FREDDAY, AUGUST 29, 1902.

Anglo-Saxon's reply to our remarks of last week are without much significance and are so unfounded, and of so little force that we hardly deem a reply necessary. However, it may be well enough for us to assure our neighbor that we have never expressed any dissatisfaction as to ourselves, and one more time that we have always said we would support the nominees. We also wish to assure it one more time, that there is "some dissatisfaction" in the rank and file of the Democratic party, which it seems to admit in its issue of this week. Now, we ask you kindly, what's the matter with you anyhow? You advise us to get in the middle of the road. It is a strange request, when we have been there all the time. Now a plain question—when the Headlight spoke of the dissatisfaction, independent ticket, Republican ticket, etc., didn't it mention these things as a reason why democrats should pull together against the common enemy, the Republicans? Now be fair, if you can. Sir, we are willing to compare our democracy with anybody, and if you vote as you indicate, you will vote precisely as we have always said we would vote, and as we expect to vote. We have never advised an independent ticket, but always to the contrary. In the primary, I did not vote any box where there were contesting candidates, preferring for reasons satisfactory to myself, not to vote there, until the nominations were made, then to support the nominee.

Again we ask, what is the matter?

We have no reflections to cast upon any nominee of the party. They are all gentlemen and democrats, and we can support them without ever thinking of a "dish of crow," but notwithstanding this there is some "opposition" to the ticket we expect to vote.

Finally, you have made assertions that you have utterly failed to substantiate. You have nosed into matters with which you had nothing to do, and you did it when we have treated you with the utmost courtesy. Your conduct has, in our opinion, been incompatible with the laws and customs in practice among contemporaries. You have shot at an imaginary foe, and by mistake fired a blank cartridge, therefore you get no game. If you think you have made anything out of the matter, we are willing that you shall enjoy it. If you are not satisfied just go on and we'll meet you on the field until you are satisfied.

APOLOGY TO SUBSCRIBERS.

We trust our patrons will excuse us for showing partiality to our neighbor, the Anglo-Saxon, in giving it so much space. We are under obligations to it in this respect, and we couldn't afford to slight it. We may have to do the same thing next week, and if so, we apologize to you in advance. Newspaper etiquette requires the extending of reciprocal favors, and we always like to do our part in such matters.

Sale of Valuable Property.

By virtue of an order from the County Board of Education, I will sell to the highest bidder, for cash, Sept. 12th at 12 o'clock m., the two school houses and lots in lower Wolf Pit, known as Districts No. 1 and 2 for white children.

These houses are in good condition and comparatively new. Either, or both houses can be purchased at private sale, at any time prior to Sept. 12th.

The sale will take place at the Harrington school house, and the right to reject any bid far below value, is hereby reserved.

COUNTY NEWS.

Pee Dee No. 2.

Miss Sallie Liles, of Pee Dee station, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Shores, at this place.

Mr. Luther Clegg, of Carthage, spent several days last week with Mr. S. McIntosh at this place.

Miss Annie Ewing is spending some time at her old home in the country.

The Rev. Mr. Braswell went down in South Carolina Sunday, to hold a protracted meeting.

W. W. and C. W. King and sisters are at the bedside of their sister, Mrs. Sinclair at Laurel Hill, who is not expected to live.

Mr. Grower's family, of Cordova, is moving to this place.

Nearly all of our people who have been visiting have returned.

We are sorry to state that Mrs. Norman Gilis has fever.

V. S. C.

Ledbetter's.

E. B. Lenox, of High Point, is visiting friends at this place.

Miss Florence McNair, of Robberdel, was visiting in the village last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald spent Sunday with J. P. Gibson and family of this place.

Quilting seems to be in fashion now among the young girls of this village, which may indicate a rough winter.

Machinist Ferguson seems to have made good headway with his work thus far. One week's work has made a lively appearance inside the mill.

The boys are making good use of their time now since the water is low—fish is being caught by the wholesale—some of the Robberdel people have carried away numerous bunches.

H. D. Ledbetter returned Sunday evening from upper Richmond where he visited his uncle, J. F. Ledbetter, who is quite sick, he reported his condition a little little more favorable.

There was a good number of this place including the writer who attended preaching at Green Lake church last Sunday. The house was pretty well filled. Rev. N. H. Guyton, occupied the pulpit and his sermon was a very impressive appeal.

Oh no, Mr. Gobbler, you have grasped the wrong idea. I did not intend casting any insinuations at any one. I simply stated that I was well pleased with the result of the primary. And while I was there I did not see any mud slinging or discriminating as had usually been the case on such occasions. This was the analysis of my remarks. Don't hollow quite so soon.

There was a picnic given over on Bear branch last Wednesday, to which most of the young peo-

LOTS OF GAS WASTED.

There is lots of unnecessary gas wasted by those who are trying to compare goods with us. We have only to show the many large bargains to convince the trade of the community that we are doing more business, selling more goods at less prices, than any house in the country.

WHY IS IT?

It is not because of our popularity alone. It is not because people think more of us than of our competitors, but is caused by the talk of our prices. They, unlike the thermometer, stay below Zero, and every customer sees them.
