Havana Post Publishes Sensation Relative to Postal Frauds.

HAVANA, June 13.—The Post publishes a sensational story connected with the postal frauds. It says it has an attested communication from Frederick Spencer, the hospital nurse who attended Inspector Maynard during his last illness alleging that the patient was called upon by two postal officials who persuaded him, when he was in a semiconscious state, to sign important documents. The next day he died.

Two men holding such positions as those held by the callers would not have risked contracting yellow fever for any matter. Spencer, the paper announces, gives the names of the men in question, but The Post does not publish them, simply saying that both are prominently connected with the postal frauds. Many Contesting Delegations.

DEMOCRATS ARE AGITATED Prolonged Session of Supreme Court

Causes Comment.

RALEIGH, June 13 .- There is a great deal of talk among Democrats regarding the prolonged session of the supreme court and the fact that since it stopped hearing arguments it has actually filed fewer opinions than it did previously. The session is the longest in the history of the state. It now appears that it will extend beyond the time fixed for the legislative session.

There is no hesitation in saying that this delay is for a purpose and the Democratic members of the legislature say they will not adjourn sine die so long as the court is in session. It is said further that if time permitted the court would be impeached for usurpation of the powers delegated to the legislature. The majority of the court is Republican, that of the legislature Democratic. It is known to the Democrats that the Republicans' and Populists' plan is to secure injunctions to interfere with the operations of the new election law, and they will this week so complete that law as to checkmate any court from tying it

Cervera's Fleet.

WASHINGTON, June 18 .- The United States court of claims has passed upon the suit of Admiral W. T. The Spanish squadron is found by the court to have been inferior to the American force and a bounty of $100 therefore was awarded for every officer and man under Admiral Cervera's command.

The total amount of bounty money allowed is $166,700, of which Admiral Sampson will receive $8,335, and Admiral Schley about $3,000. Besides finding that Admiral Sampson was in command during the battle, the court declares that the New York was among the vessels engaged.

LORD ROBERTS MEETS BOTHA IN BATTLE

British Troops Attack Boers Near Pretoria.

MADE STUBBORN DEFENSE

Burghers Occupied Strong Position and Fought Desperately - Forced Back After Several Hours of Heavy Fighting.

LONDON, June 18 .- After a week's silence Lord Roberts has been heard from, his line of communications having been restored by a complete victory gained by Generals Methuen and Kitchener over General Dewett at the Rheinoster river. The Boer camp was captured and the burghers, it is added, were scattered in all directions. Lord Roberts, on being notified of the cutting of his line of communications sent Kitchener to join Methueb.

Lord Roberts attacked General Botha, who was in strong force 15 miles south of Pretoria, June 11. After strenuous opposition the British forces gained considerable ground, but General Botha, when Lord Roberts left the field, was still undefeated.

All is quiet at Pretoria and Johannes burg, and Lord Roberts says the government need have no apprehension about the security of the army in South Africa, as it will not take long to remedy the reverses and repair the railroad. A lengthy dispatch has been received by the war office from Lord Roberts which reads as follows:

Disposition of the Forces. "After surrendering the city Botha retired to a place about 15 miles east on the Middleburg road. He had a small force at first, but during the last few days his numbers increased and his being so near the town kept up the excitement in the country, prevented the burghers from laying down their arms and interfered with the collection of supplies. It therefore became necessary to attack him. This I did. He held a very strong position, practically unassatlable in front, which enabled him to place the main portion of his troops on his flanks, which he knew from former experiences were his vulnerable parts. I sent French's infantry and Dickson's cavalry brigade and Hutton's mounted infantry round by our left and Ian Hamilton, with Broadwood and Gordon's cavalry brigade. Ridley's mounted infantry and Bruce Hamilton's infantry brigade round our right. Both columns met with great opposition. At about 3 in the afternoon I saw two of Hamilton's infantry battalions advancing to what appeared to be the key of the enemy's defense on their left flank. This was almost gained before dark and I ordered the force to bivouac on the ground

"Pole-Carew, with his division, occupied our left. "As I have explained, he could not attack, but he gradually advanced so as to support Ian Hamilton, and when I left the field he was on the line held by the enemy's outposts in the morning. "I hurried back to get the news of Methuen's movement. On hearing that Free Staters had taken advantage of our crossing the Vaal to interrupt our line of communication I sent Kitchener with such troops as I could then spare to Verdefort with orders to push through and communicate with Methuen, who I knew had a very compact force in the vicinity of Heilbron. Methuen Defeats Dewett.

"I also dspatched a special messenger to Methuen, instructing him to push on at all speed to the main line of railroad. These two officers met at Vredefort on the evening of June 10. They marched to Rheinoster river, where Methuen gained a complete victory over Dewett and took possession of his camp and scattered his troops in all directions. He and Kitchener then marched toward Kroonstadt. "The enemy gained a slight success which was unfortunate, but will be remedied very shortly, and it will not take long to remedy the damage done to the railway. As these diversions are all in existence I am now able to hold the line between this and Rheinoster in strength. "Our losses were not, I trust, serious, but I deplore the death of that gallant soldier, the Earl of Airlie. Other casnalties are:

"Seventeenth Lancers - Major the Hon. Lionel Fortescue and Lieutenant the Hon. C. Cavendish, both killed." The result of the battle between Lord Roberts' forces and those of General Botha is eagerly awaited here, but it is believed the Boer commander will only complete his retirement, which he seems to have already commenced, though there is some hope in London that Lord Roberts will be able to surround him. A dispatch from Joubert's farm anconness the continuation of Buller's successful march, the occupation of Volksrust without opposition and the capture of a number of prisoners, while
