HONESTY OR KNAVERY.

In a recent number of the Congress tonal Record we see that Joseph E. Brown, one of the Senators from Georgia, in presenting a letter from the President of a Manufacturing Company in that State, made a statement in substance that there were but two modes of Revenue authorized by the Constitution-one by direct taxation and the other by duties levied upon goods imported into the country. If he had stopped with this simple announcement he would have uttered only a truism which no safe man would have gainsaid. Not content with this, however, he alleged that free trade necessarily resulted in Internal Revenue, and, inferentially at least, that all the advocates of a tariff system devised for Revenue, as opposed to the purpose of so-called protection to American labor, are favortaxation odious to the American peo-

If Mr. Brown were sincere in making such a declaration, he is wanting in the brains needed for a Senator .-But brains is not what be lacks. He meant to make a false impression, and by making one with design he displayed a characteristic that calls for a different feeling than such as is evoked by a mere want of intellectual power in high position. The Senate of the United States is not the arena on which low demagogues should exhibit their acrobatic power. Indeed. demagogism anywhere is to be despised. But in so august and dignified a body as the one in which this Senator holds a seat, statesmanship only should be shown. We do not hesitate to say-and we say it with regrat-that Mr. Brown knew that n the statement be made, in which he imputed to those who do not agree the people for his special interests, with a wish to continue the burdens of an annoving mode of taxation, he was guilty of a perversion of the truth for which there is no excuse. Such what we expected from a man who, i the general ruln which befell his countrymen by the results of the late disactrous war, managed in some way "out of their wreck to rise in." and now is rioting in the possession of a large estate, which he wishes to increase by placing "burdens grievous to be borne" on a suffering people.

A Tariff for Revenue will raise all the money which an economical administration of the Government demands, and thus do away with any Revenue tax. A Tariff for protection so-called increases the price of all articles subject to its operation, which the consumer is obliged to pay, and thus only gives the advantages which such men as Mr. Brown call upon the Government to give to the manufacturers for their especial benefit. If it does not increase the price of goods made in foreign lands, and in the production of which these parties desire to compete, it can do no good. This is too clear for argument. A Tariff far Revenue a absolutely essential to Government,

We are not inimical to a development of all the resources of the country, but we think it far better that this should be gradual rather than sudden. We desire that the pursuits of our people should be diversified, and are heartily glad when they who have the means shall contribute to this result. But such persons should not, in common justice, ask the inter vention of the Government in their behalf. All business should sustain itself by the legitimate laws of trade, and when they are violated, as these protectionists wish, it must be done at the expense of the large body of

A Terrible Cough Cured.

"In 1857 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL a permanent cure was effected. I am now 62 years old, hale and hearty, and am antisited your GHERRY PECTORAL saved me.

Croup. - A Mother's Tribute.

"While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and to our delight in less than half an hour the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the CHERRY PECTORAL had saved my darling's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude? Sincerely yours,
