Entertainers Feature Chautauqua Program

Two Plays Head Universal Bill Adventure, Radio and Movies Included.

"The elephants march around. The band begins to play. The boys behind the monkey cage. Had better keep away."

Its really not as bad as that. There is no monkey cage. There are no elephants. There may be no band. But there are lots of boys and girls and men and women getting ready for the Chautauqua of Rosemary and Roanoke Rapids. They are getting out their best clothes. They are scraping together their dimes and quarters for the season tickets. In every way they are preparing for the best time Chautauqua has ever given them for they know that very early Monday morning the big "Brown Top" will arrive at the Junction and soon the sound of pounding on heavy stakes will be heard from the lot beside the Presbyterian Church. Everybody is planning to go this year, and it is mainly because of the splendid features that are to make up the show. Let us mention just a few.

First thing on the opening day comes the Dunbar Bell Ringers. These four men have one of the finest acts on the stage. They are equipped with over a hundred bells which they manipulate in such a fashion and with such skill that the sweetest music is produced. Nor is this their only accomplishment. They have a repertoire of amusing songs which they deliver with the precision of long practice together. As a further offering they present several popular pieces with the trombone and piano.

This year the Chautauqua Association is attempting something for the first time. They are presenting in addition to all the other acts two plays beside the childrens play. These two plays are "Crossed Wives" and "The Taming of the Shrew". The first is a rollicking comedy of life in a small town in which two young business men switch their job to the delightful entertainment of the audience.

"The Taming of the Shrew" is presented by an experienced company of professionals who understand their parts and read into their lines the shades of meaning and points of humor that the author, Shakespeare, intended.

The childrens play is a pretty pantomime based on the story of the old woman who lived in the shoe. And all the boys and girls are her "so many children she didn't know what to do".

All through the week of Chautauqua from June 18 to the 24 the entertainers come thick and fast. There are the McCords a company whose work is to bring fun to the Chautauqua crowds. And they do it too. They are impersonators and there is also some singing and playing. The Victorian Maids come to us with two concerts. Dressed in their old fashioned costumes they sing and play songs. They make a very quaint picture as they play their instruments the violin, cello, piano and drum. Also with this crowd of entertainers comes the Dunbar Hussar Band the very back bone of Chautauqua week. This band is made up of nine young men who know how to sing and act and play their music with snap and pep that carries their hearers away. The thunders of applause that greet this band every where shows its popularity.

And to add a still more interesting touch to the program, Carveth Wells is to speak the opening night. Mr. Wells is a weeks entertainment himself. He talks—he doesn't lecture on "My Six Years in the Jungle of Malaya". He has his own colored slides which he shows on a screen and he also has moving pictures of a native bull fight and other interesting subjects. In addition to Mr. Wells there is Burnell Ford. Mr. Ford is the radio expert, he has innumerable experi-

HEWITT-MARTIN

In a ceremony characterized by its dignity and beauty, the wedding of Miss Margaret Elaine Hewitt and Mr. Alfred Newman, Martin which took place Tuesday morning at ten o'clock in All Saint's Episcopal Church, was one of unusual charm. Rev. Lewis N. Taylor, rector of the Church, officiated.

As the guests assembled, Miss Sallie Charles Cheatham, of Henderson, N. C., rendered very softly and sweetly the strains of Lohengrin's.

The bridal party came in order, as follows: Ushers, Mr. Ned Manning, of Rosemary and Mr. Lewis Daniel, of Weldon, followed the bridesmaids Miss Florence Bingham and Miss Ruth Transou, of Rosemary, who were both dressed in becoming creations of pink taffeta, colonial style, with bouffant skirts, pink taffeta hats to match and carrying old-fashioned nosegays. The maid of honor, younger sister of the bride came next, Miss Jean Louise Hewitt, gowned in pink georgette over taffeta, with pink poke bonnet and nosegays like the maids, followed by the little flower girl, Helen Martin, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John W. Martin, of Roanoke Rapids and niece of the groom, who wore pink taffeta with poke bonnet, carrying a basket of pink sweet peas, and looking as if she had just stepped from a Burne-Jones picture.

The bride dressed in white satin over draped with georgette and embroidered in pearls and crystal beads, wearing her mother's wedding veil with coronet of old lace, a family heirloom and carrying a white satin prayer book with shower bouquet, looked very lovely as she walked up the aisle with her mother, Mrs. Julia Pool Hewitt, who wore black and white taffeta over draped and embroidered with orchid hat.

The train bearer was Master Wiley Smith, little son of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith, of Goldsboro, who was dressed in page suit of white satin. The bride was met at the chancel steps by the groom attended by his brother Dr. John W. Martin, of Roanoke Rapids. The ribbon bearers were Misses Rosa Heath Long and Betty Gray Long, of Roanoke Rapids.

The Church was beautifully decorated with magnolias, Queen Annie's lace, white flowers, white candles and banks of green foliage.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at the home of the bride and the guests were served chicken salad and mushrooms in timbale, french peas, beaten biscuit, ice cream molds, cakes, flower candies of lilies and roses, salted almonds. Mrs. E. W. Lehman, of Rosemary presided over the punch bowl, and Mrs. T. W. Mullen cut the bride's cake. Mrs. B. W. Beckwith had charge of the bride's register.

The out of town guests were Mr. A. B. Martin, Miss Mary Michie, all of Gordonsville, Va. Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Moody, of Richmond, Dr. and Mrs. William Hopton Smith, of Goldsboro, Mrs. Ceo. B. Morris, of Goldsboro, Mrs. David Poole, of Asheville, Mrs. George Fitz Randolph, of Baltimore, Miss Sallie Charles Cheatham, of Henderson, Mr. G. A. Harris, of Durham, Mr. Brown Jarman, of Elkton, Va.

The presents were both costly and numerous and testified to the popularity of the young couple. Immediately after the reception Mr. and Mrs. Martin left on a bridal trip for Bermuda and will be "at home" after July 1st, Rosemary, N. C.

E. CAROLINA CHAMBER MEETS AT WILLIAMSTON

First of Series of Group Meetings Proves Interesting Event. Gospel of Diversification Being Preached by Bartlett

NEXT MEETING AT S. OTLAND NECK

The first of a series of group meetings to be held by the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of arousing the people in Eastern Carolina to their responsibility to the community in which they live, was held at Williamston recently, with Dr. John D. Biggs, Pres. North Carolina Bankers Association, as the host of the occasion. Dr. Biggs had as his guest on that occasion, the bankers, business men and County Commissioners from Washington County, Bertie County and Martin County, in all about seventy-five of Eastern Carolina's real progressive men who know that Eastern Carolina is the best place in the world and who are willing to aid in letting the other fellow know about this.

The morning program was taken up with an address by the Mayor of Williamston of welcome to the visitors. The Mayor of the bustling little city on the famous Roanoke, made it plain that Williamston is in accord with any movement that means progress for Eastern North Carolina. Following him was an address by Secretary N. G. Bartlett, of the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Bartlett outlined the work of this big organization and pictured Eastern Carolina five years from today in a very vivid manner, provided the citizens of this great section join in the big movement to attract attention to Eastern Carolina. The speaker showed from actual figures how Eastern Carolina has the edge on any other Southern State, so far as marketing their respective diversified farm products. He pointed out that there are 33,000-000 people within thirty six hours ride from the average loading point in Eastern Carolina that must be fed daily on the very products which this section can grow and ought to grow. The speaker appealed to those business men present to lend their influence to make this movement the tremendous success that it should be.

At the noon hour a sumptuous barbecue with cold drinks was served. The afternoon program was as follows: An address by Mr. Carroll, Secretary of the Boat Commission, explaining the manner in which the Boat Commission is getting at the potential water power of Eastern Carolina. Mr. Manning, Editor of the Williamston Enterprise, gave some interesting figures as to the rate of freight being charged on commodities into and out of Williamston. Dr. John D. Biggs made a clear cut appeal to those present to support the work of the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce. Mr. H. H. Clark from Plymouth, gave some interesting facts as to the culture of truck in the Plymouth section. A rising vote of thanks was extended Dr. Biggs for his wonderful hospitality.

Halifax was the first county to take on to the program of the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce, and the citizens of that county are anxious to show their neighboring counties what they have done along this line. A good crowd is expected from the five counties mentioned.

On Saturday afternoon Mrs. T. W. Mullen entertained for Miss Mary Norfleet Grizzard, bride-elect, whose marriage to Mr. Roderick Page Taylor takes place next Tuesday in the First Presbyterian Church, Roanoke Rapids.

The guests were met at the door by Mrs. George L. Hayes. The receiving line consisted of Mrs. James Monroe Grizzard, Miss Mary Norfleet Grizzard, Miss Charlena Hart, Miss Traynham Wyche, Miss Bettie Cooper and Miss Bertha Cox.

Miss Ruth Transou ushered the guests to the dining room, where Mrs. E. W. Lehman, Mrs. M. R. Vick and Mrs. N. R. Andrews, mother of the hostess, served delightful refreshments in the shape of rainbow brick ice cream, heart cakes and mints. As the bride elect has planned a rainbow wedding the whole color scheme to that effect was carried out all over the lower floor. Ten miniature bridesmaids surrounded the centre-piece of gayly covered flowers on the dining room table, where candles and shades reflected a rainbow glow.

The surprise of the evening was in the form of a huge golden wedding bell suspended from the folding doors, under which the bride-to-be was showered with linen from the many guests present.
