west 184 poles to the beginning, containing one hundred and fifty-three acres, more or less. This property will be sold under the powers of the said mortgage for the purpose of applying the proceeds to the discharge of the costs recovered by the plaintiff from the defendants in the action entitled "Sarah Gaultfield against Amos Owens and Mary Owens," as is set forth in the said mortgage deed.

The costs so recovered amounts to about one hundred and five dollars ($105) as will appear by bill of costs in the said cause as taxed by the clerk of the Superior court. This December 25th, 1902. SARAH GAULTFIELD, Mortgagee. McBrayer & Justice, Attorneys.

NOTICE.

By virtue of a decree of the Superior court of Rutherford county, entitled "Alpha Morrow, administratrix of John S. Morrow, deceased, against Claude Morrow and others, heirs at law of John S. Morrow, deceased," the undersigned will sell at public auction at the court house door in Rutherford county, on the 5th day of January, 1903, about ten and three-quarters acres of land lying in Cool Springs township, adjoining the lands of Joe Hardin, Joseph Huntley and the Middleton Sutton tract and the Cox lands. Said land will be sold to create assets for the payment of debts, and the surplus, if any, to be partitioned among the heirs at law of the deceased. On this tract of land is a neat cottage, and anyone desiring such property will do well to call on the undersigned who will show them the said lands. This December 25th, 1902. ALPHA MORROW, Administratrix of John S. Morrow, Deceased. McBrayer & Justice, Attorneys.
