MR. B. S. WEBB CUT BY JIM BRIDGERS

Last Saturday night Mr. B. S. Webb reminded Jim Bridgers, who lived in Patterson Mills Village that he still owed him a balance on a purchase and that the same was long past due. Bridgers did not disclaim the debt but refused to pay it. Mr. Webb tried to reason with Bridgers who suddenly attacked him with a knife inflicting an ugly gash in Mr. Webb's left cheek.

Bridgers escaped and has not been apprehended at this writing.

WORK DONE BY THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT DURING MARCH

As usual we have made every effort to give the county health work all the publicity possible in order to have the people take advantage of the health work. During this month we have held nine public meetings with a total attendance of five hundred and ten, at which the Health Officer gave lectures on sanitation how to live, quarantine, etc. We have sent out six hundred and fifty-one letters and had published twenty articles in the county papers.

In the soil pollution unit we have made every effort to have as many sanitary privies built as possible before the typhoid and fly season came. There has been built and licensed in the incorporated towns four hundred and thirty one toilets, and in the county eight hundred and seven-teen, this month.

In the Quarantine unit there has been 40 cases reported and quarantined. These are Chicken Pox 4, Smallpox 4, Scarlet Fever 1, Diphtheria 3, Whooping cough 14, Pneumonia 14, Measles 1. Cases visited by the health Officer as follows, whooping cough 6, Scarlet fever 1, Diphtheria 1, Convict Camp 2, County Home 3, Jail 1.

Thirteen schools have been visited, 90 examination cards have been received, and fifteen children have been examined by the Health Officer. There have been 7 application for physical examination in the life extension work, and four physical examinations made. There have been 353 vaccinated for Small pox, and 12 have been given the tripple Pneumonia vaccine. There have been made 44 market, cafe and other inspections.

We wish to emphasize the fact that every household or parent in whose house a case of contagious disease occurs, are required to report same to the County Health Officer within 24 hours. This is a State Law and is going to be enforced. If the case is seen by a physician this does not apply to the household.

Paul C. Carter Health Officer.

CELEBRATES SIXTH BIRTHDAY

Little Miss Jane Hilton Stainback celebrated her sixth birthday Thursday afternoon at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Stainback. Thirty-six of her little friends were present to help her enjoy the afternoon.

Games and an Easter egg hunt were indulged in by the little ones after which they were invited into the dining room which was prettily decorated for the occasion, and served with ice cream and cake. Upon their departure each little guest was presented with a souvenir - an Easter Rabbit.

COMMUNITY IMPROVMENT LEAGUE MEETS NEXT MONDAY AFTERNOON

The members of the Community Improvement League will please remember that the regular meeting will occur next Monday afternoon at 3:30 in the High School Auditorium. A full attendance of the membership is desired. Several important topics will come up for discussion.

MR. J. T. CHASE RESIGNS AS MAYOR

Accepted Appointed On Road Commission Succeeding Mr. Jno. L. Patterson, Dr. T. W. M. Long Elected Mayor

Mr. J. T. Chase has resigned as Mayor of Roanoke Rapids, Mr. Chase resigned to accept an appointment on the Halifax County Road Commission made vacant by the resignation of Mr. Jno. L. Patterson.

Mr. Chase is an engineer of much ability having had much valuable experience in construction work and is a progressive business man. We believe our people and the Road Commission fortunate in the selection of Mr. Chase.

The Board of Town Commissioners elected Dr. T. W. M. Long to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Chase as Mayor, and Mr. Louis Grimmer to fill Dr. Long's place on the Board.

MEAT FEEDS MAKE EGGS

Meat scrap or other animal feed high in protein is the one essential part of the mash which cannot well be omitted, according to A. G. Oliver, Poultry Club Leader for North Carolina. In a recent experiment at the government farm, Beltsville, Md., a pen of pullets on free range which did not get meat scrap or any other animal protein feed, laid only 90 eggs in a year, compared with yields of from 125 to 150 eggs from pens fed rations containing meat scrap.

The eggs from the pen where no meat scrap was included in the ration cost 2.2 cents more a dozen than when the meat scrap was included. Fish meal or fish scrap can be used to replace the meat scrap and compares favorably with a good grade of meat scrap containing the same per cent of protein.

Skim-milk or buttermilk either sweet or sour is excellent for replacing part or all of the meat scrap. The milk may be used in mixing the mash, if a moist mash is fed, or it can be kept before the fowls as a drink. If clabbered and fed thick, or like cheese, hens will eat enough of it to replace all the meat scrap needed. A little bone meal makes an excellent addition to the mash or it can be used to replace part of the meat scrap.

On general farms during the growing months the fowls pick up many bugs and worms which furnish an excellent source of animal protein feed, therefore, they do not need so much beef scrap as hens which do not have a good range, but the bugs do not furnish enough meat feed to give a good egg yield.

The use of table scraps and cooked vegetables also helps to reduce the necessary meat from one-third to one-half, depending on the quantity of meat products in the scraps. The scraps are fed to the best advantage if ground up mixed with the mash and fed moist.

High vegetable protein feeds do not entirely replace meat or animal protein feeds to advantage, but in sections where produced they may be used to replace one-fourth to one-half the meat scraps.

Of the high vegetable protein feeds, cottonseed meal has given the best results followed by peanut meal and soybean meal. Not more than one-tenth of the mash should be composed of cottonseed meal, as the use of a larger proportion cuts down the egg yield materially and may affect the quality of the eggs, producing spots and blotches on the yolk which makes them look bad. Other high vegetable protein feeds which can be used with success for poultry are gluten and linseed meal.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Taylor were pleasantly surprised Wednesday night by the members of All Saints Episcopal Church, who gave them a Pound Party. The cupboard shelves in the new parsonage were well lined with provisions and many sincere good wishes were expressed for the happiness of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor in their new home.
