A Bohemian Nest. The Bright Light.

A European journal relates that a few months since workmen employed upon some constructions on the bank of the river Danube, in Central Russia, employed the electric light to enable them to prosecute their labors at night. The brilliant rays of light attracted so many millions of nocturnal moths, beetles and other insects, that from time to time it was necessary to stop work and set all hands to destroying the clouds of winged creatures that frequently completely obscured the light. This suggested the idea of employing the electric light to destroy nocturnal insects prejudicial to agriculture, and experiments in that direction are to be tried next spring. Not only insects, but to fish, the light proved fatally attractive. Its rays, directed to the surface of the water, draw together vast quantities of all the fishes together vast quantities of all the fishes found in the Danube, and when within the charmed field of illumination they lay crowded together in masses, seemingly blinded and stuporified. The workmen improving the opportunity, made a notable haul of fish.

Good breeding is the result of much good sense, some good nature, and a little self-denial for the sake of others, had with a view to obtain the same indulgence from them.

CURRENT COMMENTS.

CHARLES BARRETT, of Ashburnham, Mass., now 90 years old, had his life insured for $10,000 in 1846. Having reached the extreme limit of life, according to the table of mortality on which the insurance company does business, the president sent him the other day a check for the amount of his policy. It is believed to be the only case on record where a man has been paid by an insurance company by outliving a death policy.

We now make one-fifth of the iron used one-fourth of the steel in the world and we furnish one-half of the gold and one-half of the silver in the world's supply. Taking all the mining industries of the world, the United States produces 35, Great Britain, 33, and all other nations 31 per cent of the total. Anglo-Saxons, therefore, represent 69 per cent of the mining industry of the earth.

The Chicago Live Stock Exchange has reported that there is no such disease as contagious pleuro-pneumonia in the United States, no foot and mouth disease in Illinois, Iowa or Kansas, and that at no time within twenty years have the cattle, hogs and sheep of this country been so healthy as now. It has also sent a delegation to Washington to lobby against all cattle disease legislation.

The discussion of the red annex continues. Probably the volcanic dust theory has the largest number of followers. As a recent scientific writer expresses it, a tremendous volcanic eruption hurled into space dust, steam and gas, and this mighty mass hangs like a cloud over the globe. How long this dust will remain in the air is a question, but it is suggested that if the clouds ever their elevation to electrical repulsion there is no reason why they should not stay in the upper air for years, but if they are slowly settling to lower levels the action of the rain drops will drag them down.

In New York, Philadelphia, and other commercial centers, the merchants have inaugurated a war on the druggists; and physics has dropped fully forty per cent below the regular rates. The cut rates apply mainly to the patent medicines. The grocers and other merchants who are competing with the druggists say that the average merchant has to be satisfied with five or ten per cent profit, and there is no reason why the druggist should reap any more. Of course the druggists are mad, but what can they do about it? The war may be only a flurry after all, or it may result in a permanent reduction in the prices of patent medicines. The matter will shape itself according to the laws of trade.

The entire winter packing of pork in the west is 4,402,064 hogs, against 4,132,212 last year; average weight 221.44 pounds, a decrease of 12.83 compared with last year. The decrease in the yield of lard per hog was 2.18 pounds. The pork production shows 273,833 pounds less than last year. Stocks of meat in the west, including barreled pork, were 115,000,000 pounds less than a year ago. The stock of hams was 2,000,000 pounds less than a year ago, and 145,000,000 pounds less than the average of the seven previous years reported. The outlook for hog supplies indicates about 15 per cent shortage for the summer. The total packing for the twelve months ending March 1 was 5,128,100 against 5,942,500 the previous year.

Our preparations for a more efficient navy will cause the public to feel interested in the progress of Krupp's latest ventures in the gun line. Several trials have been made with Krupp's six inch guns, thirty-five caliber length. A target representing the sides of an iron man-of-war was constructed of ten-inch barrel wood and iron plates, seven inches thick on each side, making fourteen inches of iron and ten inches of wood. The range was 150 meters and the projectile passed entirely through the target and buried itself in the sand hill beyond. It is understood that Krupp is now at work on a gun that is expected to accomplish still greater results. It goes without saying that even the most heavily armed vessels cannot withstand the guns of the new Krupp's class. Being able to pierce a well fortified seaport strongly.

CONSIDERING the quantity of tea used in this country, one would naturally suppose that our people would know something about tea, but the fact is, they know next to nothing. Most of our tea comes from China, but it is the inferior grades, the spurious stuff which has been artificially colored in China or is sold abroad at fancy prices. The emperor of Russia imports tea at $40 per pound, and it is a common thing for wealthy people to pay $10 per pound for it. When good tea is secured you should use one full teaspoonful for each person and one for the pot; boil the water in a clean kettle, and when it boils put the required quantity in a teapot and pour on the boiling water, allowing it to stand about fifteen minutes. Then pour into a fine china teapot to serve at the table. Never make the tea in anything but a china or brown stone pot.

With reference to the early life of Osman Digma, the Suakin correspondent of the London Times writes that he was originally a broker and trader, and principally a slave trader, in Suakin and Jeddah, where he received a severe flogging when, some six years ago, a British cruiser captured two slave dhows full of victims on the way to Jeddah. Osman Digma's trade then fell from bad to worse, his house property in Suakin was all mortgaged, and he became hopelessly involved. Being unable to pay his debts, his creditors turned him out, and he fled to a religious refuge in a district of the Sudan, where he formed a high estimate of his ability and audience, acquired through successful trading, for other objects than holiness are the key notes of Osman Digma's character, and motives, and it is against all probability that he will cast his goods and his position into the broken balance of battle. He is no ignorant fanatic, and he cannot himself believe the myths which he multiplies in order to conceal his followers.

In 1870 there were 6,225,958 persons over 10 years of age who could not write. There are probably now 7,000,000. Over nine per cent of the whites in this country can not write; 70 per cent of colored persons in the United States cannot write. Of males over 21 there are 2,150,000 that can not write. One in seven, in other words, cannot write his own name. Not over three-fourths of the voting population is capable of reading and writing, says Senator Hoar, and such facility as to make these arts a source of intelligent suffering. About three-fourths of the illiterate voters are found in Georgia out of 331,438 males over 21 years of age, there are 237,571 whites and 116,611 blacks who can not write. A little over 45 of every one hundred are illiterate, although the ratio fluctuates in this state as high as 118 in Alabama, Louisiana, South Carolina or Mississippi. This state has 114,067 illiterate voters. There are in the state 448,683 persons over 10 years of age who can not read. These
