War conditions demand an increase numbers and efficiency. There should be 2,000,000 Boy Scouts of America in the country. There would be that number if men who may not go to the front would undertake at home this work of practical patriotism. The boys who are not yet scouts are just as anxious to serve the nation as the boy scouts who are.

The president of the United States has given scouting a definite place in the national affairs.

BOY SCOUT GOOD TURNS.

The Richmond commission on training camp activities has made public the result of the count taken to ascertain how many soldiers from Camp Lee come to Richmond to spend Saturday night and Sunday. Through an arrangement with the boy scouts all entrances to the city were posted and a close check was kept on all visitors. It showed that 2,225 soldiers came in, and there will be an increase in the town's transportation facilities. Members of boy scout troop in Evansville, Ind., have sold 42 dozen United States flags in their canvass of homes for fing display pledges. The scouts ask every household and busi-ness house to display the fings and are elling to those whom they find with-

GOOD ROADS OF THE FUTURE

Steps Should Be Taken Immediately Keep Them in Condition.

While we have a very considerable mileage of so-called good roads in this country, it is an undoubted fact that the greater portion are not of a character to sustain successfully the heavy motor truck traffic that is now appear ing on them, and which will certainly increase rapidly in the near future hould be at once taken to formulate systematic plan not only to provide w roads, adapted to the new traffic but to maint in them in operative con for the re-building of much of the older mileage. What the nature of the construction of these new reads shall be is a matter for the engineers to solve. but there is no question but that there must be better drainage, better mate rial and very much heavier foundations than have ordinarily prevailed in the past, especially as with smooth road surface the speed of these trucks is sure to be greatly increased. England has had her experience in this matter for, what with heavy traffic added to lack of maintenance, on account of war necessities, there is hardly a main road in the country that is not utterly worn out, although they have been accustomed to build much more heavily than we have in the United States. GUIDE FOR ROAD ENGINEERS

Office of Public Roads and Rural Engineering Makes Public Desirable Standarde.

(Prepared by the United States Depart-ment of Agriculture.) In order to assist in bringing about greater uniformity in the highways of the country and to aid the better roads movement in some states, the office of public roads and rural engineering of the United States department of agriculture has published standard forms for specifications. standard methods of testing materials, standard forms for reporting test results, and standard methods of samp ling materials. The publication of the standards was made desirable by the necessity for co-operative work by the of the federal aid conference particlpated in by representatives of the office of public roads and rural engineering and of a large number of the states. They are published as de-partment bulletin No. 555 of the United States department of agriculture.

MORE GOOD ROADS REQUIRED

Necessary to Handle Commerce on Ac count of Inadequate Railroad Transportation.

Railroad transportation is inade quate to handle our commerce, and good ropds must be constructed rapdly and comprehensively that truck lines running on regular schedule with stations and terminal facilities, may be established to take care of the immense productions of the land. Production beyond local needs becomes an economic loss if the things produced cannot be delivered to the factory or consumer safely and profitably.

INTERESTED IN GOOD ROADS

Mileage of Gravel and Stone Highways Increasing—Automobile of Great Assistance,

There is widespread and increasing interest in good roads in Illinois The main traveled highways especially are wide, well graded and well dragged: The mileage of gravel and stone roads is increasing, and a good deal of hard acter is being built. The advent of the automobile has done much to make good roads enthusiasts of farmers, and with their active interest the work of improvement is progressing rapidly.

Increase Land Values.

Every acre of hand lying near good roads is easily a valuable, available asset, while mud-bound land is unprofitable except for the unsociable mon and the sociable boot owls and predajory wild animals.
