"Wine of Cardui is indeed a blessing to tired women. Having suffered for seven years with weakness and bearing-down pains, and having tried several doctors and different remedies with no success, your Wine of Cardui was the only thing which helped me, and eventually cured me. It seemed to build up the weak parts, strengthen the system and correct irregularities."

By "tired women" Mrs. Adams means nervous women who have disordered menses, falling of the womb, ovarian troubles or any of these ailments that women have. You can cure yourself at home with this great woman's remedy, Wine of Cardui. Wine of Cardui has cured thousands of cases which doctors have failed to benefit. Why not begin to get well today? All druggists have $1.00 bottles. For any stomach, liver or bowel disorder Thedford's Black-Draught should be used.

IN EXTRA SESSION CONGRESS CONVENES

According to the Proclamation of the President.

LARGEST ASSEMBLY YET KNOWN.

For Purpose of Enacting Legislation Necessary to Make Effective Cuban Reciprocity Treaty Fifty-Eighth Congress Convenes.

Washington, Nov. 9.—The fifty-eighth congress convened in extraordinary session at noon today in accordance with the proclamation of President Roosevelt, for the purpose of enacting legislation necessary to make effective the Cuban reciprocity treaty. The day was devoted simply to personal greetings and organization.

The house assembled the largest membership in its history, and the scene before the gavel fell in that body was one of animation, both on the floor, in the cloak rooms and in the lobbies and corridors.

The day was crisp and bright and the appearance of a new structure with a coat of white paint and complete renovation within.

Crowds of eager spectators, both men and women, thronged the corridors and rotunda of the capitol early in the day.

In the Senate. With galleries crowded, with the chamber a mass of elaborate floral tributes and nearly every senator in his seat the gavel of President Pro Tem. Frye sounded at noon today calling the senate together in the second extraordinary session of the fifty-eighth congress.

The special session of the senate following the adjournment last spring of the fifty-seventh congress eliminated much of the routine work, which otherwise would have been performed today. New senators had gone through the formality of taking oaths of office, seats had been assigned and with the exception of the appointment of some vacancies all functions of the organization had been completed.

Long before the hour of assembling had arrived the galleries were taxed to their capacity although admission was gained by card only.

Many high officials of the government left their desks at the department to witness the opening of the session and greet their legislative friends; many strangers in Washington had their first glimpse of congress, while the capitol was the Mecca of the Washingtonian.

President's Message.
To the Senate and House of Representatives: I have convened the congress that it may consider the legislation necessary to put into operation the commercial treaty with Cuba which was ratified by the senate at its last session and subsequently by the Cuban government. I deem such legislation demanded not only by our interest but by our honor. We cannot, with propriety, abandon the course upon which we have so wisely embarked. When the acceptance of the Platt amendment was required from Cuba by the action of congress of the United States, this government thereby definitely committed itself to the policy of treating Cuba as occupying a unique position as regards this country. It was provided that when the island became a free and independent republic she should stand in such close relations with us as in certain respects to come within our system of international policy, and it necessarily followed that she must also to a certain degree become included within the lines of our economic policy.

Situated, as Cuba is, it would not be possible for this country to permit the strategic abuse of the plan by any foreign military power. It is for that reason that certain limitations have been imposed upon her financial policy and that naval stations have been conceded by her to the United States. The negotiations as to the details of these naval stations are on the eve of completion. They are so situated as to prevent any idea that there is the intention ever to use them against Cuba or otherwise than for the protection of Cuba from the assaults of foreign foes, and for the better safeguarding of American interests in the waters south of us.

These interests have largely increased by the consequences of the war with Spain and will be further increased by the building of the isthmian canal. They are both military and economic. The granting to us by Cuba of the naval stations above alluded to is of the utmost importance from a military standpoint and is a proof of the good faith with which Cuba is treating us. Cuba has made great progress since her independence was established. She has advanced steadily in every way. She already stands high among her sister republics of the new world. She is loyal by observing her obligations to us; and she is entitled to like treatment by us.

Disastrous Wrecks.
Carelessness is responsible for many a railway wreck and the same causes are making human wrecks of sufferers from throat and lung troubles. But since the advent of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, even the worst cases can be cured, and hopeless resignation is no longer necessary. Mrs. Lois Cragg, of Dorchester, Mass., is one of the many whose life was saved by Dr. King's New Discovery. This great remedy is guaranteed for all throat and lung diseases by T. B. Twitty and Thompson & Watkins, druggists. Price 50c, and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

The treaty submitted to you for approval secures to the United States economic advantages as great as those given to Cuba. Not an American interest is sacrificed. By the treaty a large Cuban market is secured to our producers. It is a market which lies at our doors, which is already large and which is capable of great expansion and which it is especially important to the development of our export trade. It would be indeed short sighted for us to refuse to take advantage of such opportunity and to force Cuba into making arrangements with other countries to our disadvantage.

This reciprocity treaty stands by itself. It is demanded on consideration of broad national policy as well as by our economic interest. It will do harm to no industry. It will benefit many industries. It is in the interest of our people as a whole, both because of its importance from the broad standpoint of international policy and because of economically it intimately concerns us to develop and secure the rich Cuban market for our farmers, artisans, merchants and manufacturers. Finally, it is desirable as a guaranty of good faith of our nation towards her sister republic to the south, whose welfare must ever be closely bound with ours. We gave her liberty. We are knit to her by the memories of blood and the courage of our soldiers who fought for her in war; by the memories of our administrators who saved her in peace and who started her so well on the difficult path of self-government. We must help her onward and upward, and in helping her we shall help ourselves.

The foregoing considerations cause the negotiation of the treaty with Cuba, and ratification by the senate. They now, with equal force, support the legislation by the congress which, by the terms of the treaty, is necessary to render it operative. A failure to enact such legislation would come perilously near a repudiation of the pledged faith of the nation. I transmit herewith the treaty as amended by the senate and ratified by the Cuban government. (Signed) Theodore Roosevelt, White House, Nov. 10, 1903.

Her death was from natural causes.

Hardly a dozen feet from the spot where the old woman lay the police found James Aldridge, an old man who had for years collected the rents from a number of houses owned by Mrs. Oliver and attended to all her business, dying from an apoplectic stroke.

Mrs. Oliver had lived and died surrounded by the dust and dirt of years. The two rooms in which she made her home were filled with boxes and rubbish of all kinds which contained the woman's wealth.

WONDERFUL FIND BY ARCHAEOLOGISTS

Hitherto Unknown Sayings of Jesus Christ Found.

BURIED SINCE SECOND CENTURY.

In a Mound, One Hundred Miles South of Cairo, Egypt, Some Interesting Discoveries Are Made by Explorers. Will Be of Great Interest.

London, Nov. 14.—Many hitherto unknown sayings of Jesus Christ have been discovered in Egypt by archaeologists who say they have been buried since the second century, 100 miles south of Cairo. Dr. Bernard P. Grenfell, who has been engaged in Egyptian excavation since 1884, at the general meeting of the Egypt exploration fund here yesterday, gave the following details:

Accompanied by Dr. Hunt, Dr. Grenfell found a rich ptolemaic necropolis at El-Hibeh.

The bulk of the documents from one mound consisted of a collection of sayings of Jesus. They are all introduced with the words:

"Jesus saith," and for the most part are new. The ends of the lines, unfortunately, are often obliterated. Apparently all the sayings were addressed to St. Thomas. One of the most remarkable is:

"Let not him that seeketh cease from his search until he finds, and when he finds, he shall wonder; wondering he shall reach the kingdom (ie the kingdom of heaven and when he reaches the kingdom he shall have rest."

Dr. Grenfell remarked that enormous interest would be aroused by the discovery, on account of the variations they disclosed from accepted texts. One variant of the mystical saying recorded in St. Luke, "The Kingdom of God is within you" was of great value, as the saying in the papyrus appeared in quite different surroundings from those attributed to it by the evangelist and extended far into another region.

According to Dr. Grenfell these sayings found the new gospel which is traditionally associated with St. Thomas.

An interesting variation of the gospel according to St. Luke, eleven chapters, and five-second verse ("Woe unto you, lawyers. For ye have taken away the key of knowledge; yet entered not in yourselves and yet entered not in yourselves and yet that were entering in, ye hindered") reads in the papyrus:

"Ye have hidden the key of knowledge; ye entered not yourselves and to them that were entering in, ye did not open."

Another fragment contained a discourse of Christ, closely related to the passages of the sermon on the mount, and a conversation between Christ and His disciples, in which Christ answers a question as to when His kingdom will be realized, saying:

"When ye return to the state of innocence which existed before the fall."

A valuable find was made in papyrus written in Latin, giving the text of the Epistle to the Hebrews and an epitome of Livy's six lost books. This, with other papyri, covering the period 150-187 B. C., threw much new and valuable information on the history of the world and marked the recovery of hitherto lost classical literature of Egypt.

A quaint instance of business methods in vogue in 138 A. D. is shown in the discovery of an amusing contract whereby a slave boy was to be taught shorthand for 120 drachmae.

The payment was arranged on a thoroughly business-like basis, 40 drachmae down, 40 on satisfactory evidence of progress and 40 on the attainment of proficiency.
