Made Me a Well Man

Mr. Louis Young, 1652 Clifford St., Rochester, N. Y., writes: "I suffered for thirty years with chronic bowel trouble, stomach trouble and hemorrhages of the bowels. We bought a bottle of Peruna and I took it faithfully, and I began to feel better. My wife persuaded me to continue, and I took it for some time as directed. Now I am a well man."

Suffered thirty years with stomach trouble and hemorrhages of the bowels.

Important to all Women

Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Insist on "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" in a "Bayer package" containing proper directions for Colds, Pain, Headache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, and Rheumatism. ARE RULED BY SUPERSTITION

Almost Every Act of a Roumanian, From the Cradle to the Grave, is Thus Guided.

WELL CALLED AGE OF GLASS

Compilation of a Few Facts Shows How Dependent This Generation is on That Material.

Roumanian is one of the favorite homes of superstition, where superstitions accompany life literally from the cradle to the grave. Before a child is christened it must undergo the important ceremony of its first bath, given in a huge wooden bowl, which also serves as its cradle, at the home of its godmother. If it is a boy there must be poured into the bath a symbolic mixture of corn, wine and honey; if a girl the bath must contain feathers from the wings of a dove and petals of a rose to serve as a prayer to the Three Spinners, believed to be weaving the child's destiny, that her footsteps through life may be as soft as a dove and her face as fair as a flower. A book, a loaf of bread and a rod are offered a boy. If he chooses the book he will be a scholar; if the rod, which is laid on his back, he will be a ne'er-do-well, is the belief.

When a man dies there must be placed in his coffin a comb, a bit of soap and a coin to pay the fee due Charon, to ferry him over the River Styx.

Without glass elderly persons would be unable to read or sew, short-sighted persons would go about almost blind. Without glass we should know nothing more about the stars than was known by the ancients, nothing about the structure of matter, and we should not even suspect the existence of microbes.

Without glass we should have no photographs, no moving pictures and no illustrations in our newspapers. Without glass we could have no electric light bulbs, no X-rays, no colored windows in our churches, no thermometers or barometers.

Without glass chemists would use porcelain containers, we should drink out of metal or china mugs, we should let the light into our houses through sheets of mica.

"Glass," says the Scientific American, "has been known from antiquity, but its common use is comparatively recent. This has been spoken of as the age of steel; it might equally be pronounced the age of glass."

In the Hospital. "The girl patient over yonder is light-headed, doctor. Will she die?" "She's dyed already to get it that color, nurse."

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

SCOUT DOG AWAIT'S MASTER

Do you think a dog has a heart that hangs heavy when sadness comes, even so human hearts are laden with the coming of adversity? And do you suppose that canines weep when suns of happiness set and fall to rise?

Then give a thought to Jerry, the once frisky little Airedale with the wettest nose in all the world and the most beloved dog in Kansas. Jerry doesn't run around any more, nor does he find delight in rubbing up against the little tots whom he still must love.

He just sits with his little heart bursting, waiting for the return of the best pal he ever had, Paul Jeffords, whose scout uniform is laid away—never again to be worn.

For Paul is dead. If Jerry could read, he'd find the story in the reports of the war department—particularly in the short one which says: "Corporal Paul Jeffords, One Hundred and Thirty-seventh Infantry, killed in action in the Argonne Forest."

But Jerry doesn't know that. He's waiting, even though the papers have told him that Paul, true scout that he was, went West in the glory of scout-like heroism; that he cast himself through fire to certain death, dying for duty; that General Pershing himself hallowed his memory by rewarding him posthumously with the distinguished service cross.

But dogs can't read; so Jerry just sits on his hind paws and wails, sniffing hopefully day in and day out. Perhaps, up there, Paul, too, is waiting.

True friends are ever true.

PUBLIC HIGHWAYS

FINDING WEAR OF HIGHWAYS

Instrument Recently Designed and Made to Determine Wear of Concrete and Other Roads.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Every user of concrete and other improved highways will be interested in an instrument which has recently been designed and made in the research division of the bureau of public roads, for measuring wear of concrete and other surfaces. It is anticipated that from readings made with this instrument a large amount of valuable data may be collected not only regarding concrete roads, but also concerning brick, macadam, and other types of surfaces. The instrument consists essentially of two bearing plates each 2 inches in diameter, pivoted on uniform joints to a spanner 1 1/2 inches long. In the mid point is mounted a micrometer whose plunger has a travel of 1 inch and whose dial is graduated to read to one one-thousandth of an inch. In order to form a base to which measurements can be referred from year to year, brass plugs are set in the pavement where readings are desired. Readings are taken by resting the bearing plates on the road's surface and allowing the plunger to rest on the base plate of the plug. The instrument is plumbed with the aid of a level and the spanner bar is held parallel to the center line of the road. Other readings may be taken with the bar at right angles to the center line of the road.

An important advantage of this instrument is that accurate data can be acquired rapidly and without interrupting traffic. The base plate in the pavement is protected between readings by covering it with cotton waste and tamping with putty. The brass plugs are readily set in any pavement while it is being laid, and at any future time by drilling holes with star drills and setting the plug in cement grout.

SCOUT EXHIBIT FOR K. OF C.

The national movement looking to the organization of troops of the Boy Scouts of America in Catholic churches was given impetus in Louisville, Ky., by an official demonstration under the auspices of Louisville council, Boy Scouts of America, in the Knights of Columbus building.

The demonstration was arranged by the local organization of the Knights of Columbus as a result of a public letter, in which Cardinal Gibbons, the great Catholic leader in America, praised the good work of the boy scout movement and urged the formation of scout troops in Catholic churches whenever feasible.

Louisville has for some time had a scout troop in a Catholic church, this being the St. Francis of Rome church in the East end, and enjoyed the distinction of being one of a very few cities in America boasting scout units of this kind.

SCOUT OFFSETS SNAKE BITE

Bitten by a copperhead snake while picking raspberries near his home, near Northumberland, Pa., Myron Hopewell, seven years old, was saved from death by the prompt action of his brother, David Hopewell, fifteen years old.

The child was standing far in among the bushes, when he felt a twinge of pain, and looking down saw the snake with his fangs fast in his foot.

His brother attracted by his screams ran to his aid and killed the snake, which was two feet long. He then cut the skin on the boy's foot where the fangs entered, causing it to bleed freely.

Doctors say this saved the boy's life, and he did not get sick as a result of the reptile's attack. David Hopewell is a boy scout and learned his first aid methods while a member of the Northumberland troop.

WHAT KEEPS SCOUTS BUSY.

Scout Troop No. 5 of Highland Park, Mich., were the first ones to clear the ground for the new church home.

Scouts in Los Angeles collected tons of brush seed to be used in sowing over a burned area with a view to recreating the growth of brush which retards water flow.

The unsightly ruins left after a big fire in Catskill, N. Y., were such an eyesore that the boy scouts of Troop No. 1 cleaned up the place as a "good turn" for their city.

Gov. C. J. McCarthy of Hawaii has set aside a parcel of land containing 64.24 acres for the use of the boy scouts of Kilauea council at Hilo.

The Hudson Valley Federated Chambers of Commerce has approved the boy scout movement and pledged its aid to making it a success in all cities along the river.

The central fire department station in Miami, Fla., is going to "daddy" Troop No. 4 of boy scouts. On the troop committee are the captain, a fireman, an inspector and the electrician, and the phone operator is the scoutmaster.

PAY ATTENTION TO ROADSIDE

It Should Be One of First Places by Which Appearance of the Farm is Improved.

Some farmers evidently consider the roadside along their farms as distinctly separate from and wholly outside of their jurisdiction, and any time or labor expended in keeping it up as so much gratuitously donated to the public. Every farmer should consider the roadside along his farm as deserving as much of his attention as the farm itself. He should consider the road the "front way" to his farm, and instead of its receiving secondary attention, it should be one of the first places by which the appearance of the farm is improved.

MOVEMENT TO BETTER ROADS

State of Maine Votes to Increase Bonded Indebtedness From $2,000,000 to $10,000,000.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Maine, by an overwhelming vote, recently endorsed the proposal to raise the bonded indebtedness of state highways from $2,000,000 to $10,000,000, giving an additional $8,000,000 to be spent on the state road system. This is one of the instances showing a country-wide movement for better highways, as reported to the United States department of agriculture, which administers the federal aid road act.

Roads Not Developed. That the roads in this country, although greatly improved since the coming of the automobile, are not yet universally developed to the point where they should be was demonstrated during the stress of war.

Save Truck Owners Money. Truck owners know that good roads not only save them money but the shipper and public as well, because they can make faster time and at a saving in operating expense.

Essentials Are Lacking. It is the exception to find a flock of shut-in hens supplied with sufficient fresh, clean water. Pure air and pure water are the cheapest things poultry require, but how seldom they have either in abundance.

Much Money Wasted. Thousands of dollars of the taxpayer's money are wasted every year in building the wrong kind of roads or in building the right kind of roads in the wrong way.
