

A Prayer.

BY EDWIN C. GREGORY.

Oh! God, thou highest of the high,
While now my eyes I close in sleep,
I pray a vigil watch thou'lt keep;
And in my slumbers, be thou nigh.
I pray thee, Lord protect my soul,
Should I to-night breathe my last
breath;
Should morning find me cold in
death.
Oh! God my father make me whole.
And now I bid thee Lord, goodnight.
And if on earth no more I wake,
I pray that thou my soul will take
With thee above where all is light.

From Captain Robt. W. Dou-
that (now Professor West Virginia University, Morgantown, W. Va.)
who seeks to know, to honor and
defend all his comrades.
To the 14 North State,
A tribute late,
But due her gallant sons!
Who, like their sires, in all the past,
All in heroic moulds were cast.

Thy sons, Great States, were nowhere shown
Of the glorious name thou long hast
borne;
For as heroes great, whom none sur-
passed,
Thy fame then brightened to the last.

Thy Daughters too thy name upheld;
For from their souls true courage
welled;
And their deeds of love are care,
They cheered their brothers everywhere.

Their hearts were true, their hands
were deft,
And precious gifts from homes bereft
Of brother's love inspired his soul
To live forever on honor's roll.

Beave North Carolina! thy mighty
host
Of men renowned and women grand
Attends that their best right to boast
"The world ne'er knew a nobler band."

Thy sons as Spartans stalwart built,
In war's dread tournament did tilt,
Against our foes, but never yet
Retreat did make when equals met.
As old Minneson, twice, thy sons
Did meet invaders on our soil,
And twice by help of thy good guns,
We made our enemy recoil.

Though Southern hopes then settled
fast
Into the clouded, blackened west,
Thy sons, Old State, the Wilderness fought
And by their aid was victory bought

When darkness fell at Appomattox,
They parted thence in love and tears
From Lee, their chief, and old Virginia,
From cherished hopes to wasted
homes.

Thy bowers, then desolate, now bloom
In sweetest life and love and truth,
And everywhere thy honored youth
Glad well their fathers' glory.

Grammar As Rhyme.

Three little words you often see,
The articles A, An and The.

A noun, the name of anything,
As School or Garden, Hoop or Ring.
An adjective describes a noun,
As Great, Small, Pretty, White or Brown.

To places of nouns, the pronoun stands,
As He or She, Your arm, My hand.
Verbs tell of something to be done,
To Read, Count, Laugh, Sing, Jump or Run.

How things are done the adverbs tell,
As Slowly, Quickly, Ill or Well.

Conjunctions join the words together,
As and, And women, wind Or weather.

A preposition stands before
A noun, as In or Through the door.

The interjection shows surprise,
As, "Oh, How pretty!" "Ah! how
wise!"

The whole are called nine parts of
speech,
Which reading, writing, spelling teach

(SATISFACTION OR NO SALE.)

IS OUR MOTTO.

We want your trade and we realize that to get it we must sell you goods lower than any other house in Rockingham, and one visit to our store will prove to you that that is what we are doing every day; the large number of customers that visit our store every day is full proof of what. The question is asked us every day, "Why can you sell goods cheaper than other merchants? It is easily answered:

BECAUSE WE BUY SO MUCH CHEAPER

to divide our bargains with the people. Give us one trial and we will prove to you every word we say are facts. Sixty days ago we bought a full stock of Fall Goods, but our low prices brought us such a large trade, that we saw that we would have to return to the Northern Markets, which we did, and bought

Such Bargains Never Before Seen in Rockingham.

And now we are willing to divide them with you. Our store is now packed with Dry Goods, Clothing, Shoes; Hats Caps; Gents' Furnishings &c.

and more goods arriving every day. Every article bought of us

GUARANTEED

just as represented.

WHEN YOU COME

to our store we want you to feel that you are dealing with a house that is not trying to get as much out of you as it can, but rather to make every transaction you have with it as profitable and satisfactory to you as possible. The wonderful business we are doing tells our story, and its growing larger every day and adding constantly new customers to our already large list.

Now Give us One Trial

and we will prove to you that every word we say are facts.
