A Girl With Crit.

The name of Rosa Weis ought to be dear to every ambitious American girl. Not content with the ordinary education which she received, she was anxious to get a college education, and one day spoke to her brother about it. He told her he was not able to pay the fees, but taking a nickel out of his pocket, he jestingly said: "Go on that." Even a jest will sometimes serve as an incentive, and the girl took her brother at his word. She took the nickel and went out and bought a yard of calico. With it she made a sunbonnet which she sold for a quarter. That quarter she invested in more calico and more sunbonnets. Then she sold them to buy still more calico for more sunbonnets. She also made aprons. In this way she soon had a little pile of dollars at her command. Her brother was so pleased that he gave her some land on which, with the assistance of a little boy, she cultivated potatoes. In the first year out of that little patch she made $40, and as she got on she was able to pay her expenses at college by her exertion, and she entered the medical college at Baltimore, where she paid for tuition by nursing, and today she is a physician with an excellent practice.—N. Y. News.

Selium, the Newest Metal.

Brooklyn Eagle.

The announcement comes from Germany that a Frenchman, Ed. ward Mollard, has reported to the State Department the discovery of another metal. The new metal is called selium and is both lighter and stronger than aluminum. Its hardness is not quite equal to iron, but is greater than zinc, and its power of resistance ranks between iron and steel. The greatest advantage of the new metal is its cost of production, which is only about one twentieth that of aluminum. Selium does not corrode and is capable of a very high polish. The former quality is an important requisite in ship building, while the latter makes the new metal exceptionally suited for cooking utensils.

Numerous experimenters have tried to obtain a metal as light as aluminum, but one which would possess greater rigidity. At first magnalium, which is a combination of aluminum and magnesium, seemed to fulfil these conditions, but a few trials proved that it possessed a very short grain, which destroyed all elasticity. In other words, the metal was capable of sustaining a strong pressure, but breaks easily.

Such a metal, therefore, as selium, possessing the good qualities of aluminum, together with the strength, rigidity and the quality of receiving a high polish, can scarcely help becoming a strong commercial factor, especially when the low cost of production is considered. It is to be hoped that selium possesses all the advantages claimed for it.

The Boll Weevil.

Mr. Thos. McLendon came home Friday from a visit over in Richmond county. He brought us three stalks of cotton, from three different fields near Pegues, and there was not a single boll on three stalks but what had been destroyed by the weevil or fly that stings the boll. He says cotton was faring badly where he went. So far but few have reported its appearance in this county.—Marlboro Democrat.

Our esteemed contemporary is mistaken as to the pest he has reference to. It is not the boll weevil but the fungus or germ anthracnose. It can be largely avoided by planting seed from uninfected fields.

Letter to Dr. J. M. Stanfill
Rockingham, N. C.

Dear Sir: You understand chemistry; how'd you like to earn $1000?

Devoe lead-and-zinc—that's the name of our paint that takes fewer gallons than mixed paint and wears twice as long as lead-and-oil—is made white-lead, white-zinc, its color, turpentine dryer, and linseed oil.

If any chemist find any adulteration in this paint we'll pay his bill and $1000 besides.

It's nobody's business what we put in our paint, of course; but we want it known. For lead-and-zinc and linseed oil, ground together by machinery, are the stuff to paint with; and lead-and-oil mixed is not.

We want it known that one word describes the best paint in the world; and that word is Devoe.

Are you going to paint.

Yours truly,
F. W. Devoe & Co
New York.

A Tribute to Red-Headed Folks.

Charlotte Observer.

"I'll tell you one thing you never saw," said the observant resident, "You never saw a red headed beggar and nobody else ever saw one. In all my life I never saw a thrifless red headed man or woman, and all red headed people are the soul of energy and all of 'em have nerves. And temper! Say, a fully inhabited hornets' nest hasn't a keener sense of resentment than a red headed temperament. And you never saw a red headed woman with a lazy husband, or a red headed man with a lazy wife. No sir; red heads surcharge all the surrounding atmosphere with activity. I have the greatest respect and admiration for red headed people, and the only reason I never tried to marry a red headed woman is that I don't like husbands who are afraid of their wives."

Mrs. J. C. Hall Struck by Lightning.

Mr. W. A. Barrett, of Star, writes us that while Mrs. J. L. Hall was passing through a skirt of woods, she was struck by lightning and rendered unconscious for some time. The current struck a nearby tree and cut it off. Mrs. Hall's hair was singed, her body blistered in places, and her inner sole torn from her shoe. She fell in a ravine where she lay for some time, drenched by the falling rain and covered with the drifting trash, when she regained consciousness, she managed to get out of the ravine but could not get home. She remained near the place where she was struck until her daughter, Miss Ida, discovered her in a helpless condition. A doctor was summoned and she is now on the road to recovery.—Troy Examiner.

Killed Herself Shouting.

Burlington News.

Martha Burton, colored, shouted herself to death last Monday night during the protracted meeting which is being conducted at the colored Methodist church here. It seems her daughter had just professed religion, and the sight did her mother so much good that she arose and began to shout violently, and by so doing brought on heart failure. It was thought that she had fainted, and a doctor was sent for, but when he arrived it was found that the woman was dead. She was an old-time darkey, well known here, and was a member of the church, in good and regular standing.

THE BOLL WEEVIL.

It is Damaging Cotton in Eighty-five Texas Counties.

Austin, Tex., Aug.—The cotton boll weevil is committing ravages in nearly every part of the Texas cotton belt, according to reports here. Three weeks ago conditions were very favorable for one of the largest cotton yields ever produced in this state. It was then freely predicted by experts that the yield would exceed four million bales. As a matter of fact no reliable estimate can be made of the yield at this time. The damage which has been wrought by the cotton boll weevil is an unknown quantity. The pest is now doing great damage to cotton in 85 of the cotton producing counties. There are about 120 cotton growing counties in the state and not more than ten are entirely free from the weevil. In many localities the weevil has appeared in the fields within the last ten days, and in that short period the new squares and bolls have been destroyed.—Morning Post.
