A Touch of Nature.

The scene is a crowded bus. A soldier, back from the trenches, sitting in a corner near the entrance, puts his hand into his pocket for his fare, and pulls out a shilling and some coppers. The bus jolts violently and, to the soldier's dismay, the shilling slips from his fingers just as lights go out, as they always do in London, on these days, when a bridge is being crossed. The passengers with one accord begin to grope for the soldier's shilling. "Fraid it rolled off, mate," says the conductor. Then lights go up again. and discover three passengers each holding out the shilling.—Christian Science Monitor.

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected

An examining physician for one of the prominent life insurance companies, in an interview of the subject, made the as-tonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are reso many applicants for insurance are re-jected is because kidney trouble is so com-mon to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease Ave the disease. Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that so one realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable second of success. We find that Swamp-Root is strictly an herbal compound and we would ad-vise our readers who feel in meed of such a remedy to give it a trial. ROAD BUILDING LARGE TASK

President of National Highwaya Asso-ciation Tells How a Great Sys-tem Can Be Built.

Thanks to the pushful, pervasive motor car, American road building has 'got a move on" at last. There is evwhere the cry for roads. The drawback has been that, as yet, there has been no co-ordination of these multinous enterprises. The president of the National Highways association. Charles Henry Davis, in a recent paper stated that we spent last year $249,-305.907, or more than two-thirds the total of money expended so far on the construction of the Panama canalfor road improvements throughout the country. Mr. Davis' contention is that good roads, roads that run for thou-sands of miles through state after state, are, properly, not the responsi-bility of the state of the bility of the state, but of the nation. He would have the federal government build a system of national roads join-West with the East, the North and the South, connecting every part of the country, as is the case with the national highways of Europe, and, as history shows, such as was the essenequipment of every first-class tinl power of the past, according to the ston Evening Transcript.

How would such an enorma struction be paid for and kept up? "Suppose," asks this eminent engi-neer, "the government built 108,000 miles of property planard roads, and at the same time purchased, say, 300

SCOUTS AT FORT SHERIDAN

"Re prepared." is the scout motto and Judging by the way the boy scouts detailed at Fort Sheridan conducted themselves, they live up to it. When nearly four thousand candidates ar-rived at the training camp, the scouts' work had been so thoroughly organized and planned that there was no confu-sion. Every boy had received careful instruction in his duties and had been required to memorize the correct an-swers to some of the more common questions of candidates. The boys went on duty at seven in the morning. and many did not leave their posts except for meals until nine at night. "From the time the candidates got off the trains to the time they were issued their uniforms, they saw scouts. asked questions of scouts, and learned to depend upon scouts for nearly all their information," said Captain Kee-ley. At the railway stations all trains cere met by the boys and the candldates were directed to the registration office. There other scouts heiped to keep them in line and directed them to their companies after they had been assigned.

Of course, besides these special jobs, the scouts carried on their regular work of acting as orderlies at the adjutant's office, quartermaster's office, office of the senior instructor, and at many of the company headquarters. The scouts had a house in officers' row for their own use.

INCREASED VALUE OF FARMS

Influence of Road Improvement on Ru-ral Property is Described by Bal-timore Financier.

The influence of road improvements on the value of rural property was de scribed in a letter recently sent to the Manufacturers' Record by the president of the Balamore Commercial bank, who wrote: "Around my home town in Virginia property could be bought three years ago for $60 to $80 an acre. We put a fine road several miles through that county, and today you cannot buy anything for less than $100, and some is held at $150 per acre."

This whole country will some of these days be a net-work of good roads, which will have a place on the maps along with the railroads. The Lincoin highway linking the East and the West, the Jefferson highway, link-ing the lakes and the guif, and the Dizie Overland highway, are a beginning.

SCOUTING SPIRIT DID IT.

With every reason to feel proud of membership in the Boy Scouts of America because of the gracious words of President Wilson as well as the commendation of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, it behooves all in scouting to guard against having this very thing a negative influence to boys. The spirit that should be encouraged is often expressed by the scout who is doing a heroic act or an especially meritorious good turn makes light of the effort to bestow praise upon him and dismiss the subject with the characterization, "Oh, shucks! any scout would do this," or "I was simply doing my duty." After all, the achievement was made possible because of two factors: first. organization, and, second, the spirit of scouting.

AMONG THE SCOUTS.

At a warmeeting in historic Fanuell hall in Boston of nurses that have served in the Spanish-American war a squad of boy scouts assisted in many helpful ways. Their knowledge of forestry and
