HAIZING AND OTHER REFLECTIONS.

There are certain epochs "round slave them as you may," in a man's life that determine his destiny; and we desire to touch one or two of these briefly, and in a spirit of candor that will carry conviction with our words.

The boy who has no ambition to succeed in life will live to die "unwept, unhonored and unsung"; but the one born with a laudable ambition will overcome all obstacles, and like a meteor illumine the darkness through which his course shall lie.

It is one of the wisest dispensations of Providence that boys do not realize the great responsibilities that shall later devolve upon them in the stern realities of the subsequent lives that await them.

These like the precious moments of time which are never taken away until others are given, unfold, one by one, as their increased strength is able to withstand the accumulated burdens.

The turning point in the lives of thousands of our progressive and ambitious young men is when they decide, with the concurrence of their parents, that they will or will not attend some reputable college.

It is not our purpose to criticize the Democratic management of two years ago in giving no heed to the call for a primary.

It is the present and the future that concerns us. Let the pressure be so generous, so general, so pronounced, and so determined that the Democratic executive committee can no longer resist the call.

A delightful dance was given last night at the A. & M. College in the Fullen Hall. It was attended by a very large number of young people and was greatly enjoyed.

On Friday night Commons Hall was the scene of a brilliant German, which was given by the U. N. C. German Club, complimentary to the visiting young ladies.

They wonder whether or not their boy will be caught in the gay whirl of society and forget the traditions and the teachings of the home life; for the home life of the State is largely Christian, whether its institutions are dominated by the Christ spirit or not.

One of the most grave obstacles that the new student sees ahead of him on entering college is hazing, not sympathy, the thing for which he yearns more than all else.

He must submit to an ordeal of unwarranted abuse,—sorry we cannot find a milder and more forcible term of expression,—at the hands of the older students, by way of "initiation," after which he is expected to join the army of his persecutors.

"My brethren, these things ought not so to be." Is there no remedy? Surely there is a remedy for every ill with reference to individual conduct.

My brethren, these things ought not so to be. Is there no remedy for every ill with reference to individual conduct. Laxness of discipline for the purpose of retaining the students now in college is deterring others from attending.

Few scenes are more pathetic than the home leaving of the young man for college, who endures almost martyrdom at the thought of expected ill treatment; and the anguish of his parents lest he fall by the allurements and temptations that beset his way.

It is not our purpose to criticize the Democratic management of two years ago in giving no heed to the call for a primary.

The recent rains and snows caused our public roads to get in pretty bad condition, but the wind and sunshine since has greatly improved them.

THE LENTEN SEASON.

Yesterday, February 17th, was Ash Wednesday, the first day of the Lenten season, lasting forty days preceding Easter.

It is intended to commemorate several Scriptural historical records. Moses in speaking of his visit to Mount Sinai says, "I abode in the mount forty days and forty nights. I did neither eat bread nor drink water."

The deluge covered the earth forty days and forty nights; the children of Israel traversed the wilderness forty days before reaching the promised Canaan; the Ninevites were allowed forty days for repentance; but perhaps the most striking of the many Bible illustrations is the following, found in the third chapter of St. Matthew: "Then was Jesus led up of the spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil."

By virtue of the power contained in a deed of trust made by T. M. Hamilton and wife, Bertha Hamilton, to R. V. King, trustee, the undersigned will sell the following described property at public auction, for cash, at the court house door in Rutherfordton on Monday, February 22nd, 1904, the same being in the county of Rutherford and State of North Carolina, lying on the Leebetter road and designated as follows: One house and lot lying on the west side of said road, adjoining lands of T. C. McBrayer, F. Cox, Martin Simmons and M. C. Hamilton and bounded as follows: Beginning on a stake in the Leebetter road, thence south 87 1/2° 48' 100 chains, Mark Gross' old corner; thence with his old line south 2 1/2° east 5 chains to a stone; thence north 87 1/2° east 3 chains to a stone, in the above named road; thence with it as it meanders to the beginning, containing two acres, more or less.

Summons to the defendant in the above action, having been issued and returned endorsed, "not found within the county," and after further search and due diligence, it appearing that defendant had left the State upon affidavit of plaintiff this order of publication was granted.

Wherefore let the defendant, Lear Hamrick, take notice that the above action is now pending and coming on to be heard at the spring term of the Superior court in Rutherfordton, beginning on the 14th day of March, 1904. The said action is brought to obtain divorce from the defendant because of desertion and abandonment. Herein fail not to answer or demur to the complaint of the plaintiff or the relief therein demanded will be granted.

The above is all well fenced—half wire fence—and everything in first-class order. For sale or rent. Apply to MRS. S. CAUFIELD, F 18, Rutherfordton, N. C.

Mr. Richard Turner, of Walker, N. C., is planning to move his grist and saw mill fixtures to this place soon. Mr. C. F. Lewis has purchased the Thorn property, and contemplates enlarging by additional building to be ready for summer boarders. Mr. J. R. Foster we learn is going to add extra rooms to his house so as to take a larger number of boarders next summer.

HON. MARCUS A. HANNA DEAD.

An Astute Politician, a Shrewd Organizer, His Loss to the Party Irreparable.

The death of Senator Marcus A. Hanna, at Washington, at 6:40 p. m. on Monday last, has removed one of the most prominent figures from public life.

He has been chairman of the Republican National Committee for eight years, and was only recently re-elected to succeed himself as United States Senator from Ohio.

Though Senator Hanna had not been very well since the middle of December, he still attended to his duties until about the first of this month when his illness developed into typhoid fever.

His physicians were hopeful of his recovery until last Friday, when he had a congestive chill, after which he gradually grew weaker until the end came. Yesterday imposing funeral ceremonies were conducted in the Senate Chamber.

By virtue of the power contained in a deed of trust made by T. M. Hamilton and wife, Bertha Hamilton, to R. V. King, trustee, the undersigned will sell the following described property at public auction, for cash, at the court house door in Rutherfordton on Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach.

For many years it has been supposed that Catarrh of the Stomach caused indigestion and dyspepsia, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes Catarrh. Repeated attacks of indigestion inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach, thus causing the glands to secrete mucus instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.
