A WORD TO OUR FRIENDS

This issue of our paper is by no means what we had hoped for. It is over a day late too.

But the only excuse for a printer we have had was a noisy mouthed citizen of the Palmetto state, whose chiefest and only ambition was to be something, a "foreman."

We know you will be patient with us under the circumstances, and we shall be careful in the future as to the printers we employ.

TOMORROW'S VOTING.

On tomorrow the die will be cast. The many candidates, for all of whom we cherish the very kindest of feelings will know their respective fates. Throughout the campaign, the Headlight's policy has been this: To do and say the right to every one, as it saw the right to be. We have striven to do this.

And now a final word to the voters: Let each one carefully and seriously consider the issues, as they present themselves, and then vote according to the better dictates of his own conscience.

CIRCULAR LETTER TO THE POLL HOLDERS OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

AUGUST 4TH., 1906

Dear Sir:

In reminding you of your appointment as one of the poll holders to conduct the Democratic Primary, Saturday August 4th, I desire to impress the importance of this duty, and urge you to render this service to your party.

It is very important to our party that only Democrats participate in naming our nominees. This is a Democratic Primary, and not a general election. None but Democrats are invited or expected to participate, and as you and the other poll holders have been elected by the party to hold it, so the party looks to you to preserve it from those who fight its nominees after they have been selected.

It is clearly your duty to challenge any voter whom you know, or have reason to believe, is not a Democrat. To such an one offering to vote you should first enquire if he is a Democrat. If he answers no, that ends the matter, and he cannot vote. In addition to satisfying the poll holders that he is a Democrat, any voter who is challenged may be required to pledge himself to abide by the result of said primary and support the ticket nominated—and in case of refusal to do so, should not be allowed to vote.

This I state to you to be the law of our party, and on its strict enforcement depends the purity of the primary system.

As between the various candidates for our party's nomination, the poll holders should be impartial. They should not work for any of them while holding the primary as representatives of the party.

After the polls have closed the result should be carefully ascertained by count of the votes, and returns duly made according to the rules of the primary—which you are urged to read carefully. The returns should be sent in promptly by careful and trustworthy hands, so that the result may be declared, as the law provides.

Yours very truly,
W. N. EVERETT, Chairman.

PRIMARY CANVASS CLOSES

On Saturday night last in the court house were enacted the closing scenes of the most memorable Democratic Primary canvass ever held in Richmond County.

Patriotic ladies by the score, and good citizens by the hundred, did come and did keep coming till standing room even was appreciated. Enthusiasm from the start was unbounded, and almost all of it good natured.

He who had any doubt or misgiving as to the future welfare of Richmond County's Democracy needed but to observe the deep and abiding interest in each speaker's every word. Needed in short, to breathe the true atmosphere of the assemblage a id to feel the spirit of lastin lowship which throughout was maintained.

There came a few minor rough places, a few jars and jolts; but who ever heard of a missionary meeting or political gathering where there was not some degree of excitement. That's the vory soul of the thing. Besides, this was all explained away by Hon. Walter L. Parsons, a legislative candidate whom is all probability our county will present for congressional honors two years hence.

Mr. Parsons said: "We have come to where an ordinary jolt s nothing. The Democratic party has grown able to stand them, which was followed by a continued uproar of applause. When the Pee Dee band had played half a dozen patriotic airs, Mr. W. C. Leak stepped to the rostrum and in a happy little speech announced that that he had been appointed to act as chairman. Mr. Leak didn't as the news paper men usually say, "call the house to order, "There was no occasion The first speaker was our present sheriff, Mr. M' L. Hinson' who announced himself for reelection. The sheriff isn't a man to be known for his much speaking. He believes in actions. Here s his speech: " Fellow Democrats, you know me, iam your candidate. I'll appreciate your support." The next offic under consideration was that of Register of Deed For this, there are five candidates. Mr. Frank Roberts of Hamlet spoke first. He has set upon tie courthouse rock, and he wants to set some more. He was once a resident of Rockingham. The tenter memories of "auld lang syne" are oft times touching his soul, and he hopes that others may feel a like touch, and extend a call to wend his foot steps again hitherward. Next came Mr. Z. Hadley, one of the best young men in the county; he reminded his fellow Democrats of his sacrifice and loyalty in '98. And thanked them for their support now. Mr. J. C. Caudle, of Hamlet says he, s been a clerkin in a store these nineteen years, and hasn't saved a dollar yet. He needs the office, he says.

Mr. B. Furman Reynolds was next speaker; and his speech was an able one. He made a good impression here. Stated his township had never been represented on the county ticket. He got off some rich jokes on his competitors.

William Little Steele said: Gentlemen, here's your next Register, and I want to thank you in advance.

The curtain falls here for a brief interlude, and rise on the contest for clerk of the Superior Court.

Mr. T. L. Covington, who made an able campaign for the same position two years ago came first. He expressed his sincere appreciation for the kind interest his friends had taken, and would thank everybody for their votes.

Hon. Walter L. Parsons was the next speaker. He defended himself by saying he had nothing to do with Mr. Freeman's, candidacy, it having been stated that Parsons' friends first brought out friendi.

Mr. John L. Everett asked his record. It was the custom to give an office the second time. He was willing for the good Democrats of the county to handle his case.

Capt. A. T. Cole next announced himself for Treasurer in a few brief, words thanking his friends.

Mr. D. M. Morrison told that since '98 none had been more loyal to Democracy's banner. M. A. Jerome Williams merely announces his candidacy to the voters of the county, thanking all for their kind support.

Mr. W. D. McRae, who formerly filled the Register's office so satisfactorily to all, and who was defeated at the hands of the fusionists after only one term, thinks he is entitled to a second term, and believes the voters will be with him on Aug. 4th.

The curtain falls again for a very brief interlude. This time it rises on the fight for Representative.

Mr. Martin C. Freeman, of Hamlet, comes first. He had to call the word "treachery"—but he thought the action of certain members of the party would justify him.

His talk, like Mr. Freeman's, an able one.

Both these gentlemen are dry, Mr. Freeman asserting that he is the driest man in North Carolina, and with every drop of his Anglo-Saxon blood, he would always be fighting the whiskey evil.

Mr. E. M. B license is a sention to the liquor problem. He is a dry county f that were possible; but says he hates to see people totin' prohibiti in one hand and a jug in the other. In peroration, he informed his countrymen, that though the other candidates had left him out "every pop," if the voters didn't rally around his red bandana (the Hines standard) they would never get done regrettin' it.

The following county commissioners were announced:

H. S. Ledbetter,
Junius F. Diggs,
Walter M. Covington,
A. T. White,
M. D. McDonald,
N. G. Nicholson,
