CLAUDE KITCHIN

House Leader, who was renominated by a safe majority in Second District.

Enthusiastically Received by Large Crowd of Southerners at Arlington Cemetery.

Washington--President Wilson attended the Memorial exercises held in the Confederate section of Arlington National Cemetery, but did not speak. His appearance was unexpected as he had previously announced that he would be unable to attend. He was enthusiastically greeted by a large crowd of Southerners.

The exercises were impressive in their simplicity. Senator Vardaman, orator of the occasion, paid tribute to the Confederate soldier and the self-sacrificing women of the South. Defending the right of the Southern States to secede he declared the answer to the question "Is it well that the Confederacy failed?" rested with the future and the way the general government used its power. He said he would rather be a free citizen of a Democracy like Switzerland than "the slave of a militarism such as Germany's."

A beautiful floral Southern cross was unveiled at the base of the Confederate monument after which flowers were strewn over the graves of the South's dead, including that of Gen. Joseph Wheeler.

Secretary and Mrs. Daniels occupied seats at the speaker's platform behind the president. The United States Marine Band played during the exercises which were under the auspices of the Confederate Veterans' Association, the Sons of Confederate Veterans, the United Daughters of the Confederacy and the Southern Relief Society of Washington.
