Good Women The Fight is Yours

The sex problem has been the great problem of decent womanhood for ages causing much of the sorrow, the suffering, and domestic unhappiness that has afflicted faithful wives and mothers. Mankind has always been driven forward by two great forces, hunger and sex instinct. Hunger forcing men to preserve individual life, sex instinct driving them to continue race life. But that which is strongest for good is also if wrongly directed—strongest for evil. The sex instinct which at best gives us all the precious things of life, at worst gives us untold miseries.

Too long a tolerant prudery has permitted the young of our nation to grope in darkness for information on this subject. Frankly but without offense "The Spreading Evil" reveals the dangers of this course. "HUSH" truly is the Devil's propaganda.

My Dear Sir:

I have just seen your moving picture "The Spreading Evil." I made a profound impression on me, and I earnestly advise every man and woman, boy and girl, in the land to see this picture. It contains the essence of many lectures on science, and many sermons on morality.

Very truly yours,

General Orders to 120th.

The following farewell address from Col. Minor to his men of the 120th infantry, recently discharged, is sent the Post-Dispatch by Chas. E. Ashworth, Jr., who was a member of that regiment that was so largely responsible for breaking the Hindenburg line.

Headquarters 120th Infantry
American Expeditionary Forces
France, March 9th, 1919.

To the officers and men of 120th Infantry:

1. A few more days and we shall embark for home. No one knows how the detachments will be handled but the chances are many of us will never meet again.

2. This regiment came into the service as a National Guard unit from North Carolina, augmented later by national guardsmen from South Carolina and Tennessee, and still later by selective draft men from several camps, the principal units now being as follows: North Carolina 1553, Tennessee 406, Indiana 281, Kentucky 259 and many other detachments, until today every state in the Union is represented except four. North Carolina will claim us as her own and we are justly proud of the record her sons have made, but we owe a debt of gratitude to the other loyal sons from many states, who helped to make our glorious record, that we can never repay, and which can never be forgotten.

3. Today this regiment and its record belongs to the individual men who compose it, as a priceless heritage, wherever you may go. Its achievements must ever remain a brilliant chapter in American Military History, and particularly so in the 30th Division, in which splendid Division you have played the leading part.

4. How you were moulded into an efficient fighting unit that knew no North, South, East or West; how you bore the first shock of battle, and then with thinner ranks pressed on and on, laughing at dangers, with never a murmur and never a complaint, is a story too long to be told here.

4. In parting with you it is my one desire to let you know your efforts are appreciated and admired and I hope that your pleasant associations with the 120th Infantry may linger in your memories long after your hardships are forgotten. That you may return to your homes, stronger men, more loyal citizens and more devoted husbands, sons and brothers, is the earnest prayer of one who counts it the glory and privilege of a lifetime to have commanded such men.

S. W. Minor
Colonel, Inf., U. S. A.
Commanding.

Buy Victory Bonds.

Blow the bugle, beat the drum,
Victory to our arms has come;
Unfurl the banner, all respond
Fall in line, buy a Victory Bond.

They are savings put away,
You will need them quick some day;
Protect your loved ones while you can,
Buy Victory Bonds from Uncle Sam.

Misfortune will come your way,
So prepare for a rainy day;
You will possess a magic wand,
If you own a Victory Bond.

Stop! reflect! then think again,
Remember that it is your gain;
Every nerve within you strain,
Buy Victory bonds—show you are sane.

Green—Did you ever notice how few flies there are in steam-heated apartment houses?
Wise—Yes. I guess they're afraid they'd freeze to death.

Different Kinds.
Ambition sometimes has been known to start poor mortals wrong:
The one ambition that they own is just to loaf along.

The First Sign.
"I think he wants to marry me."
"Has he said so?"
"Not in so many words. But he's begun agreeing with father's political views."

Trying to Explain It.
"I have had the same cook for five years," remarked Mrs. Crosslot.
"Indeed?" commented Miss Cayenne.
"One of you must have a lovely disposition."

No Need.
"But, my good man, you are getting on very well here with the work. Why do you wish to give up your job?"
"I am going to be married, sir."
