

Children's Column.

Dear Headlight—I will write you once more. I am going to school yet. Our school will close May 15th and we expect a nice time. Mr. Editor, we will be glad to have you with us. Now I will answer Ethel M. Bouds' question: Our Lord was crucified the third hour, or nine o'clock in the morning. I will also answer one of Katie's questions: The word and, occurs in the Bible 4627 times. Now I will ask a question. In what book of the Bible is the name of God not mentioned? I will close for this time, with best wishes to the Headlight.

John Willie Kearns.

ROCKINGHAM. Dear Editor—I will write for my first time. My papa takes the Headlight and I enjoy reading the children's letters very much. I am a little girl, ten years old. I have no pets, except a little kitten. Our school has been out some time. I will be glad when it starts. I can have such a nice time at school. I have five brothers and three sisters. Well, I will ask a riddle: What is it that is four weeks old and never gets wiser, as old as Adam if he was alive. Round as a ring, deep as a spring, death of many a pretty little thing. If I see my letter in print, I will write again. Best wishes to the Headlight.

Annie Austin.

CORDOVA. Dear Headlight—Here I come for my third time. I told you if my letter was printed, I would write again. My playmates and me have good times gathering wild flowers every Sunday. Well, I will ask a riddle of the cousins. As I went across a London bridge, I saw a little green house, in that little green house there was a white house, in the little white house, was a red house, in the red house was white and black children. Well, I will ask a question: Who was it that was hung by the hair of the head? I will stop for this time, with best wishes to the Headlight and children's column.

Violet.

ELMORE. Dear Editor. I will come into your happy band for the second time. The first time I wrote I didn't tell you much about myself. I am a girl of nearly 14 summers, with fair complexion, light hair and blue eyes. I am 5 feet and 8 inches high and weigh 81 lbs. I go to Sunday school every Sunday. Mr. W. H. Morrison is our superintendent and Mr. L. P. Gibson is my teacher. We are going to have a children's day some time soon. Come, Mr. Editor, and be with us.—we are anticipating a nice time. I will close by asking and answering some questions. Ethel M. Bouds, it was about the ninth hour that Christ died. Annie Porter, it was a man ploughing that was dead in the middle and alive at both ends. Now I will ask a few questions. Who was the first martyred president? How long did it take Noah to build the ark? What was Geo. Washington's father named? If this is printed perhaps I will come again. Your friend,

Minnie B. Thomas.

DOCKERY'S STORE. Dear Editor—I will come in your happy band of cousins for my second time. Leslie Gibson, I will write a few words on politeness and education. If everybody would be polite the world would be so much happier and better. There are plenty of young men and boys that are not polite. There is but one boy in ten who is polite, and often he is not as polite as he should be. I think a boy 5 years old should lift his hat to girls, young ladies and old women, and do everything he could to be polite. He should also not take up any bad habits, or if he has any, should drop them. Drinking and cursing are the worst habits which anybody can take up. Some people owning a little property get stuck up, just because they own a little property. They think they are rich and when they meet anybody whom they think don't have as much as they, they turn up their noses and pretend they don't see you. Cousins don't be that way, even if you are well off, or rich, because that doesn't do any good at all. It does harm. It makes people dislike you. Every body ought to have an education, but sometimes people who are poorer than others, can't get an education easily. If they would work for one, they might get it. Lincoln was as poor as Job's turkey, but he got an education by working hard. He would often go and split rails and make a little money to go to school on. You see Lincoln was a poor farmer's boy, but became president of the United States. If you don't succeed at first, try, try again. Some children don't like to go to school. Most children, the larger they get, the more they like to go to school, but some don't. They think because their lessons are a little hard they can't learn them, and they don't try. Will some of the cousins be so kind as to send me the words of Baggage Coach Ahead and Kathleen. Your friend,

Annie Covington.

Calling in at Watson's store the other day, we were so completely captivated by the handsome display of Lowney's fine candies, that we silently mused over our boyhood days when we couldn't get candy to eat—couldn't get Lowney's then. By the by, go and try that candy. The boy that carries Lowney's candy to his sweetheart can count on a winning card.

It would be well to defer until tomorrow, the unkind things you are tempted to do to-day.

Like a Drowning Man.
"Five years ago a disease the doctors called dyspepsia took such hold of me that I could scarcely go," writes Geo. S. Marsh, well-known attorney of Norfolk, Texas. "I took quantities of peppin and other medicines, but nothing helped me. As a drowning man grabs at a straw I grabbed at Kodol. I felt an improvement at once and after a few bottles am sound and well." Kodol is the only preparation which exactly reproduces the natural digestive juices and consequently "is the only one which digests any good food and cures any form of stomach trouble."

Gentlemen:—

This is to certify that I have used "Cerealtite" for a number of years and have sold it for the past three years and I, myself, find it to be equal to, if not better in many respects than Nitrate Soda. My best customers are anxious to use it again this year. On my crops I used it on wheat, oats and cotton, and for every dollar I invested in "Cerealtite" I am sure it paid me $2.50. I prefer "Cerealtite" as a top dressing to Nitrate Soda even if the goods were the same price.

Yours truly,
J. W. Stephenson.
