THE CHILDREN ENJOY

Life out of doors and out of the games which they play and the enjoyment which they receive and the efforts which they make, comes the greater part of that healthful development which they make, comes the happiness when grown. When a laxative which is so essential to their given to them to cleanse and sweeten and strengthen the internal organs on which it acts, should be such as physicians would sanction, because its component parts are known to be wholesome and the remedy itself free from every objectionable quality. The only remedy which physicians and parents, well-informed, approve and recommend and which the little ones enjoy, because of its pleasant flavor, its gentle action and its beneficial effects, is—Syrup of Figs—and for the same reason it is the only laxative which should be used by fathers and mothers.

Syrup of Figs is the only remedy which acts gently, pleasantly and naturally without griping, irritating, or nauseating and which cleanses the system effectually, without producing that constipated habit which results from the use of the old-time cathartics and modern imitations, and against which the children should be so carefully guarded. If you would have them grow to manhood and womanhood, strong, healthy and happy, do not give them medicines, when medicines are not needed, and when nature needs assistance in the way of a laxative, give them only the simple, pleasant and gentle—Syrup of Figs.

Its quality is due not only to the excellence of the combination of the laxative principles of plants with pleasant aromatic syrups and juices, but also to our original method of manufacture and as you value the health of the little ones, do not accept any of the substitutes which unscrupulous dealers sometimes offer to increase their profits. The genuine article may be bought anywhere of all reliable druggists at fifty cents per bottle. Please to remember, the full name of the Company—CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.—is printed on the front of every package. In order to get its beneficial effects it is always necessary to buy the genuine only.

Current Events.

The Methodist ministers of Indianapolis, in order to stimulate fresh interest among their congregations, have adopted a plan of exchanging pulpits. The congregations are not told what preachers they are going to have and this deprives them of the excuse often made for not going to church—that they know just what the sermon is going to be.

Plans are being made for a great bi-centennial celebration of the birth of John Wesley, to take place in Chicago next June. Prominent members of the Methodist church will all over world attractive critics than you have. The point is to make the movement more than a merely local affair, and to let it emphasize the importance of Methodism in the religious and educational world.

The best ten chapters course of Bible studies, which is being given in the chapel of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, New York city, on Sunday evenings at 7:30 o'clock, is arousing unusual interest. Three hundred and sixty-five persons were present for the study of the fourteenth chapter of John and about the same number of the third chapter of John. Five of the "best ten" chapters are found in John, and the other five represent five other books of the Bible.

The Rev. Dr. P. S. Hewson, referring to the agency which is most keenly felt in the destruction of the influence of the church of today, says: "It isn't the higher critics that are destroying the influence of the church—and I have no more sympathy with the destructive critics than you have. The trouble is not with the higher critics, but with the lower living of Christians. The fog of higher criticism is not to be dissipated by firing great guns at it. That only adds to the fog the smoke of the powder. You can dissipate the fog only by the sunbeams of Christian living. I'll wear myself out preaching the evidences of Christianity, and some gross-grained representative of Christianity in the pews will spoil the whole fundamental of ten minutes after I get through."

Cardinal Lucido Mario Parocchi, who died in Rome last Thursday, was the strongest and most interesting personality in the College of Cardinals, and was the only one of three surviving appointees in that body of Pius XIII Parocchi received four votes, and one of Pope Leo's earliest acts as Pope was to appoint him vicar general. In 1897, owing to ill-health, he exchanged the appointment for that of vice chancellor. As years went by he grew less bitter toward the Quirinal, but still was known to stand, with Cardinal Rampolla, for a policy of non-compromise and sturdy champion of the claims of the Pope for the restoration of the temporal power. To Cardinal Gibbons is attributed the remark that, "Parocchi is the most striking figure I have met in Rome. He combines piety with politics, and politics with piety."

A Cough

"I have made a most thorough trial of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and am prepared to say that for all diseases of the lungs it never disappoints."

J. Barty Finley, Ironton, O.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral won't cure rheumatism; we never said it would. It won't cure dyspepsia; we never claimed it. But it will cure coughs and colds of all kinds. We first said this sixty years ago; we've been saying it ever since.

The Seaboard and its Relation to the South's Development.

Clarence Cuvier.

In reviewing the industrial development attained by the South, it is but natural that we turn our eyes upon the scene with a view to ascertaining the part played by the "Common Carrier," the railroad. To those who have simply listened to the revival of the South's industrial activity, the following figures by the Census Bureau will no doubt be interesting as well as surprising:

STATE	No. of Establishments 1880	1890	Capital Invested 1880	1900	Population 1880	1900
Va.	8,348	3,915	$ 63,456,799	$400,670,938	1,655,980	1,854,184
N. C.	7,228	3,687	32,743,935	76,503,804	1,617,947	1,893,810
S. C.	3,702	2,352	23,270,291	67,[illegible],465	1,151,149	1,340,316
Ga.	7,504	4,284	55,021,380	89,780,058	1,537,353	2,216,331
Ala.	3,022	2,977	46,122,371	70,570,081	1,513,017	1,828,697
Fla.	2,056	906	11,110,304	33,107,477	391,422	528,542
Total	34,308	20,031	$230,625,310	$440,780,361	8,163,968	9,681,880

A great deal of this advancement is directly attributable, individually and collectively, to the efforts of the railroads traversing the Southern territory. With the rise of the South came also the natural expansion of these railroads, and it is interesting to note the progress in this direction when we compare the great systems of today with those we remember in their infancy. In glancing over the situation we notice particularly the Seaboard Air Line Railway, whose parent stem less than fifteen years ago tapped only Virginia and North Carolina. At that time, lumber and its by-products were the principal commodities; and we have also watched with interest the progress of this line in escaping from its narrow confines and developing into the wonderful system which it is today. By building and consolidation the once small line now penetrates almost the entire South, reaching the capitals of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama, and from its limited lumber trade now engages in the transportation of almost every known article of manufacture, as well as the products of agriculture, for which the South is noted. The natural resources of the South has been in cotton and while we would not seek to depreciate the real worth of this staple and its value to us; there is no denying the fact that the wealth of iron ore and coal found in the South has been the important feature. The Seaboard realized this and through their newly acquired possession, the East and West Railroad, will enter the rich iron deposits and coal fields of Alabama in a few months will make the terminals at the "Pittsburg of the South," Birmingham.

Through its Industrial Department a great deal of development work has been accomplished. As monuments we might refer to Southern Pines and Pinehurst which resorts are noted throughout the Eastern part of the country. The management has made the interests of the people along its line their first consideration and this in a measure accounts for the agricultural and industrial success which has been attained. Every encouragement is accorded for the location of manufacturing industries, and their liberal policy toward the agriculturists is well known. In some instances, where the occasion arose, they have assisted the growers in the purchase of seeds and plants and have also referred them to a New Haven which they were unprepared; all of which has [illegible] been appreciated by its residents and patrons but has had a tendency to cement the very close feeling between them. The industrial work has been broadened until it now reaches the entire system and embraces the General Industrial Agent and corps of assistants, and we look for increased results from this line which has served so well its section during the past years.

The tide of emigration has ever been Westward, consequently the South has been compelled to rely upon its sons for the tillage of its soils. Through various causes, however, we find in recent years a small but steady flow of northerners and westerners who have tired of battling with the long and severe winters experienced in this section and have come to dwell within the land of perpetual sunshine.

These people find a productive soil and in addition to their real object the enjoyment of the climate, they have realized in excess of their expectations; to their success and satisfaction we attribute their followers and a few years only will suffice to have the South reach the agricultural heights which it deserves. There is an impression that the extreme south is a barren waste and not capable of production. Were this true, would there be the ever constant extension of rail lines which are going on yearly? The Seaboard is imbued with faith as is evidenced by its recent connection which leads it into the beautiful Manatee section, by this connection they penetrate Manatee county, Florida, and the wonderful results obtained, which are shown from a compilation of authentic statistics lead us to believe that this country will be quickly populated by a deserving class of people. It seems proper to change Horace Greely's famous remark into an invitation to "Come South" where you will find a warm welcome equalled only by its unsurpassed climate.

News of the Day.

It is said that in Philadelphia there is a "vegetarian church" and its meeting house in that city is the only one of the sect in America. Though this church has but the one meeting house on the Continent, and only forty members, it dates back nearly 100 years. Their records during the time, covering some 300 cases, show that the average longevity of a member of the sect is 61 years. He is not, in his old age, obliged to resort to false teeth. His eyes, in seven cases out of ten, do not ever require spectacles. His weight keeps close to the normal or proper weight his frame and height demand, never approaching either to corpulence or emaciation. He is singularly free from rheumatism and from dyspepsia. The church supports a vegetarian hotel for poor homeless men, where it is possible to live at $1 a week. In its short life it has served 70,000 guests with lodging and 460,000 guests with meals.

The New York Sun says: "The amount of fresh meats and provisions received weekly by the nation's metropolis reaches the enormous amount of 28,000,000 pounds, or 1,456,000,000 pounds per annum. To the above must be added the millions of pounds of sausages, tripe, haslets, ox-tails, brains, heads, sweetbreads and trotters. To these again must be added the millions of pounds of poultry, game and fish before Father Knickerbocker's supply of flesh food is complete. The check in payment for the above is amazingly large. The 838,000,000 pounds of beef at an average price of 9 1-2 cents a pound, in the carcass, wholesale, amounts to $31,510,000. Some of this beef sold at 6 cents and some at 12 cents a pound. It then the retail price of the same meat averaged 14 cents a pound, the eaters paid $130,320,000."

A London dispatch says: "The steam packet Upupa, from Cardiff, for Cork, has been missing since last Friday. Wreckage which has been washed up on the coast near Cork leaves no doubt that the vessel foundered during a gale. She had a crew of 10 men and some steerage passengers on board. She was owned in Cork."

John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers, in bidding farewell to the Coal Commission before going West to the miners' convention in Indianapolis, declared that the anthracite miners had been dragged into giving testimony to "keep of the agents."

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR FEBRUARY 1.

Subject: Paul at Athens, Acts xvii., 22-34—Golden Text, Acts xvii., 18—Memory Verses, 23, 29—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

I. Paul at Athens (vs. 19-21). As usual, persecution arose against the new religion at Berea, and Paul, leaving Silas and Timothy (v. 14) to follow him later, hastened secretly on till he came to the famous city of Athens, the capital of the intellectual world, as Rome was of the political and Jerusalem of the religious. While Paul waited for the coming of Silas and Timothy he employed his time in speaking in the synagogues to the Jews, and in the market places to those whom he met. The leaders in philosophy and religion were attracted by Paul, and held conversations with him about his religion. After discussing with these philosophers for a time they requested Paul to leave the curious and thronging crowds of the market and address them from the platform on the summit of the hill, called Areopagus, or Mar's Hill, where were assembled the noblest of Athens, the first politicians, the first orators, the first philosophers.

II. Paul's address on Mar's Hill (vs. 22-31). 22. "Paul stood." Paul spoke in the open air. "Mar's Hill—the Areopagus." This hill was to the west of the Acropolis and was the meeting place of the Athenian Council. To this hill of Mars the philosophers led St. Paul, that he might more conveniently address a larger audience. "Ye men of Athens." He was addressing men of high intellectual powers. Their city was the most renowned in the world for literature, art and philosophy. "I perceive." Paul had observed the important features of the city. "Too superstitious." Ye are greatly addicted to religious practice. The expression used by the apostle was complimentary. Ye are "very religious."

23. "Your devotions." See R. V. The apostle had beheld their altars and works of art consecrated to religion. "To an unknown god." That no deity might punish them for neglecting his worship. "Ignorantly worship." See R. V. The apostle does not intend to say that their worship was of an ignorant character, but that they offered it in ignorance. "Him declare I." It was death for any private person to disturb the religion of the state by the introduction of any foreign god that had not been publicly recognized. But how admirably does Paul avail himself of the inscription on the altar! Who could accuse him of introducing anything new when he only expounded to the Athenians the attributes of the God whom they had ignorantly worshiped?

24. "God that made." 1. He opposes, indirectly, their opinions that there were many gods. 2. He opposes the opinion that matter is eternal. 3. That all things are controlled by fate. 4. That the world was formed by an accidental throng of atoms. And these were the doctrines of his hearers. While Paul respected the rank and position which his hearers held he was faithful in preaching unto them the truth. "Dwelleth not." A strong, decisive stroke against the whole system of Grecian idolatry.

25. "With men's hands." The apostle illustrates the character of the true God still further by another contrast between Him and the deities of the heathen. God is independent of His creatures. He needs nothing from them. The heathen considered it meritorious to bring costly gifts to their idols, and even offerings of food and drink. "He giveth." He is the source of life and all things necessary to sustain life, therefore He cannot be dependent on that life which He has created.

26. "One blood." God has made of one ancestor, or one source, or one family, all nations. This lays upon us the duty to help all men, and to treat all men justly and lovingly, even the lowest races of men. Greeks held that the "first men had sprung up in Attica, like radishes;" that, like flowers and trees, every nation was the produce of its own soil, and that they were the aristocracy, all others being barbarians. The whole human family, however different in complexion, customs and language, are brethren. "Hath determined." God's almighty hand is revealed in the government of the world, as well as in its creation.

27. "Should seek the Lord." The whole object of the divine Providence, in His dealings with nations and individuals, is to bring them to a knowledge of the one true God. "Not far." His is hard to find; not because He withdraws from us, but because we withdraw from Him. Our iniquities separate us from Him (Isa. 59: 2; Rom. 10: 6-10).

29. "Offspring of God." By creation after the image of God; by regeneration through the incarnate Son of God. "Ought not." If we, intelligent, moral, rational beings, are the offspring of God, we ought not to think that the Divine One is like a dumb, dead, senseless idol.

30. "This ignorance." See R. V. Sins committed in ignorance are different from those committed against light and conscience. Men cannot plead ignorance who are living in the presence of an open Bible. "Overlooked." In the word "overlooked" lie treasures of mercy for those who lived in the times of ignorance.

31. "He will judge." Their character and deeds were to be examined, and the reward or punishment due was to be awarded by the Judge. Paul's reference was apt, since he was standing in the place where judicial sentences were wont to be announced. "In righteousness." Every decision will be absolutely right and correct. There will be no bribery, no covering up. The righteousness of the judgment is what makes it terrible to the conscience.

III. The effect of Paul's address (vs. 32-34). 32. "Some mocked." Perhaps the Epicurean, who believed that this life was all. "Others said," etc. Whether seriously, or merely a courteous refusal to hear anything further is uncertain.

33, 34. "Paul departed." His effort had not proved as successful as he had hoped. He soon left Athens for Corinth. "Certain men — believed." Several accepted the truth, but the names of only two are mentioned. "Dionysius." There can be no doubt that this man was one of the judges of this great court, but whether the president or otherwise we cannot tell. No person was a judge in the Areopagus who had not borne the office of chief governor of the city, and none bore the office of judge in this court who was not of the highest reputation among the people for his intelligence and exemplary conduct. "Damaris." For what she was noted is not known, but she must have been a woman of influence.

THE CHILD'S CALL.

He calls with quick, insistent cry.
He calls at work or play,
And I must put my business by,
And all my books away.

He summons me from household cares.
Back to his sunny room,
And up the stairs and up the stairs
In happy haste I come.

Sweeter than lark and mavis dear,
And nightingales in May,
The little voice so shrill and clear
That I must yet obey.

While up the stairs and to the door
My heart runs on in glee,
I hear a voice I know of yore
That never calls for me.

Ever through shadow time and sun
I hear a baby call,
That is not you, my precious one.
That is not you at all.

After, where heavenly waters flow,
Mid Providence calmed,
All on a sward where Him, blow
The shepherd escorts his lambs.

After, beyond the wintry cold
Upon the heavenly hill,
A little lamb a few weeks old
Stands for his mother still.

O mother's love and mother's joy!
But while I come in haste,
I hear another lovely boy
Cry from the lonely past.

And while I kiss your curls aside
And hold you to my breast,
I kiss the little lips that died,
That will not let me rest.

CAUGHT BY THE GRIP. RELEASED BY PE-RU-NA.

Congressman Geo. H. White's Case. A Noted Sculptress Cured.

The world of medicine recognizes Grip as epidemic catarrh.—Medical Talk.

LA GRIPPE is epidemic catarrh. It spares no class or nationality. The cultured and the ignorant, the aristocrat and the pauper, the masses and the classes are alike subject to la grippe. None are exempt—all are liable.

Have you the grip? Or, rather, has the grip got you? Grip is well named. The original French term, la grippe, has been shortened by the busy American to read "grip." Without intending to do so a new word has been coined that exactly describes the case. As if some hideous giant with awful Gurr had clutched us in its fatal clasp. Men, women, children, whole towns and cities are caught in the baneful grip of a terrible monster.

Peruna for Grip.

Mrs. Theophile Schmidt, wife of the Ex-Secretary of the German Consulate, writes the following letter from 3117 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.:

"I suffered this winter with a severe attack of la grippe. After using three bottles of Peruna I found the grip had disappeared."—Mrs. T. Schmitt.

Mrs. Celeste Covell writes from 219 N. avenue, Aurora, Ill.:

"Only those who have suffered with la grippe and been cured can appreciate how grateful I feel that such a splendid medicine as Peruna has been placed at the door of every suffering person."—Mrs. C. Covell.

Noted Sculptress Cured of Grip.

Mrs. M. C. Cooper, of the Royal Academy of Arts, of London, England, now residing in Washington, D. C., is one of the greatest living sculptors and painters of the world. She says:

"I take pleasure in recommending Peruna for catarrh and la grippe. I have suffered for months, and after the use of one bottle of Peruna I am entirely well."—Mrs. M. C. Cooper.

D. L. Wallace, a charter member of the International Barbers' Union, writes from 15 Western avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.:

"Following a severe attack of la grippe I seemed to be affected badly all over. One of my customers who was greatly helped by Peruna advised me to try it, and I procured a bottle the same day. Now my head is clear, my nerves are steady, I enjoy food and rest well. Peruna has been worth a dollar a dose to me."—D. L. Wallace.

Lieutenant Clarice Hunt, of the Salt Lake City Barracks of the Salvation Army, writes from Ogden, Utah:

"Two months ago I was suffering with so severe a cold that I could hardly speak. Our captain advised me to try Peruna and procured a bottle for me, and truly it worked wonders. Within two weeks I was entirely well."—Clarice Hunt.

Congressman White's Letter.

Tarboro, N. C.

Gentlemen:—I am more than satisfied with Peruna and find it to be an excellent remedy for the grip and catarrh. I have used it in my family and they all join me in recommending it as an excellent remedy.
—George H. White, Member of Congress.

Mrs. T. W. Collins, Treasurer Independent Order of Good Templars, of Everett, Wash., writes:

"After having a severe attack of la grippe I continued in a feeble condition even after the doctors called me cured. My blood seemed poisoned. Peruna cured me."—Mrs. T. W. Collins.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

The Size He Wanted.

Speaking recently of queer college fads, Prof. Henry A. Beers of Yale said that in his undergraduate days mourning hat bands became so popular as to grow from a mark of bereavement almost to a feature of natty dress.

One day he went into a store with a friend who, after buying a hat, said he would like to look at some mourning bands.

"These widest bands," explained the storekeeper, displaying his assortment, "are worn for immediate members of the family. From that they narrow down according to the relationship. Which width do you need, sir?" he asked.

The student made a moment's inspection. "Oh, give me about an uncle," he replied.

Rheumacide

Cures Rheumatism and Sciatica by neutralizing the acids in the blood and driving them out of the system. Is far better than the best blood purifier. All blood diseases yield promptly to this great remedy.

In the fall-winter of 1900 I was afflicted with Sciatic Rheumatism, so much so that I had to use a cane to assist me in walking. Upon sitting down, there was no ease to my thigh, and the only position in which I could rest my leg was straight out in front of me, while in a reclining position. Realizing the nature of the disease, I began treatment at once, but received no relief until induced by Mr. J. T. Dozier, of Greenville, of the drug firm of Bruce & Dozier, to take "Rheumacide." I purchased a bottle from them under the guarantee of Mr. Dozier that if 3 bottles did not cure me the money would be refunded. One bottle relieved me, and I have had no touch of rheumatism since that time.

W. A. Palmer, who lived near the time (1901), was down with a severe attack of rheumatism, and for six weeks had to be turned in bed on a sheet. After the use of several bottles of RHEUMACIDE, he was pronounced well by the attending physician, who is a great believer in the efficacy of your medicine.
