How Train Robbing is Done in the Far West.

St. Louis, Feb. 29.—A special to the Post-Dispatch from Pine Bluffs, Ark., says: In Arkansas, on the St. Louis, Arkansas & Texas Railroad, about 20 miles below this city, as train No. 2, bound north, stopped at Kingsland about one o'clock this morning, three men stepped on the platform of the baggage car next to the engine.

The engineer and fireman of this train were in charge of the train robbed at Genoa, Arkansas, a few weeks ago. The messenger received a note at Texarkana, warning him to watch out, but he paid no attention to it, believing it to be a joke.

The Protective Tariff—What it Does For Us.

Correspondence of The Rocket. MALEE, N. C., March 2, 1888. "When spoliation has once become the recognized means of existence of a body of men," says Bashiat, "united and held by social ties, they soon proceed to form a law which sanctions it, and adopt a system of morals which sanctifies it."

"Protection and spoliation are synonymous terms, and monopoly is but the perfection of its design. It is the legalized process of taking money out of the pockets of the many and putting it into the pockets of the few; and this process must with unerring precision terminate in the accumulation of wealth by a favored class, and the corresponding poverty of other classes."

"We cannot arrange any system of gambling which will increase wealth since wealth comes only from labor properly applied. We cannot employ the taxing power of the government to increase wealth, but only to diminish it. However, the evils from which we are suffering cannot be attributed to the vicious system of protection, nor is it claimed that its modification or removal will prove the universal remedy. But one thing is certain, it has contributed more to the unequal distribution of wealth, to the creation of a state of contention between labor, than all other causes combined.

"The only protection the government of the United States can legally bestow upon any of its citizens is police protection. But instead of thus confining itself to its duty of protecting the rights of the citizen from the encroachment of others, the government has drifted into a system of paternalism which is constantly devising means for the destruction of these rights, and which is the special guardian and advocate of a preferred class.

The above all very aptly applies to the state of affairs in this State, and not only to this State but to the United States, and it is high time the farmers and working classes generally were calling a halt all over this broad land of ours.

SUFFRAGE IN THE SOUTH. A Correct Northern View of the Matter.

From the Phil. Times, Ind. Republican. The writer of the following communication evidently has been somewhat confused by the reckless statements of Northern partisans of the Chandler stripe, who give the colored citizen no chance for political rights in the North, beyond voting a machine ticket, and invent political wrongs against the colored citizen of the South as a pretext for election frauds:

To THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES: In your Sunday paper of the 5th inst. I see on page 7, "How to Better the Negro," the following sentence: "The idea is that the South is over-ridden with negroes," etc.

Allentown, Feb. 9, 1888. In the first place, there is no negro exodus in the South. A speculative organization in Kansas, with a large capital paid in and more expected, is systematically urging a negro exodus to South America.

Suffrage is as free for all races and conditions in the South as it is in the North, and there is not a political leader of either party who does not know that it is so. Senator Chandler, who obviously wants to multiply excuses for the monstrous Presidential fraud of 1876-7, has lately renewed the charges of restrained or forbidden negro suffrage in the South, but he was promptly answered by the leading Republicans of the South, both white and black.

Another reason why the colored vote of the South is not solidly Republican is the generous support the white Democrats have given to colored men for office. In many of the Southern States colored Democrats have been elected to the Legislature; colored men were on the Democratic police of New Orleans long before they were thought of for such honors in Republican Philadelphia; colored colleges and Normal schools are supported by the Southern States to a greater extent than in the North, and colored mechanics rank side by side with white mechanics there, while such recognition is denied in the North.

MR. AND MRS. BOWSER. He Cures Mrs. Bowser of Cramp Colic. From the Detroit Free Press. The other night about midnight I awoke in awful pain. It was a return of my old complaint, bilious colic, and it had come with a vengeance.

"What! That same colic?" "Yes." "It can't be. No one ever heard of such a case. That colic was cured fifteen minutes ago."

and he stood with his vest half way on to say: "Of course you are better! I don't claim to know more than all other people on earth put together, but I do know just what to do for bilious colic. Mrs. Bowser, I saved your life last night, and I hope you feel a proper gratitude!"

The freeman of a locomotive generally has a "tender" disposition. Absence destroys trifling intimacies, but it invigorates strong ones. Fame comes only when deserved, and then it is as inevitable as destiny.

The lightning-rod agents motto—"Spare the rod and spoil the property." The innocence of the intention abates nothing of the mischief of the example.

The thing that a woman knows best is how some other woman ought to dress. Holiness is love welling up in the heart, and pouring forth crystal streams.

Senator Chandler has the smallest head in the Senate, and the fullest of mischief. "Bessie, what scratched your arm in that way?" "Aunt Martha, I hit it with the cat."

There is nothing that so refines the face and mind as the presence of great thoughts. Simon Cameron is the latest and strongest accession to the Roscoe Conkling boom.

A man who has health and brains and can't find a livelihood in this world, doesn't deserve to stay here. "Can't you work?" asked a lady of a tramp. "I don't know, ma'am. I used to, but I'm out of practice."

The best part of our knowledge is that which teaches us where knowledge leaves off and ignorance begins. "A New Jersey man has invented a stove to carry in the hat." Wanted to utilize a stove pipe probably. Idleness is the hot bed of temptation, the cradle of disease, the wastefulness of time, the canker worm of felicity.

One of the greatest causes of trouble in this world is the habit people have of talking faster than they think. An impression seems to be gaining ground that the German Crown Prince's condition is well nigh hopeless. "Why Do I Live?" is the title of a recent poem. A perusal compels us to give up the problem as unanswerable.
