

Probably No Further Call For Drafted Men Before October 1

Call for 40 per cent on September 19 Annulled and New Date not Yet Announced. Ten Days Notice Will be Given. Orders Now Are that no Colored Men will be Called at Present

Halifax County Board Completes Quota

Halifax County has completed its quota for the first draft, the Exemption Board having certified to date 331 men to the District Board at Goldsboro. The county's quota is only 361 men, but it is probable that some of the men certified will be discharged on appeals to the District Board.

A list of the men certified since the last list appeared in the HERALD will be given in our issue of next week.

Out of the two hundred men called last Wednesday, 175 appeared for examination, 125 passed the physical requirements, and 91 of these 125 filed claims for exemption.

The call for mobilization at Columbia of 40% of the Halifax county quota on September 19 has been annulled and it is not known exactly when the call will be made. It is probable that it will be October 3. Ten days notice must be given before the call.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE BREAKS RECORD

Will Pass 800 Mark. High School Course Extended. Grammar Grades Reorganized. Efficiency in All Branches. S. F. Patterson Donates Play Ground Apparatus

SCHOOL MOVING PICTURE CIRCUIT

The Roanoke Rapids Graded Schools opened Wednesday with the largest enrollment for the first day in the history of the school. The number present being 766. Already this number has been increased and when the new pupils are all registered next Monday the enrollment will doubtless pass the 800 mark. This compared with the enrollment last year indicates the rapid growth of the school. The total enrollment for the first month last year was only 701. The enrollment for the entire district this year including both white and colored will pass the 1000 mark.

The school begins this year with a great many of the old teachers retained. The number of teachers is increased to 20 and the work of the high school is extended to form a full four year high school course. As far as possible only teachers who have college training and some experience have been employed. The school begins this year's work with the best teaching force it has ever had. With these well trained and experienced teachers this should be the best year of the school.

In the high school the course of study has been extended to fulfill all the requirements for entrance into any A grade college. After this year our high school graduates will be able to enter college or university without conditions and without examinations. The High School teachers are Mr. H. J. Pope, Principal and teacher of Mathematics and Science; Miss Mary B. Powell, teacher of History and English; Miss Helen Weaver, teacher of Latin and Modern Languages.

In the Grammar Grades the departmental plan of instruction has been adopted. In this way a teacher can specialize on certain subjects and all her work being along the same line she can become more proficient. Miss Roberta Crews will teach Arithmetic and Drawing; Miss Josephine Boyce will have the English department; Mr. Holland Brantley, Science and Penmanship; Miss Lillian Edgerton, History.

In the Primary department a new department has been introduced, in the form of an ungraded class. The purpose of this class will be to assist in the regrading and classifying of those children who are for any reason behind in this work. Every year there are a number of children who lose from one week to one month from school or who are late in entering. It is the purpose of these ungraded classes to take these children and give them individual attention until they are able to keep up with the grades in which they normally belong. Miss Clara Hearne will have charge of the ungraded class at the Central Building and Miss Julia Black will have the class at the Rosemary Building.

The other teachers are Miss Sarah Waller, third grade; Miss Lily Strauther and Miss Elmyra Jenkins, second grade; Miss Myrtle Bain and Miss Vivian Gary, first grade for the Central building. Miss Sue Watkins, third grade; Miss Alice Medlin and Miss Mary Smith, second grade; Miss Lucy Ellis and Miss Lorraine Isley, first grade; Miss Mizelle, fourth grade for the Rosemary building.

Through the generosity of Mr. S. F. Patterson the Central building will be supplied this year with a complete set of playground apparatus. Instruction in games and physical culture is to be made a part of the regular work of the school. Mr. Patterson is always ready to help the school and the community and he could hardly have rendered a better service to the community than by making this gift.

It is also planned to enter into a circuit of schools in Eastern North Carolina whereby instruction may be given through the medium of motion pictures. Some of the towns included in this circuit are Raleigh, Wilson, Tarboro, Rocky Mount, Washington, Greenville, Louisburg and Roanoke Rapids.

Mr. John Armstrong Chaloner has donated to the school an Edison Talking Machine and gives $50 annually for the purchase of new records.

Stanley-Baird

Miss Sarah Louise Stanley, daughter of Mrs. M. L. Stanley, of Roanoke Rapids, and Mr. Richard S. Baird, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Baird, of Vulture, were quietly married at the home of the bride's mother on last Wednesday afternoon at 2:30.

The simple home ceremony was performed by Rev. C. H. Trueblood of the Baptist Church, in the presence of a few intimate friends. The bride was dressed in a blue coat suit, white gloves and black pattern hat. Misses Sallie Newton and Maude Wilkinson were the bridesmaids, while the groomsmen were Messrs. Mason Faison and George Stanley. Mr. and Mrs. Baird left immediately after the ceremony for Norfolk and Richmond, where they will spend several days. They will make their home in Roanoke Rapids. Both Mr. and Mrs. Baird are well known here. The bride is a graceful and accomplished young woman and is very popular. The groom has lived here seven years and is employed by the Roanoke Mills Company in a responsible capacity.

POLICE COURT FACTS AND FIGURES

New Chief of Police has Strenuous Week in Enforcement of New Traffic Ordinance

Chief C. G. Hamlet has had a most strenuous week. Enforcement of the new traffic ordinance, to which he has paid special attention has been a herculean task, but one which he has so far very vigorously and satisfactorily performed. Auto drivers are beginning to locate the right side of the street on which to stop, there is little turning around in mid-blocks, and rear lights are receiving an altogether unwonted degree of attention.

The cases disposed of by His Honor for this week are:

Daniel Curry, influence of whiskey, $1.00 and costs.

Sam Marks, running without rear light, $1.00 and costs.

Duke Ingraham, running without rear light, $1.00 and costs.

Leslie Towle, driving in excess of speed limit, $1.00 and costs.

Sam Marks, being under the influence of whiskey, $1.00 and costs.

E. R. Moore, being under the influence of whiskey, $1.00 and costs.

H. E. White, driving in excess of speed limit, $1.00 and cost.

J. M. Martir, running without rear light, $1.00 and cost.

All cases were submitted and light fines were imposed on this account.

DIRTY DISHWASHING DANGEROUS TO HEALTH

Noted Lecturer Raps Housewives, Soda Fountains and Restaurants. Says Average Home is Unsafe

"Dirty Dishwashing" was the subject of one of the lectures of a noted dietitian, who didn't mind telling even expert housewives of the dirty, insanitary practices that went on daily in their kitchens. And she didn't stop with the housewives and kitchens but rapped the soda fountains and the restaurants to the health of the people who patronized them. In a recent lecture to would-be-cooks and observing housekeepers, she said:

"The average home represented here this morning is absolutely unsafe as far as cleanliness of the dishes is concerned, I dare say that many of them are positively dangerous. I have been in many a 'well to do' home and found that if the housewife kept a kitchen maid, that she paid no attention whatever to the way the dishes were washed, and if she didn't keep a maid, she washed them no better herself.

"There seems to be an almost universal belief that lukewarm water, a little soap and any kind of an old rag will clean dishes. People don't seem to know that to actually clean dishes, particularly cups, glasses, forks and spoons, of dangerous mouth secretions, which is the means of spreading most of our contagious diseases from tuberculosis to whooping cough, that it is necessary to scald them. Some people for fear of breaking their glasses never scald them. They don't know that if water is poured on the outside and inside at the same time, so that the glass expands evenly on both sides, that there is no danger of breaking them.

Recently I helped a friend to wash her dishes after she had given a party including 60 people. Several women in the crowd had colds, and part of the gossip of the afternoon was that two others had tuberculosis. All that my friend did was to wash them through a dirty, soapy water and give them to me dry in a much used drying towel. When I remonstrated with her for not scalding them, she called me a crank.

It is not only practicable but it saves labor to have a pan or pot of boiling water in which to dip the dishes, especially the cups, knives, forks and spoons, after they have been washed. This saves drying them and leaves them clean and glistening, and is easily done by arranging them in wire baskets.

"Perhaps the worst of dangerous, dirty dishes are those served you at the soda fountains and some quick lunch counters. I have never understood why the government legislated against the common drinking cup and allowed soda fountains to serve out of dishes and spoons unsterilized. I have watched many a counter-man wash spoons which he did by dipping them in cold water and wiping them in a dirty towel hanging by his side or under the counter. But the public seems satisfied and that is why such practices are allowed, I guess. It is no wonder that diseases spread in mysterious ways."
