THE REPUBLICAN NOMINEES.

As we predicted, the Republicans in Convention at Chicago last week nominated James G. Blame, of Maioe, for President. A pative of Pennsylvania, Blaine is, nevertheless, a model of a Yankee-a true type of the Yankee notion of chivalry and a repreentative radical in his ideas of govment He has been long in publie life and has been, since the war, probably the most conspicuous man in the politics of the country, except Grant. He served his State for several terms in Congress and was Speaker of the House for three terms, making a capital presiding officer. He has been facetiously dubbed the "alumed Knight," and for gallantry displayed on all occasions in the wield ing of a free lance in debate, he is entitled to the sobriquet. It is proper to say, however, that while a member of the Senate, baving succeeded Lot M. Morrill to that position, he encountered our own Ben Hill, of Georgis, who sadly discomfitted the redoubtable Knight. He is a chronic Presidency hunter, having been promigently before the convention of his party in 1876 and in 1880, and at last, in 1884, he wins his trophy, at least in the promise of the office. For his fidelity to Garfield in contributing successfully of his own strength to the nomination of the latter in 1880. Blaine was made Secretary of State and in that position was distinguished for aggressiveness of policy as exinged by his correspondence with foreign cabinets. He was a fast personal friend as well to Garfield, and was by his side when the President was shot down. The country is familiar with the fact of the excited state of the northern public mind prior to this sad event, which led to the elevation of Arthur to the Presidency. Conkling, the imperious New Yorker, then in the Senate, had placed himself and his friends, the Stalwarts, choose, rather, as more agreeable to in antagonism to Garfield and the other wing of the party, the Half- to your readers to furnish you a few Breeds, the quarrel resulting in the of my reminiscences of Rockingham.

was the first preparation perfectly adapted to cure diseases of the scalp, and the first suc-conful restorer of faded or gray hair to ite instural color, growth, and youthful beauty. It has had many imitators, but none have so fully met all the requirements needful for the proper treatment of the hair and scalp, HALL'S HAIR RENEWES has steadily grown in favor, and spread its fame and usefulness to every quarter of the globs. Its unparab-leled success can be attributed to but one cause: the entire fulfilment of its promises.

The proprietors have often been surprised at the receipt of orders from remote countries, where they had never made an effort for

The use for a short time of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER wonderfully improves the per-sonal appearance. It cleanses the scalp from all impurities, cures all humors, fever, and dryness, and thus prevents baldness. It stimulates the weakened glands, and enables them to push forward a new and vigorous growth. The effects of this article are not transicut, like those of alcoholic prepara-tions, but remain a long time, which makes its use a matter of economy.
