TAYLOR-LAWSON

At the Baptist parsonage in Greenville, S. C., on last Thursday, April 6th, the beautiful and impressive ring ceremony was used by Rev. J. L. Willis, of the Judson Baptist church, to unite Miss Ruby A. Lawson, of that place, and Mr. Henry C. Taylor, of this town, in marriage.

Attired in a grey poiret twill coat suit trimmed in blue and carrying a bouquet of pink carnations and ferns the bride appeared unusually attractive. The only attendants were Mrs. A. O. Pendleton, a sister of the bride and a resident of this place, and the wife of the pastor.

The bride is a charming young woman, popular in the community in which she lived, and active in the work of her church in that community. She numbers quite many friends here where she has visited with her sister on many occasions. Mr. Taylor is a young man of many sterling qualities, well known among the younger people of the town.

The young couple will be at home to their friends in Roanoke Rapids after April 12th.

POLICE COURT FACTS AND FIGURES

Garland Mayton, charged with the larceny last December of an automobile belonging to Mr. C. A. Wyche, was sent to Halifax jail in default of a three hundred dollar bond for his appearance at the June term of Halifax Superior Court. His alleged accomplice, a son of Eugene Moore, lit out for parts unknown before the officers got to him with a warrant.

Dennis Garner, charged with operating an automobile while drunk, gave $150.00 bond for his appearance at Halifax.

Mary Bowen, charged with swearing, cursing, fighting and being generally disorderly, was discharged upon payment of costs.

Ed Allbrook, charged with being drunk on the streets, was fined $5.00 and costs.

Trusting to Famine for Success

No increased sympathy for the striking coal miners will be created by the tone in which Philip Murray, the Vice President of their union, prophesies that within six weeks the whole country will be feeling the full effects of a fuel famine. This reveals a little too clearly that the strikers are depending for success, not on the reality of their grievances, not on the arguments they can bring to bear on the mine owners and operators, not on the justice of their demands, but upon bringing to pass a public calamity so terrible that imagination shrinks from dwelling on its details.

If the mining of soft coal is not treasured before the exhaustion of the stocks on hand, a nearly complete paralysis of all the fundamental industries except agriculture would follow before many weeks had passed, and, though farming could go on if the railways were stopped, most of us soon would go hungry. And it is to such a state of affairs that Mr. Murray looks forward hopefully!

From the operators come assurances that no coal famine impends, but their words are not particularly convincing, and it is hard to avoid the suspicion that they, too, are depending on the fears of the general public for ultimate victory.

Both parties directly concerned in this momentous struggle put their own interests above all others, and, in spite of their protestations of regret for the consequences of a strike, they either ignore or strive to utilize those consequences for the attainment of their own ends.—New York Times.

Famous Phonograph Star Here Soon

On Saturday, April 22, at the Peoples Theatre will occur the first personal appearance in this city of ADA JONES whom you have heard many times on phonograph records. Miss Jones with her pleasant personality and superior Soprano voice affords the greatest pleasure by her unique character songs and impersonations. She brings with her a company of talented artists. Miss Beth Hamilton is an American Violinist who always arouses enthusiasm from critics and audiences. Her training has been with the most eminent masters of America and Europe. She always reaches her audience with the first draw of her bow. Armstrong "the man of mystery" one of the most versatile, refined and original of entertainers in himself and must be seen and heard to be fully appreciated. Magic is an art that sometimes instructs, often amuses and always entertains. Miss Mabel H. Loomis is the pianist and accompanist and although equipped with the technique of a virtuoso, she uses it only as a means of expressing; this she combines with a musical touch and artistic temperament in such a way as to make piano playing an art. Miss Loomis also renders a number of delightful vocal selections.

Ballad - "That Wonderful Mother of Mine," Goodwin.

Overture - "Spick and Span," Jewell.

Ballad - "Tuck Me to Sleep in My Old Tucky Home," Young.

Overture - "Medley Selection of Plantation Songs," L. Contorno.

March - "Columbia," Goldman.

NEW COMIC FEATURE

"Laugh and the World Laughs with You"; "Weep and You—" (But Why Weep?)

The work of three of the most competent and popular comic artists has been combined in the new comic feature which greets readers of the Roanoke Rapids Herald this week. The feature includes a cartoon by Mr. Kettner, whose pictures are in great demand from coast to coast; a comic by Charles Sughroe, creator of "Mickie, the Printer's Devil," and a comic by L. F. Vann Zelm, who has made a ten-strike with his series, "Aw, What's the Use?"

This is a feature which in its class compares with the best presented by any newspaper, and we are confident that readers of The Herald will appreciate it to the extent that its quality justifies.

It begins in this issue of the The Roanoke Rapids Herald.

MEN'S BIBLE CLASS AGAIN BREAKS RECORD

The Men's Bible Class of the Presbyterian Church smashed some more records with an attendance on last Sunday of 190, crowding the auditorium of the church until chairs had to be placed in the aisles for late comers.

The class contest between the "odds" and "evens" closes next Sunday and the officers of the class are looking forward to another record breaking attendance if the weather is propitious. At present the "odds" are slightly in the lead.

The class is looking forward Sunday with interest to an address by Mr. Geo. A. Lea, of Danville, Va. Mr. Lea is an interesting speaker and those who heard him several weeks ago will be anxious to hear him again. After the Sunday program is over a group picture of the class and its officers will be taken.
