

the family of the late General Morgan were made to the Seminoles in a number of instances, and were resented. — But when those Indians were then called for after a nation offered by Senator Jones of Arkansas had been adopted, hunting now went to live Indians each.

Voting began amid great confusion. There was a large field of candidates. The band then struck up a lively air, while the clerks voted up the first ballot. The result as announced was:

Majority, 21; Teller, 1; White, 1; Patterson, 2; Williams (Massachusetts), 76; McLean, 25; Sibley, 1; Sewell, 106; Sibley, 149; Fifteen, 1; Daniel, 11; Bland, 63; Blackton, 9; Williams (Illinois), 22; Boies, 2; Not voting, 288.

The second ballot resulted: Sibley, 113; Sewell, 73; McLean, 164; Williams (Massachusetts), 18; Bland, 288; Oliver, 22; Harry, 21; Williams (Illinois), 23; Patterson, 1; not voting, 251. Total, 930.

The third ballot resulted: Bland, 25; McLean, 25; Sibley, 2; Sewell, 97; Williams (Massachusetts), 15; Harry, 10; Clark, 23; Patterson, 1; Daniel, 6; not voting, 285.

Arthur Sewall of Maine was nominated for vice president on the fifth ballot and the convention adjourned sine die.

ARIZONA'S MOUNTAIN PUZZLE.

It is a hole through which the sun rises, and only a star of mirror.

For the last half century the American residents of Tucson A. T., have been trying to solve a mystery in the shape of what appears to be a hole through a mountain peak in plain sight from the town. In the rugged air it looks to be only a short distance away, when in reality it is at least 40 miles. The earliest residents noticed the phenomenon, and the only difficulty that lay in the way of finding out just what it was, was the fact that it was inaccessible, and you could not get where near the spot the hole disappeared from sight. In fact, it can only be seen from within a few miles of Tucson, and this has led many people to believe that it is not a hole at all.

By the aid of a good marine telescope the mountain can be brought to view within a few miles, but not near enough to tell the exact nature of the rock formation. An astronomical telescope cannot be focused on it, as the mountain is too near. A first peep through the glass would lead one to believe that there was no mystery about it. The hole appears as plain as possible, but several days' study of the spot will develop the fact that the hole does not always look the same. Many days when the sky is dark behind the mountain the hole will appear a brilliant white, like a snowdrift, and on days when the sky is blue it will often look so dark as to be almost invisible. These facts have led many to think that it is an immense piece of mica lying with its polished surface toward the sky and reflecting the light formations of another part of the horizon instead of being the light seen through a hole. Viewed with glasses, the hole simply appears as a white spot, but the telescope reveals pine trees and other details, although very indistinctly.

The range of mountains in which the strange peak can be seen is known as the Catalinas, and numerous parties have made the attempt to climb it, but all have failed on account of the steep and rugged precipices in the vicinity. The peak is a high one and can be seen from any point in the journey toward it, but when ten miles out of Tucson the hole can no longer be seen, even with the aid of a glass. This can be explained on the mica theory, as a surface of that material would not reflect a ray of light toward a person's eye after they got out of its angle of projection.—San Francisco Call.

LIFE WITH THE CIRCUS.

Incidents Attending the Visit to a Laundry of a High Collar.

"Walking along the streets one day in a town where we were showing," said a retired circus man, "the old man saw in a laundry window a sign reading 'Collars and cuffs 2 cents'."

"Do you take any kind of collars at that price?" he asked the laundryman.

"Yes, oh, yes," said the laundryman.

"Everything goes here."

"We had a giraffe at the time that had to dress up for the evening in a sort of a dude costume with a high collar reaching from its shoulder up to its head. The old man took the giraffe's collar and had it sent down to the laundry to be done up. When the laundryman opened the bundle and spread it out on the counter, he says, 'What's this?' and the man at last brought it down and said that it was one of the giraffe's collars.

"By gosh! That's so," said the laundryman, just as though giraffe's collar used to be a common item of the wash in his laundry, but he hadn't had very many come in lately and they'd kind of escaped his mind.

"Five o'clock," he said when the man asked when it would be ready, and five o'clock the man found it waiting for him done up in a roll about as big as a stevene.

"How much?" he asked.

"Two cents," said the laundryman, who swept this 2 cents off the counter into the drawer without turning back and went plumb through. But the old man was no chump. He sent the laundryman a dollar, which was just what the work was worth, and a pile of complimentary tickets. That's the laundryman came to the eleven.

He was just as bad as ever, but you couldn't help but feel pleased, every time you saw the giraffe come in wearing the collar that had been made up in his laundry."—New York Sun.

FAMILY PETS AND WOMEN.

The family of the late General Morgan were devoted to animals. In

Miss McClellan carried her devotion so far that she used to take her mice (which were named by the way, after the kings of the ancient Egyptian dynasties), to the Italian opera, celebrated artist, Mlle. Michel, which attired in its rosy colored gown to show to casual callers. When Miss McClellan had come down town she earned some years ago the family pets included an elderly and infirm cat, Sam, a J. J. kitten by name. Mrs. McClellan and on the sidewalk watching the destruction of her household goods and claimed in her vicinity, "Oh, where is Sam?" A family fireman overheard her. "Do not fear, madam, the children will be all saved."

It is pleasant to record that Samuel was rescued uninjured.—New York Journal.

The Indestructible "Maywood" BICYCLE.

PATENTS Feb. 24, 1891 Oct. 3, 1893 Jan. 21, 1896 Others Pending

The "Maywood" is the strongest and simplest bicycle ever made. Adapted for all kinds of roads and places. Made of materials, 45 lbs. is a full weight. Very strong and durable, and will hold together in an accident; no hollow tubing to crush in at every contact; a frame that cannot be broken so simple that its adjusting parts serve as its connecting parts; a one-piece crank arm; a single chain; leather and double diamond, guaranteed for three years. Made of 1/2 inch cold rolled steel rods (longest and strongest metal for its weight known); joined together with aluminum bronze fittings in such a manner as to give strength and durability; the greatest combination of ingenuity in bicycle mechanism known, to build a frame without brass joints and tubing, as you know that frames continually break and fracture at brass joints, and the Maywood is built in an cannot break or fracture.

TIRES—Large barrel pattern. TIRES—"Arlington" Hosepipe or Morgan & Wright Quick Repair, or some other first-class pneumatical.

TIRES—High grade leather and wire, and sizes carefully tempered and hardened.

CHAINS—High grade hardened centers, rear adjustment. CANKLES—Our celebrated one-piece crank, fully protected by patented no center pins. TIRES—Gum tires, which are fine, durable, and will not be easily punctured. FINISH—Enamelled in black, with all bright parts nickel plated. ENCL—Bicycle complete with tool bag, pump, wrench and other. Weight according to size, saddle, etc., 27 to 30 pounds.
